TELLS WHY SON-IN-LAW SLEW

LABOR LEADER TELLS BID TO BECOME A RED

U. S. Officials Gave Invitation, He Says.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Ralph Knox of Detroit, a former president of a local of the C. I. O. automobile workers, testified under oath today that two officials of the Roosevelt administration asked him to join the communist party in 1934. Knox is an automobile body plant employé.

Knox told the house committee investigating un-American activities that Ben Wolf, whom he described as a lawyer for the labor board, and a man named Eldridge, who was an official of the NRA, tried to persuade him to join the communist party when he came to Washington on a case before the labor board. He then represented textile workers in Tennessee.

LaFollette Aids Named.

Knox was the second witness before the house committee to link an employé of the labor board with the communists. Yesterday William D. Gernaey, a former investigator for an industrial detective agency, said he was served with a subpena by two employés of the so-called civil liberties committee, headed by Senator Robert M. La Follette [Radical, Wis.], who addressed a group of communists as comrades.

Gernaey named the La Follette investigators as Harold Cranefield, now Detroit regional attorney for the labor board, and Benjamin Allen, who still is employed by the La Follette committee.

Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the committee, read into the record today a telegram from Cranefield denying that he had served Gernaey with a subpena in the Michigan headquarters of the communist party and that he had predicted Gernaey's murder within twenty-four hours.

Forced to Confess Spying.

Gernaey had told the committee that the communists forced him to confess that he was spying upon their activities and that Cranefield, addressing the Reds as comrades, predicted his assassination.

Cranefield said the subpena was served upon Gernaey in the headquarters of a union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Recalled to the stand today, Gernaey repeated emphatically that he was served in the Michigan offices of the communist party at 5969 14th street, Detroit, on the third floor. He said there were no A. F. of L. union offices in the building.

Wine, Women, and Song.

Knox said he was entertained lavishly by government officials when he came to Washington. "They even got a good looking girl for me," he said. "They thought at first that I was a communist and when they found out that I wasn't they asked me to join."

The witness said Wolf and Eldridge introduced him to the girl, to various government officials and to a Donald Henderson, "who told me he just had been fired from Columbia university for practicing communism."

Among others, he said, he was introduced "to a young man who was trying to organize a strike in Hugh Johnson's office." This referred to John Donovan, who was discharged by the NRA personnel director for organizing the employés and fomenting trouble.

Dominated by Reds.

Knox, who was president of the U. A. W. local in the Briggs body plant in Detroit until 1937, said the international union was dominated by a communist minority. He said there were four separate communist groups in the U. A. W.: The Stalinites, favored by the C. I. O.; the Lovestoneites, with whom he identified Homer Martin, president of the U. A. W.; the Trotskyites and the Revolutionary Workers of America, a rump branch of the Trotskyites.

Knox read into the record more than 100 names of U. A. W. members whom he identified with one or another communist faction.

"They are all officers," he said. "They want to be captains after the revolution. In the plants all they can do is sweep floors or wash spittoons because they never have had any experience. They're not interested in the trade union movement.

Dewey Blasts New Deal Corruption

CRIME - POLITICS ATTACK OPENS GOVERNOR RACE

Alliance Is Assailed by Racket Buster.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Thomas E. Dewey, dynamic young racket busting district attorney of New York, who heads the Republican state ticket as candidate for governor, tonight lashed out at the bungling ineptness of the Roosevelt administration and New York state's "Little New Deal."

The speech was his first upstate appearance as a candidate since his unanimous selection to head the fight against the Democratic ticket headed by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman.

Mr. Dewey wasted little time in plunging into a discussion of vital issues which Republicans expect to end the reign of Democratic politics in President Roosevelt's home state.

Rakes Roosevelt Policies.

Dewey characterized himself as a middle of the road candidate for governor and disavowed support of either the "reactionary on the right, or the radical on the left." He assailed administration policies in the nation and in New York state as bungling efforts to bring about needed reforms.

Getting down to cases of which his experience as a spectacularly successful prosecutor has made him an outstanding authority, Mr. Dewey characterized the Democratic party in the state as one made up, "at least in part," of elements marching under a banner of corruption.

He spoke in convention hall to 4,000 persons, with 1,000 more listening to loudspeakers outside. The meeting, marked by enthusiastic demonstrations, was the climax of a parade through Rochester that lasted more than an hour.

Dewey Calls Roll.

Calling a roll of those he accused of representing Democratic corruption, Dewey evoked cheers which resounded through the hall. This roll call included Al Marinelli, former Tammany Hall big shot and clerk of New York county [Manhattan], who resigned in the face of charges by Dewey; Edward J. Flynn, secretary of state, Democratic leader in the Bronx and political ally of James Farley; Charles Schneider, another Tammany banner bearer whom Dewey forced to resign, and the Albany and

YOU NEVER LIGHT YOUR PIPE, EH? PROFESSOR'S GOT YOU SMOKED OUT!

Boston, Mass., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The fellow who walks around all day with an unlit pipe or who munches a cigar is only reverting to the childhood practice of thumb sucking, said Dr. Walter L. Mendenhall, professor of pharmacology at Boston university. He says the same of pencil chewers and finger nail biters.

TWO BOYS BURN FIERY CROSS, BUT FIND IT'S NO FUN

Whatever else they do Halloween, Frederick Bland and Walter Horn Jr. of Oak Park probably won't burn any fiery crosses. They tried that yesterday for practice. Frederick is 10 years old and lives at 240 South Grove avenue. Walter is 11 and lives at 338 South Kenilworth avenue. They read in a magazine, they said, that fiery crosses were the symbols of secret organizations. So they built a dandy one of rags and wood and put it in the back yard of Mrs. Fannie Shepherd's home at 110 South Grove avenue. It was about 8 feet tall. The police came just when it had a good start.

Arnold Jameson of 4516 North Keating avenue was too drunk to be a pall bearer at his mother-in-law's funeral, his wife told Judge N. J. Bonelli yesterday. U. S., Britain in Naval Pact, Kennedy Says

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 19.—America and Great Britain have reached a tacit naval agreement that needs no treaty to back it up, Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to London, announced tonight.

He told members of the Navy league at the Trafalgar day dinner, an annual tribute to Lord Nelson, that it was in no sense an alliance, but a "relationship unique in the annals of naval history," and that there was no danger of Great Britain and America going to war on opposite sides again.

Urges Peace with Dictators.

Britons were delighted with this view. Naval sources are pleased with the decision of Washington, D. C., to strengthen the Atlantic squadron to the size of a battle fleet by shifting warships from the Pacific and adding newly built units and see in this action a new reinforcement of British policy.

Kennedy also declared that "democracies and dictatorships should cooperate for the common good," rather than emphasize their "self-apparent differences."

"Instead of hammering away at what are regarded as irreconcilables they could advantageously bend their energies toward solving their common problems.

"It is true that the democratic and dictator countries have important and fundamental divergencies of outlook which in certain matters go deeper than politics. But there is simply no sense in letting these differences grow into unrelenting antagonisms."

Welcome Each Other's Ships.

Expanding on the "unique" naval relationship of America and Britain, Kennedy said:

"It is probably the first time two nations not bound by an alliance actually welcomed every ship launched by the other. As far as Britain and the United States are concerned the navy is an incentive not to discord, but to peace."

"Neither navy," he said, "has assumed any obligation to assist the other in time of trouble. On the other hand, we can rid our minds of the thought that we shall ever again be enemies."

Place for Merchant Marine.

American and British naval harmony, Kennedy pointed out, did not extend to the merchant marine. He reminded the British that Americans, although they know Britain needs a large merchant fleet, feel that it is no reason why America should be crowded out entirely. He urged that it should be possible to reach a basis of agreement.

The billion dollar expenditure on American naval expansion this year would be "stupid," he said, "unless we were prepared also to provide auxiliary support without which the fighting force is helpless."

The ambassador lauded Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's effort for peace at Munich, but said that only history could decide whether or not he had made the right decision in yielding to the dictators.

Axmen Toast Ladies with a Bang Up Party

A handbook for the discriminating woman, where the windows were hung with cheery drapes and shuttered with Venetian blinds, had some male visitors yesterday. The ladies were nibbling jelly rolls and sipping soft drinks and coffee between the races when the men very unceremoniously broke in.

445

The brusqueness of the callers quickly turned to embarrassment, however. They were State's Attorney Courtney's axmen. The now famous ax squads have chopped up 445 gambling parlors, including those wrecked yesterday. But they had never come upon a dainty place for women only such as that on the second floor at 5057 Lake Park avenue.

Embarrassment Is Rife.

So, Detective Daniel Moriarty and his companions didn't feel at ease, despite the presence of the accustomed loud speaker and the usual racing sheets. Each tried to look unconcerned about the ax in his hand. Finally, Moriarity called headquarters for instructions and then decided to take along Miss Bernice Sheppard, 25 years old, and Miss Emeline Poshil, 51.

Miss Sheppard explained that she was merely looking after things for her mother, Mae, who was out at the track for the afternoon, watching a horse she owns.

Miss Sheppard said that she and her mother lived on the first floor and that they had operated the place exclusively for women for eight or ten years. She apologized for the four male betters present. They were, she said, brought in as guests of some of the women.

Miss Poshil, a gentle looking lady who lives at 5216 Dorchester avenue, fingered her oxford glasses nervously and said that she was the clerk. Most of the patrons bet 50 cents, parlaying it on three or four long shots, she said.

Chop Away—Politely.

"You know how women are," she told the raiders. They nodded and began chopping politely away at the furniture.

Questioned later by Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan, Miss Sheppard said that they had never allowed any men in their place until the rest of the bookies began to close in fear of raids. Then, she said, the women customers began bringing their men friends in. "We couldn't very well kick them out," she said.

Besides, the women customers had rarely bet more than 50 cents ["A $2 bet would have knocked us dead," Miss Sheppard said] but the men bet more freely. In recent days it was not unusual for the betting to reach a daily total of $500, she said.

Moriarity, finished with the day's work, walked into the state's attorney's office while Miss Sheppard was still there. Moynihan asked the two if they knew each other. "And how," Miss Sheppard murmured. "He's the fellow that smashed up my place."

"I was a little embarrassed," Moriarity said.

"You were embarrassed," answered Miss Sheppard. "How do you think I felt?"

Moriarity looked unhappy.

Other Places Raided.

The other raids yesterday were at 3312 Broadway, 2358 Lincoln avenue, 5205 Harper avenue, 1139 South Ashland avenue, 1641 East 53d street, Devon hotel, 1316 Devon avenue, 756 Waveland avenue, 6228 Greenwood avenue, 6325 Greenwood avenue, 5033 Prairie avenue, 2738 North avenue, and 5137 Milwaukee avenue.

William Sharp, colored, of 1541 West 14th street, pleaded guilty yesterday in South State street court to a charge of possessing gambling devices. He was fined $25 by Judge Francis Borrelli.

Forty-seven other defendants, arrested in 26 raids on places said to be handbooks, and seven defendants taken in raids on alleged policy stations were discharged because the raids were made without warants.

Noodle, Who Hobnobbed with Europe's Royalty, Dead

Greenwich, Conn., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Noodle, a dachshund that was a pet in the family of Hendrik Willem Van Loon, the historian, is dead. Noodle traveled throughout Europe with the Van Loons. He once sat on the lap of Prince Hendrik, the prince consort of Holland. In Switzerland Noodle was watching the ex-king of Albania, Wilhelm of Weid, play ping-pong, when he dashed after a dropped ball, tangling himself with the royal heels. One Christmas a package arrived at the Van Loon home from the White House for "Noodle Van Loon." It contained bones.

MOTHER'S STORY AIDS SIKORA AT MURDER TRIAL

Margaret Testifies Against Him.

BY MARCIA WINN.

When Rudolph Sikora first learned he had a rival for his wife's affections, he locked himself in a bathroom and sobbed audibly for fifteen minutes.

His mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Boehme, was his informant, she testified yesterday before the jury of eleven husbands and one bachelor which is trying her son-in-law for the murder on Aug. 23 of Edward Solomon, his rival. The trial is in the court of Judge James F. Fardy.

Her face glowering, her lips pursed into a thin line, Mrs. Boehme, who lives at 7809 Elm Grove drive, Elmwood Park, told of receiving a letter July 5 from Solomon, in which he indicated he would end his affection for her daughter, Margaret. He asked her to mention his love to no one. Instead, she testified, she took the letter to her son-in-law, until then ignorant of the clandestine affair.

Letter One of Contrition.

The letter—smooth, polished, and urbane—was one of extreme contrition. Solomon wrote he thought she would be pleased to learn that her wishes were being complied with. His only sorrow, he wrote, "was to have given you any moments of uneasiness."

Earlier in the day the letter was identified by Mrs. Sikora, a younger, thinner, quieter edition of her mother. As final witness for the state, which closed its case against Sikora at noon, she testified she had been with Solomon when he wrote it.

To the murder fans, most of them women who packed the courtroom to the suffocation point, whispering, ogling, and conjecturing, the witness of the day was Margaret Sikora, whom most of them spoke of familiarly as "Margaret."

Wife Displays No Emotion.

When she appeared, a quiet figure in a black suit with a teal blue silk blouse, a twisted turban of wine and blue set on one side of her dark hair, a noisy murmur ran through the courtroom.

Most of the women apparently awaited, hopefully, an emotional outbreak from the woman, the first in Illinois to tell a jury the other side of a love triangle; that is, the first to testify against a husband who killed his rival. But they got nothing, not even a flicker of a tear.

Instead she seemed completely matter of fact and impassive, devoid of affectation. Again and again, without hesitation, she admitted she had loved Edward Solomon since March 14, but had not told her husband.

Her Mother Is Emotional.

Her mother, on the other hand, who came eagerly to the defense of Sikora, was overflowing with emotion. Her eyes dripped. Her words dripped. Her rancor against her daughter was given in strong, bold words.

When court adjourned for the day, she was still on the stand, a weeping, shaken woman. Sikora, passing on his way to the county jail with a bailif, stooped and gave her a kiss.

Mrs. Boehme testified after three employés of the Chicago Rapid Transit lines, co-workers with Sikora, had told how he had changed from June to August—his cheeks sinking in, his eyes becoming "glassy," his weight dropping some twenty pounds, his general attitude that of an "insane man," in their opinion.

The mother said she first discussed Solomon with Margaret about July 1. She also talked, she said, to Solomon.

Q. [by Defense Attorney W. W. Smith]—Then you had a letter from him? A.—Yes.

Q.—After this letter did you have a conversation with Rudolph Sikora? A.—I did.

Tells Him About Letter.

Q.—Did you have a conversation with regard to his wife, Margaret? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you tell him about this letter? A [with noticeable hesitation]—Yes.

Q.—Did you give him the letter? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did he do? A.—He read it and went into the bathroom, closed the door and cried for fifteen minutes. I could hear him sob.

Q.—When did you next see him? A.—The next day. The 9th of July. That day, she said, Rudolph and Margaret both came to her home. They talked, or rather Mrs. Boehme and Rudolph talked, about Solomon. Margaret said nothing. Her mother on the witness stand said, "She stood and sneered at me."

"I said to her," she began, "why didn't he marry you before you were married and not interfere now?' Rudy [Sikora] said, 'If he wanted to marry you why didn't he then? Why break up our home now?"

Daughter Sneers, Says Mother.

"What did she say?" Attorney Smith asked.

"Nothing," Mrs. Boehme said in disgust, adjusting one of her pearl earrings. "She sneered at me.

"I said to her that a man that breaks up a home is not fine. She never answered at all. It was all one sided. I talked to her an hour and a half. She never answered. Her face was like a mask.

"Rudy was crying. He begged her not to leave. He said: 'Please don't go. Try it again. I've done everything I could to make you happy.'"

Then, Mrs. Boehme said, she went away for two weeks. When she came back, Rudolph told her Margaret and Solomon had "trumped up a fake divorce suit."

Tells of Praying for Her.

On Aug. 8, she said, she and Rudolph visited Margaret in a flat at 4221 Bissell street. Rudolph sat on a stool at Margaret's feet. The following conversation took place, she testified:

Rudolph: "Margaret, I prayed for you last night."

Margaret: "If you think I am going to hell, let me go to hell in my own way."

They both entreated her to return home, she said, but Margaret refused.

The night before the murder, Mrs. Boehme testified, Rudolph came to her home, buried his face in his hands. She asked him if he were ill. "He said nothing. He just sat, his eyes staring. As he walked to the couch to lie down, he said, 'My head!'"

Unable to Sleep, He Tells Her.

Q. Did Rudy complain of being unable to sleep?

A. Yes, he said that every time he heard the click of a woman's heel, he would jump up and see if it was Margaret.

At this point, court was adjourned until today. Through both her testimony and that of her daughter, Sikora sat, a dejected, crumpled figure in navy blue, almost motionless beside the counsel table. He looked only rarely at his mother-in-law, burying his head in his hands instead. Often he appeared to be sleeping. When his wife was on the stand, however, he watched her constantly, covertly.

Mrs. Sikora was amazingly frank in her testimony. Her answers, given with impassive mien, were terse and abrupt, but unhesitating. Not once, but many times, she admitted on cross-examination that she loved Edward Solomon and had loved him since March 14.

Nor did she seem reluctant to admit her secret meetings with Solomon during the succeeding months. While her husband, a thrifty dispatcher's clerk, worked a double shift, she and Solomon, the more polished university graduate, would meet—and talk.

Direct Examination Brief.

Her direct examination by Prosecutor Leslie Curtis was brief. She testified that she and Sikora were married on Aug. 17, 1935, and that she had met the urbane Solomon the previous June, when she went to work as secretary for the concern where he was auditor. She last saw him alive, she testified, on Aug. 20.

Q. [by Curtis]—What day did you leave your home? A.—On July 9.

Q.—Did your husband take anything from you when you left? A.—Yes. My rings and the key off my chain.

After leaving her home, she testified, she saw Solomon often. He called for her twice at the Rienzi hotel, where she first lived, she testified, three or four times at the Pinegate hotel, her next stop, and six or seven times at 4221 Bissell street, where she was living when he was killed.

Q.—Prior to July 9, had you ever gone out with him? A. [very matter of factly]—Yes, I had.

Q.—When was the first time? A.—A Saturday afternoon around the first of April.

She also attended a concert with Solomon around that time, she said. This, she testified, was with her husband's knowledge.

Asked if she received any financial aid from her husband after leaving him, she replied, her words icy, "I received a loan, which I repaid to him."

Always Self-Possessed.

Her direct examination lasted fifteen minutes, but the subsequent cross-examination continued for an hour and a half. At no time did Mrs. Sikora's self-possession leave her. She directed her eyes always toward her questioner, who hurried into the matter of her clandestine meetings with Solomon.

Q.—You continued to go with him frequently after April 1? A.—Not very often.

Q.—How often? A.—Once a week.

Q.—Did you tell Solomon you were a married woman? A.—He knew I was married.

Q.—Do you remember the date of March 14, 1938? A.—I do.

Q.—You and Solomon were alone in the office? A.—We were.

Attorney Smith tried to bring the admission here that she fell in love with Solomon that day, but the question was barred.

Under his questioning, she admitted Solomon gave her a large toy panda, the Monday after their first Saturday luncheon date. She denied, however, that she took the panda to bed with her.

Both Called on Her.

Rudolph often came to see her after she left him, she testified. So did Solomon, whom she would meet in the hotel lobby.

After leaving the hotel, she moved to 4221 Bissell street, to the flat of a woman friend where she previously had met Solomon on two Saturday afternoons and two Sunday evenings. Each time, she said, she spent about three hours there, while her husband was at work. The friend, Thelma Bader, and a man named "Sig" were always there, she testified.

She saw Sikora—to whom she referred as "Mr. Sikora"—the Thursday before the shooting, in response to a note from him. She admitted that he looked quite thin, but was not permitted to testify whether he was agitated.

She now is employed as a secretary, she said, and lives at 6751 Sheridan road.

Berlin Bars Papers Telling of New York Nazi Spy Trial

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Yesterday's editions of English newspapers which arrived here today were confiscated by authorities, presumably because they carried accounts of the New York spy trial involving Nazis. Newsdealers said no reasons for the confiscation were given.

ROBBED OF $300 IN RENT MONEY.

Julius Rudolph, 1560 East 61st street, collected $300 in rents yesterday in the building at 417 East 60th street. As he was leaving, two colored men stopped him, took the money and fled.

SPY DESCRIBES RIFLING OF MAIL ON GERMAN SHIP

Secret Documents Copied, U. S. Jury Told.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—How German spies allegedly opened international mail bags and copied confidential documents sent from the United States on the liner Europa was described today at the espionage trial in federal court here.

The witness, as on the two previous days of the trial, was Guenther Gustav Rumrich, who said he was a member of a spy ring supported by the German government.

He has pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with spying on the United States and is the star witness for the government in the trial of three other persons.

These defendants are Johanna Hofmann, hairdresser on the Europa; Private Erich Glaser from Mitchel field, Long Island air base, and Otto Herman Voss, German born aviation mechanic at the Seversky aircraft plant on Long Island.

Aid Escapes Capture.

The looting of the Europa's mail cargo was brought out when Rumrich told of visits to his Bronx apartment by Miss Hofmann and Karl Schlueter—both of whom are described by federal prosecutors as messengers and payoff agents for the spy ring. Schlueter escaped seizure here.

"Schlueter told me he had just made a lucky strike," said Rumrich. "He said he had got hold of a contract between the Bethlehem Steel corporation and the Amtorg Trading corporation of New York, a soviet Russian concern.

"When I asked him how he did it, he grinned and said he got it out of a mail bag on the Europa. He said he photographed the contract and put it back into the bag.

"Schlueter turned to Miss Hofmann and told her to get the contract out of her bag.

"She opened her purse and pulled out some papers. When she handed them over I saw they were photographic copies of the contract and of letters from some of the Bethlehem officials.

"She also had some photographs of machinery that was sent to Russia aboard the Europa."

Rumrich also revealed that the spies plotted to forge the signature of President Roosevelt and obtain secret plans of American aircraft carriers. This was brought out when Assistant United States Attorney Lester Dunigan began questioning Rumrich about Schlueter's other activities.

Plans of Carriers Sought.

"One other time he came with Fraulein Hofmann to see me in my flat," said Rumrich. "He asked me if I knew anything about the aircraft carriers Enterprise and Yorktown.

"He said the German navy was going to build some similar carriers and that it would be useful for his superiors to obtain plans of these carriers' construction.

"I told him the carriers were being built at one of the two Atlantic coast navy construction yards. I knew nothing more about them.

"Then Schlueter suggested that I get some White House stationery. He thought I could forge the President's signature and send a letter to the construction chief of the United States navy department.

"I told him I would try to get the stationery."

Sends Letter to Chief.

Rumrich said he wrote to his chief in Hamburg, sending the letter through Mrs. Jessie Jordan of Dundee, Scotland. Mrs. Jordan is serving a prison sentence in England for her espionage activities.

"In that letter," Rumrich said, "I told of Schlueter's plan. I also inclosed a facsimile of a message sent by President Roosevelt to Japan. This was about the time of the Panay bombing in China, and the White House letterhead was reproduced in the newspapers here. I thought it would be a good idea to inclose this so they would have something to go by."

At this point Dunigan produced Rumrich's letter, which had been intercepted by British secret agents in Dundee.

Rumrich said Schlueter once asked him for the names of American army or navy officers of German extraction who might help the spy ring. "I gave him a couple of names I got out of a newspaper," Rumrich testified.

At this point Rumrich identified a list of names of officers and employés on aircraft carriers and other persons connected with the military forces. He said he knew none of them personally but had collected their names for Schlueter.

Sends Offer to Pilot.

Once he wrote Ensign W. B. Brown, a pilot stationed at the navy base at San Diego, Cal. The letter:

"There are ways of making money. An enterprising young man can always cash in without much trouble, so why don't you wise up? Communicate with me through a New York newspaper. If you act you will be liberally rewarded. Proceed quickly. Dire consequences will befall you if you fail to reply."

Rumrich admitted that Brown ignored the letter.

"On another occasion," said Rumrich, "Schlueter said he was trying through a government inspector to get the plans for a new gyroscope in the Sperry gyroscope plant in Brooklyn.

"Schlueter finally told me he was going on a vacation and Fraülein Hofmann was going to take his place. I then asked her to go to Prague to see my brother, who was studying chemistry there. I told them that from his letters it looked as if he was quite a roughneck and a typical Nazi."

When Schlueter heard this description of young Rumrich the witness said he announced: "He'll be just the man for us. We need some one to do some work for us in Czechoslovakia, because that is our next objective."

Killed by Train

JUNE SCHIERHORN.

Beginning today, Franklin Park police will guard the Rose street crossing of the Milwaukee road tracks in the suburb during school hours. This was announced last night by Barney Reeves, village president, after June Schierhorn, 11 years old, was killed at the crossing by a passenger train while on the way to school. The suction stream of the Arrow Flyer is believed to have pulled her into the wheels.

The girl lived with her mother and stepfather, Marvin Schierhorn, at 3242 Edgington street in Franklin Park.

Reeves declared that within the last three months efforts have been made to replace the crossing, which is protected only by flasher lights, with a pedestrian underpass. Overtures to the railroad to supply part of the money have been ignored, he said.

U. S. ARMY POSTS FIRE GERMANS IN CANAL ZONE AREA

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. David L. Stone, commander of the United States army's Panama canal department, today increased safety measures for canal zone defenses. He acted as the result of the arrest Sunday of four Germans accused of photographing strategic fortifications.

Army post commanders immediately started weeding out civilian employés of German and Italian nationality. Rudolf Fielmoser, an Austrian who for the past two years has operated a beer garden at Albrook field, the army airport, was dismissed without notice.

Gen. Richard D. Moore, commander of the canal department's Atlantic sector, heads a list of witnesses United States District Attorney J. J. McGuigan will introduce tomorrow at a preliminary hearing for the four Germans now in custody.

INDICT EX-MATE OF RUTH ETTING IN GUN ATTACK

Radio Singer Describes Shooting in Home.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Martin [Col. Gimp] Snyder, former husband of Ruth Etting, a singer, was indicted tonight on charges of attempted murder, kidnaping, and violation of the California gun laws.

Snyder is held for the shooting of Myrl Alderman, Miss Etting's present husband and accompanist, in the singer's Hollywood home last Sunday night.

The indictment was voted after Miss Etting told her story of the wild scene in her music room that preceded the shooting.

Singer Tells of Rise.

Miss Etting said she had been Snyder's wife for seventeen years. During those years she rose from a cabaret singer to a top paid radio star, she said.

"We never were happy," she said. "When we separated I gave Snyder between $70,000 and $75,000 worth of stocks and bonds and agreed he should have half the revenues from our Beverly Hills home, which was leased.

"When he came here from New York four months ago he asked me to give him half of the income from the house. I told him I couldn't. I needed the money to live on. That was the last time I saw him until the night of the shooting, although I heard from friends he was going about threatening to kill me."

Ex-Husband Enters Home.

Snyder came to her home, she said, and strode into the music room where Alderman and Edith Snyder, Miss Etting's step-daughter who also is her secretary, were sitting. There he drew a revolver.

"I'm going to kill all three of you," Snyder said, according to Miss Etting.

"I pleaded with him to put the gun away," she said. "I told him it would be no good to kill us and that he would go to the gas chamber for it if he did.

"Then Myrl started to speak, but he didn't get a chance to say more than a word. Snyder fired at him twice. The first bullet went over Myrl's head and lodged in the wall. The second struck him in the stomach. He slumped off the piano bench onto the floor.

Concussion Extinguishes Light.

"The concussion from the gun jarred the room so the only light then burning went out. I think that saved all our lives."

Snyder dropped his gun and pursued Miss Etting, who fled to the home of neighbors. Edith snatched the gun and fired one shot at her father.

As Miss Etting left the grand jury chambers she was served with notice of the $150,000 alienations of affections suit filed by Alderman's divorced wife, Alma. Snyder was in jail tonight, unable to post a $50,000 bond.

Sues Druggan

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. TERRY DRUGGAN.

Terry Druggan, bachelor beer baron of prohibition days, was disclosed yesterday as a husband and father.

His wife, to whom he was secretly married Oct. 16, 1934, brought suit for divorce. She asked custody of Terry Jr., 21 months old. Her bill charged that Druggan struck her on May 21 and again on July 29. It asked that Druggan be restrained from carrying out threats to do her more bodily harm. The bill was drawn by Attorney Reuel Grunewald.

Druggan, it was revealed, got an off the record license at the license bureau. Judge John J. Rooney performed the marriage. The bride was Miss Grace Stonesifer, who then lived at 2816 Logan boulevard. Druggan gave his residence on the application as 912 North East avenue, Oak Park. The application, now in the record books, shows that Druggan is 38 years old and Mrs. Druggan is 28.

Druggan filed an appearance as his own lawyer in the divorce suit and will oppose Mrs. Druggan's plea for custody of the boy. She was ordered to let Druggan see the child each afternoon. He was ordered to pay her $15 a week support money.

EARLE AND AIDS PUSH BATTLE TO AVOID JURY QUIZ

Governor and Guffey Busy Explaining "Loans."

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—On the heels of fresh evidence purporting to show graft in the administration of Gov. George H. Earle, the Democratic high command today redoubled its effort to block a grand jury investigation before the Nov. 8 election.

Gov. Earle and Senator Joseph F. Guffey were busy explaining how they happened to enjoy $50,000 "loans" from a politically controled Philadelphia investment concern. The existence of the loans was told to the legislative committee investigating the scandal charges last night by Charles J. Margiotti, former attorney general.

Ousted by Governor.

Margiotti, member of Earle's cabinet who was ousted by the governor when he demanded a grand jury investigation, told the legislators information had come to him that the $50,000 loans might have connection with the alleged sale of legislation legalizing Sunday movies in Pennsylvania

Today Earle and Guffey declared they borrowed the money to buy bonds of the New York Post, Inc. and denied that they had any connection with graft. The Post and the Philadelphia Record are published by J. David Stern, influential adviser to the Pennsylvania Democratic machine and leading apologist for the Roosevelt régime in Washington

Dares Democrats to Call Earle.

At tonight's legislative committee session Elwood Turner, Republican legislator and member of the committee, challenged the Democratic majority to call Gov. Earle to the witness stand for an explanation of his financial transactions while in office. Earle, who enjoys a salary of $18,000 and annual contingent expenses of $30,000, has borrowed upwards of $90,000 during his term of office.

Turner declared the governor had "played with chips that he does not own" and that the people of the state deserved to know the facts.

Committee Chairman Herbert Cohen, who is majority leader of the house, hotly asserted no "overt act" had been proved against Earle. He said eventually all witnesses would be called.

Turner Fires Back.

"You'll call Earle about Christmas, then," retorted Turner. "That's a confession of avoidance."

It was expected the committee would not summon Earle before the election. The governor is running for the senate against the Republican incumbent, James J. Davis.

Efforts to stave off the threatened grand jury inquiry centered in the Dauphin county court here in Harrisburg. Earle's new attorney general, Guy K. Bard, appeared before Judge Paul N. Schaeffer with a demand that District Attorney Shelley of Dauphin county, a Republican, be refused the right to head a grand jury investigation.

Court Orders Hearing.

The state Supreme court ordered the hearing when Gov. Earle claimed Shelley was actuated by political motives. Previously the Supreme court disqualified Bard from superseding Shelley because he had been appointed by Earle.

Shelley accused Bard of attempting to delay the investigation which was started five and a half months ago, but stymied by legal movies since. The district attorney told the court he had "a sincere belief in the truth of the charges," which include conspiracy, political coercion, blackmail, and extortion as well as graft on a wide scale.

Arguments will be resumed before Judge Schaeffer tomorrow.

Wealthy Realtor Testifies.

Meanwhile the legislative committee composed of five Democrat and two Republican house members called to the stand Albert M. Greenfield, chairman of the Bankers' Securities corporation of Philadelphia, which figured in the Earle and Guffey loans. Greenfield, a millionaire realtor, is a political ally of Stern, Earle, and Guffey.

Confronted by photostatic records of an audit of his company which Margiotti produced last night, Greenfield admitted Earle and Guffey had received the loans. During a previous appearance before the committee Greenfield had failed to mention the transactions.

Use Bonds for Collateral.

In connection with the Earle and Guffey loans it developed that both politicians put up as collateral $50,000 in bonds of the New York Post and $22,500 in stock in the All-Continent corporation. All-Continent is controled by the family of William Fox, the former movie magnate.

Greenfield denied, however, that there had been any connection between the $100,000 received by the two Democratic bosses and the movie legislation. Such an idea, he asserted, was the "fantasy of a diseased mind."

The Earle and Guffey loans were made during 1935 when the movie measures were pending.

Kind to Ducks

[Acme Photo.]

MARION PIERCE.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Marion Whitehead Pierce, former wife of Conkey Whitehead, soft drink heir, today reported to city authorities that a duck from the Central Park pond pecked a $10,000 black pearl from a ring on her hand. Mrs. Pierce was feeding the ducks at the time. Three of the birds, any one of which might have been the pearl eater, were put into special cages by park attendants tonight pending a decision on a proposal to slaughter the birds and search for the jewel.

WILMETTE POST CARD VOTE TURNS DOWN CROSSINGS

It appeared unlikely yesterday that Wilmette's village council would oppose the citizenry's overwhelming decision against a $1,963,000 grade separation project. Of 1,272 votes cast in a postcard referendum 430 favored the work and 842 were against it. The council laid the matter over for a week.

Under the proposal highway crossings of the North Shore and North Western railroads would be eliminated. The Public Works administration would pay 45 per cent of the cost of the improvement and the railroads would pay a portion. Wilmette, with a population of 15,000, would have to raise $570,000 of the cost, however.

BRITISH SOLDIERS DRIVE ARAB FOES FROM JERUSALEM

Law and Order Restored After Four-Day Siege.

JERUSALEM, Oct. 19. — (AP) — Approximately 1,000 British Coldstream guards marched into the old city of Jerusalem at dawn today and delivered the district from the hands of Arab rebels who had held it for four days.

Wearing rubber-soled shoes for sure footing on the ancient cobbled streets, the troops entered through historic Damascus gate and almost immediately were met by a strong fusillade of rebel gunfire.

Within a few hours the troops had subdued the Arabs without loss of a British life. At least nine Arabs were killed, and forty were taken prisoners. Two British constables were wounded.

The British established complete law and order in the old city to which they had laid siege without attempting, until today, to enter. A deathlike silence hung over the quarter as the crack guards patroled the streets.

Establish Base at Mosque.

The Christian and Jewish population showed great relief as the troops marched through the narrow deserted streets to the mosque of Omar area, which they cordoned off.

Troops and police then began a methodical house-to-house search of the district between the mosque and the old city walls. As each section was cleared the inhabitants were allowed to circulate in the streets of the old city, but were not permitted to leave its precincts.

A curfew previously imposed was lifted immediately. Local authorities distributed bread to the 20,000 half-starved residents. No food had entered the old city since the start of the siege.

Soldiers placed stout barbed wire barriers at all strategic points throughout the city. Other troops formed a cordon outside the walls of the old city so that no insurgents could escape without risking death.

Inspect Rebel Suspects.

All male occupants of houses in the Bab Hutta quarter of the old city —about one-fifth of the total area— were examined by police for rifle butt marks on their shoulders for evidence of having fought.

Many of the Arab band which had wielded defiant control of the Moslem section escaped last night ahead of the British expedition. Some gained freedom through tunnels and others by ropes over the walls.

Two Royal Air Force members and two Jews were wounded on the Jericho road yesterday. A Jew was killed in Jaffa. Two Arabs were shot dead while trying to break the Iraq pipe line in the Jordan valley.

Police Under Army Orders.

British troops cordoned off half the coastal town of Acre and started a hunt for a rebel band which raided the postoffice yesterday. Guards picketed the main roads between Haifa and Nazareth and were on patrol in several other centers of the uprising.

All police and administrative functions in the Holy Land were under military authorities. There were 20,000 British soldiers to put down the revolt against British rule and Jewish immigration. Arab guerrillas have been estimated at 10,000.

Explains to Judge

MRS. MARGARET WEISE.

Margaret Weise's story of the beating her husband gave her had almost won her a divorce yesterday when Judge Philip J. Finnegan asked if she had lived with Walter Weise since that time. "Yes," said Mrs. Weise. And before she could explain, the judge ended the hearing.

Her attorney, Norman Becker, persuaded Judge Finnegan to hear her explanation. It was that she had gone back home to spend the night, since her husband had departed, and that he returned. She went to her mother's home the next morning upon awakening to find her husband slumbering beside her. The judge granted her the divorce. Mrs. Weise, who is 23 years old, lives at 5513 25th place, Cicero. Weise lives at 5006 22d place, Cicero.

GERMANY TO STOP PAY OF PASTORS WHO IRK NAZIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—Hans Kerrl, Nazi minister for church affairs, today dealt a new blow against Protestant and Roman Catholic churches. A decree was issued under which pastors in Prussia and the Saar who incur the displeasure of the Nazi authorities can be deprived of their salaries and pensions. The measure provides that the suspension of pensions can be extended to widows and children of pastors.

"The funds of the Prussian state may only be used to pay salaries and pensions to persons who show themselves worthy of state support," the decree said.

District governors in Prussia and the Saar were ordered to investigate salaries and pensions to pastors and their relatives and to suspend payments to "persons violating the law and decrees of the state."

Hope Wanes for Kemal, 'Strong Man' of Turkey

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Hope virtually was abandoned today for Kemal Ataturk, president and strong man of Turkey, who is gravely ill of a liver ailment. Physicians reported him "slightly improved" at 8 p. m., but it was admitted the end might come at any moment for the man who was the principal creator of modern Turkey.

JAP 'MOSQUITO FLEET' RACES TO ATTACK CANTON

Chinese Plant Explosives to Blow Up City.

HONGKONG, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Sixty armed motor boats were believed to be hastening along the South China coast tonight to add an assault by river to Japanese overland drives against Canton.

The fairly large boats carried a sort of naval warfare into the network of shallow waterways athwart Canton, where heavy warcraft would run aground.

A report from Swatow in eastern Kwangtung province said the "mosquito fleet" passed southwestward. Escorted by a mother ship, the boats apparently were on their way to the Pearl river delta, at the head of which lies the threatened Kwangtung provincial capital.

Mine Canton Factories.

Workmen at Canton began planting high explosives in major factories, making ready to apply the "scorched earth—broken tile" policy to Canton if the Japanese reach the city. Among plants said to have been mined were a cement works in the Saichuen district, paper mills in the Honan area, and a power plant on the East river bund. Foreign factory experts were paid and were leaving Canton.

It was assumed in Hongkong, British crown colony southeast of Canton at the river mouth, that the Japanese were determined to reach Canton by Nov. 3, the twenty-second anniversary of the proclamation of Hirohito, now emperor, as crown prince of Japan.

The Japanese command, with at least 600,000 soldiers already on the march—mostly within fifty miles of Canton—was adding reënforcements.

Strong indications were that the actual battle for the metropolis might take place within another week.

New Troops Rush to Front.

New troops from neighboring Kwangsi province continued to arrive by junk and sampan at Canton and were rushed immediately to the Chinese front to the east. The Kwangtung and Canton defense army was made up of hundreds of thousands of southern Chinese, mostly unseasoned and ill equipped.

The largest Chinese forces faced the Japanese advance near Sheklung, fifty miles east of Canton.

The Japanese reported they captured Tsengshin, a few miles north of Sheklung, and that a mechanized detachment was steadily nearing Tsungfa, forty miles northeast of their goal. The Japanese said they had entered Sheklung after air raids. Casualties, they said, ran into the thousands. The Chinese denied the invaders had reached Sheklung.

Japs Take Town on Yangtze.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 19. — (AP) — Japanese military authorities tonight announced the capture of Hwangshikang, 50 air miles southeast of Hankow, in a 3 hour assault by land forces and marines.

Fighting continued on the northern and southern wings of the 150 mile semi-circular front closing in on Hankow. Japanese planes bombed and machine gunned railway stations north and south of the city and bombarded Hankow's primary defense positions.

JAPAN DEIFIES SOULS OF 10,334 SOLDIERS SLAIN IN CHINA WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 19.—One million persons milled through the compound of Yasukuni shrine, Japan's war dead memorial on Kudan hill in Tokio, today. They paid homage to 10,334 officers and men who lost their lives in the war in China.

The climax of the five day ceremonies honoring fallen heroes came when Emperor Hirohito prayed at the shrine. At the same time one minute of silent devotion was observed throughout the country.

In awesome ceremonies conducted in darkness last night an ancient wooden carriage symbolizing the gods of loyalty was wheeled into the shrine, signifying to the Japanese that the souls of the soldiers had arisen from their graves to enter Japan's Valhalla. Mothers occasionally called out the names of their sons as the carriage passed by.

The souls of the war dead are enshrined as "kami" and are regarded to have become deities.

CONVICT BUFFALO POLICE OFFICIALS OF CONSPIRACY

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 20 [Thursday]. —(AP)—A Supreme court jury early today added a chapter to an eleven months' old city investigation by convicting five present and former police detectives of conspiring to obstruct the administration of the gambling laws.

In addition to the conspiracy count the jury convicted former Assistant Chief of Detectives Frank J. McCarthy of bribery and accepting unlawful fees.

Convicted of conspiracy but acquitted on charges of bribery and acceptance of unlawful fees were: Acting Assistant Chief of Detectives Frank J. Leigh, Detective Sergeant William Muckler, former Detective Sergeant Simon Kearns, and Detective John Neville.

McCarthy faces sentences totaling twenty-one years or fines up to $9,500 or both as the result of his conviction on all three counts.

ITALY FORBIDS KOSHER KILLING IN WAR ON JEWS

TURIN, Italy, Oct. 19. — (AP) — The newspaper Gazzetta del Popolo today announced that kosher killing of animals for Jewish consumption has been prohibited in Italy without mentioning Italy's anti-Jewish campaign. The newspaper said an order to that effect was communicated by the government to local prefects in a "circular telegram."

The order meant that henceforth all animals must be killed in accordance with the 1928 law which provides killing must be as speedy as possible, either by shooting or stunning with a blow. Heretofore, exception to this law has been conceded to Jews that they might eat meat prepared according to their religious ritual.

HAND BACK OUR COLONIES, HITLER TERMS TO FRANCE

Talks for Friendship Pact Strike Difficulties.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler's reported price for a guaranty of Franco-German peace appeared too high to France today.

In preliminary conversations Germany was said in well informed quarters to have offered to guarantee French frontiers against attack if France would return Togoland and the Cameroons, pre-war German colonies in West Africa; if France would recognize that Germany should have numerical superiority in war planes, and if France would assure Germany a free hand in central and eastern Europe and renounce the Franco-Russian mutual assistance pact.

Still Hope for Solution.

The possibility remained, however, that sufficient common desire existed so that some kind of an agreement might be reached. English leaders have been described as urging the French to seek something parallel to the Anglo-German friendship pact initialed at Munich.

In the willingness of both France and Germany to explore possibilities of a nonaggression pact, some Paris observers professed to see a diplomatic game aimed at Italy—a warning by France that Italy should confine itself to the Mediterranean, and a hint by Germany that unless Italy abandoned its support for Hungarian claims, Germany could find a powerful friend in France.

Count Johannes Von Welczeck, German ambassador to France, talked to Georges Bonnet, foreign minister. Andre Francois-Poncet, French ambassador at Berlin, flew to Hitler's Bavarian home, Berchtesgaden.

Open Drive Against Spies.

Premier Edouard Daladier had conversations with the soviet ambassador, Jacob Surits, presumably as to what effect a Franco-German agreement would have on Franco-soviet relations.

In a drive against spies the French government forbade foreigners to settle in the Paris region without special authorization. Resident foreigners and tourists are exempt. Giuseppe Picone, listed in police records as an Italian anarchist, was arrested as he was leaving on a boat train for the United States. He was accused of violating an order expelling him in 1929.

Police, acting on orders of a military court at Lyons, arrested an Italian consular agent at Moutiers, near the Italian frontier, as a member of an espionage ring. Moutiers is in the zone where France is building new fortifications. Adrian Grosso, a subcontractor, is the suspect. Police said he had been under investigation for several months.

RUMANIA REJECTS POLISH PLAN TO CARVE RUTHENIA

Warsaw's Foreign Chief Sees King Carol.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Josef Beck of Poland made a quick trip to Rumania today. He was reported to have suggested—without success—a division of Czechoslovakia's easternmost segment among Poland, Rumania, and Hungary.

Whatever the purpose of Beck's visit to King Carol at Galatz, where the army is holding its autumn maneuvers, it was cloaked in the official guise of watching the troops perform.

But Jugo-Slav diplomatic quarters asserted he advanced the plan to dismember the newly autonomous Ruthenia [sub-Carpathian Russia]. Reports indicated the Rumanian government was not inclined to see eye to eye with Poland, supposedly because Rumania—which is still Czechoslovakia's ally—did not want to profit by the republic's misfortunes. The Rumanian foreign office is hostile to any increase in the territorial size of Hungary.

Charge Hungary Plots Revolt.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 19.—(AP)—An apparent stiffening of Czechoslovakia's attitude toward Hungarian territorial demands was indicated tonight. The Czechoslovak general staf hinted the nation might counter with a claim for certain Slovak areas around Budapest.

The general staf's possible claims on Hungarian territory, it was said, would be based on Hungary's belief that the census of 1910 should be used in a determination of Budapest's demands for Slovak areas.

A 1913 map of the Austrian Militar-Geografisches institute, showing islands of Slovak peoples around Budapest, was exhibited by military officials.

Cite 1910 Census Figures.

Citing figures from the 1910 census, the officials concluded: "It results that if a division of territory must be made according to the real situation which existed in 1910, it would bring very sad consequences for Hungary."

At Budapest negotiators continued their efforts to thresh out the territorial problem, while representatives of the new Slovak and Ruthenian autonomous states presented their side to Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany at Munich.

Complicating efforts for agreement was a statement by Czech military authorities that Hungarian agitators were inciting rebellion among the Slovaks in an attempt to sever the state from nation.

Plane Drops Pamphlets.

An airplane flying toward Radovice, near the frontier, a general staf statement said, dropped pamphlets reading: "Destroy railroads and postoffices. Fight for an independent Slovakia. Set fire to stores. Time passes quickly. You must work for independence. Desert the army."

The statement also cited what it said were several instances in which Germans had overstepped the frontier created by Germany's absorption of Sudetenland.

Germans, it amplified, "often pretended to cross the frontier to adjust the demarcation line to the needs of German occupation troops. We state that these adjustments are always made to the detriment of Czechoslovakia."

Opposed to that contention was a statement in reliable German quarters that Germany had indicated a willingness to return parts of Sudetenland to the Czechs.

He Asks Divorce

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Cleaveland Putnam.

Cleaveland Putnam, well known in social circles and a race horse owner, filed suit yesterday for divorce from Mrs. Jacqueline Abbott Findlater Putnam. His bill, filed in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan, charged that Mrs. Putnam deserted him after 5 months of marriage and went to New York.

The Putnams were married Feb. 3, 1937, in the home of his aunt, Mrs. J. O. Hinkley, 440 East Wisconsin avenue, Lake Forest. Putnam now lives at the Hinkley home. He is 29 years old. Mrs. Putnam is also 29. He was divorced in Reno five days before the wedding, and she was divorced from her first husband a short time before. Putnam's bill was drawn by Attorney William R. Behanna.

'ISMS' TO BLAME FOR WORLD WOE, SAY CATHOLICS

New Orleans, La., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Catholic leaders at the eighth national Eucharistic congress today attacked political and philosophical "isms" which they blamed for the world's woes.

Fascism, communism, paganism, materialism, and naturalism were assailed as instruments of religious and political suppression and racial persecution.

Auxiliary Bishop Bernard J. Sheil of Chicago, addressing the mass for youths, said the world is largely impotent intellectually, bankrupt economically, and ominous politically.

2 BRITISH SHIPS TORN BY BOMBS AT BARCELONA

BARCELONA, Spain, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Two British ships were struck and damaged today in a raid by ten war planes which dropped large loads of bombs in two sections of the city. The Lake Hallwil was damaged in the bow and the African Explorer was damaged in a hold. Four persons were killed and fifteen wounded in the city.

The raid was witnessed by members of the league of nations commission here to evacuate volunteer fighters in the Spanish civil war.

SIDLEY TO TELL OBJECTIONS TO MOTHER'S WILL

Quiz Scheduled in Racine Court Monday.

Racine, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—William H. Sidley, only son of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, malted milk heiress, was notified today to appear next Monday in court here and tell his objections to the will made by his mother three months before her death last July.

This examination is a preliminary to the contest of the will. The questions will be asked by attorneys for four other executors of the will who are defendants in the Probate court action. The defendants will learn what points he proposes to raise in the fight and prepare a defense accordingly.

Bull's Son in Racine.

Michael Bull, youngest son of William Perkins Bull, Toronto, Canada, capitalist and lawyer, arrived in Racine today with Richard Crosson, his father's secretary. It was at the home of Bull that Mrs. Sidley lived for a year prior to her death, and it was there that she signed the will offered for probate.

Young Bull and Crosson talked with William Horlick, brother of Mrs. Sidley and one of the four executors. Later with Bernard F. Magruder, another of the executors and an official of the Horlick Malted Milk company, they left for Chicago.

Under the will Mrs. Sidley bequeathed $250,000 each to her son and the elder Bull. And after making certain other specific bequests, she divided the residual estate among Bull, her son, and a school. Her fortune is estimated at $2,000,000.

Son Charges Fraud.

Young Sidley has charged that the will is invalid because his mother's mind was unsound when she signed it. He also charged that she was subjected to duress and fraud, and undue influence was exercised in making terms of the will.

The objections to Mrs. Sidley's will are to be heard Nov. 28.

Jury Disagrees on Killing in Louis Fight Celebration

After deliberating since afternoon a jury trying Joseph Pitts, colored, for murder was discharged late last night by Judge William J. Murray in the Lake county Criminal court at Crown Point, Ind. The jurors reported they were deadlocked with the balloting 10 to 2 for conviction. Pitts, it was testified, fired a shot into a group of white persons June 22 while celebrating the victory of Joe Louis over Max Schmeling. The bullet killed Mrs. Florence Nehring, wife of a Gary hosiery company official.

WORLD WAR DEBT PACT PLAN REPORTED UP TO ROOSEVELT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Oct. 19. — [Special.]—A settlement of the French and English war debts, predicated upon repeal of the Johnson act restricting defaulting nations from obtaining credit in the United States was understood to have been discussed today by President Roosevelt and William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France.

From White House attachés came the usual insistence, voiced in regard to the great majority of visits at Mr. Roosevelt's estate, that Bullitt's call was purely social. But it was deemed more than a coincidence that there was received here today the text of an article in a French financial newspaper predicting that both French and English war debts would be settled after the November elections in the United States.

Great Britain and France owe the United States approximately 6 billion 775 million dollars.

OWNERS OF ART GALLERY SUED BY JOHN RAKLIOS

John Raklios, once wealthy owner of the Raklios restaurant chain, filed suit for $85,000 yesterday against the owners of the Sheridan Art galleries, 4818 Sheridan road. He charged assault, invading the rights of privacy, and property damage.

The bill asserts that Raklios arranged with the galleries to sell furnishings of his home at 6326 Sheridan road after he suffered financial reverses. Representatives of the galleries beat Raklios' wife, according to the bill, put her and her husband out of the home, and then hauled away several truckloads of furniture. Defendants are Archie Shore, Jack Shore, and Jennie Lieberman.

HAGUE GLOATING OVER ROOSEVELT DEAL TO AID HIM

Republicans Pleased, Too, by Change in Front.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Newark, N. J., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—There is joy in Jersey in both the Democratic and Republican camps for different reasons over the deal President Roosevelt has made with Democratic Boss Frank Hague for their joint support of William H. J. Ely, Democratic candidate for senator.

The visitor today to Jersey City's city hall, where Mayor Hague holds czarlike sway, instantly became aware of the exultation over the skilful manner in which the boss of one of the most odoriferous political machines in the country had wangled a presidential benediction from Mr. Roosevelt, the "knight in shining armor" professing high moral ideals.

Wears Grin of Satisfaction.

The boss himself, resplendent in one of his most fetching sartorial effects, wore a broad grin of satisfaction as he received the faithful, dispensed favors, and was glad handed by his lieutenants. Whatever personal and political anxiety the boss and his retainers had entertained since the President cracked down on him for banishing John L. Lewis' C. I. O. from Jersey City and flouting civil liberties, vanished the moment that Secretary of War Harry Woodring, officially in the name of Mr. Roosevelt, pronounced the presidential blessing on the Hague political régime in the armory last Monday night.

Everywhere among his followers Hague is being acclaimed for what is regarded the greatest achievement of his long career in machine politics. As they view it; Mr. Roosevelt, in the interest of getting a yes-man elected to the senate, has trampled on John Lewis and his C. I. O. and given Hague a clean bill of health. The President, in effect, has retracted his denunciation of Hague in his June fireside chat and become a potent apologist for the boss in his clash with the C. I. O. and the Roosevelt liberals.

Specter of Fear Removed.

With the President's O. K. affixed to his régime the boss no longer fears the long arm of the department of justice will bring him to account for trampling on civil liberties in the course of his suppression of the C. I. O. Nothing now is expected to come of the pending grand jury consideration of charges that in giving Norman Thomas the "bum's rush" out of Jersey City Hague's police violated the federal kidnaping act. A New Jersey state court ruled yesterday that Thomas violated state law in attempting to hold a meeting in Jersey City without a permit.

Hague is reciprocating the President's indorsement 100 per cent. In every public utterance he lauds Mr. Roosevelt as the greatest statesman of all time and proclaims the devotion of himself and his powerful organization to the New Deal. He has issued orders to give Ely a bumper vote on Nov. 8 and nobody doubts that he is on the square about it, for Hague has as much to gain as Mr. Roosevelt in the election of Ely. The President will get a yes-man, as Secretary Woodring proclaimed, while Hague will reinforce his political hold on the state in preparation for 1940.

Hague Orders Full Vote.

Orders from Hague to turn out a full vote ordinarily are construed by the Hague heelers to call for the limit in ballot box stuffing for which Jersey City is notorious. And the Jersey City vote frequently determines elections. On occasion, however, a certain circumspection has been enjoined upon the retainers. It is related that before one election a henchman passed the order thus:

"The word is: No zero boxes. There might be a Republican."

What with the Roosevelt-Hague coalition, the WPA vote, and the subsidized farmers, the Democratic leaders regard the election of Ely a foregone conclusion. Evidence of the return of the farmers to the Republican fold, which is an outstanding development in the west, is noticeably absent in this state. New Jersey's principal crop is potatoes. There was a big crop this year, but the government bought up the surplus and took it off the market, with the result that the farmers profited handsomely.

Consummation of the Hague-Roosevelt partnership has produced almost as much satisfaction among Republican leaders as in Jersey City. The Republicans assert that the deal has exposed the hollowness of Mr. Roosevelt's high moral pretensions and professed zeal for civil liberties and thereby alienated the liberal wing of the Democratic party which Hague cannot control. Disillusionment of confidence in Mr. Roosevelt's devotion to principle is already being reflected in the Democratic press in current comment on the Hague-Roosevelt deal.

It is upon the support of liberal Democrats that the Republican managers are counting for victory for the Republican candidate for senator, W. Warren Barbour, who has assailed Hagueism so vigorously as to win the indorsement of labor's Nonpartisan league, the C. I. O. political action department, and incur the danger of alienating conservative Republicans.

Evidence Amassed.

The Republicans have amassed much documentary and other circumstantial evidence of the manipulation of the WPA vote in the interest of Ely, who resigned as works progress administrator for New Jersey to run for senator and was succeeded by a close political and personal friend. The Republican state senate adopted a resolution this week demanding an investigation.

"The intimidation of WPA workers in New Jersey," said Representative Fred A. Hartley Jr. [R., N. J.], "has reached a stage where it surpasses the most flagrant abuses in the country. Witness the effrontery of Democratic Chairman McMahon of Essex county ordering by letter over his own signature every WPA worker to report to his district leader at ward and municipal political meetings. Each of these letters contained the significant statement: 'I intend to check the attendance at this meeting.'"

LANDON BLAMES ROOSEVELT FOR NATION'S JITTERS

Vienna, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Alf M. Landon blistered the Roosevelt administration for its dictatorial policies here today. The 1936 Republican presidential nominee laid full blame upon the administration for the failure of farm relief, the failure to restore business, and the failure to put the nation's idle men to work.

The former Kansas governor branded the administration's farm policy as everchanging, and said that each change concentrates more power in Washington.

"If the President's program of spending to save business were sound," Landon said, "we should now be doing a booming business.

"Business has been kept in a constant state of jitters. One day it is given a dose of deflation treatment. The next it is threatened with a shot of inflation. Then business is told that a little strong-arm medicine is what it needs."

18 VISITORS TALK OVER OLD TIMES WITH KONKOWSKI

Alderman Denies Charges Involving Police Jobs.

Ald. Frank E. Konkowski, who was supplanted as Democratic campaign leader in the 26th ward on Tuesday, received visits from eighteen young men last evening. They called on the alderman in his real estate office at 1030 Chicago avenue, where windows have been broken twice in the last month by salvos of bullets.

Each of the visitors had a private five minute conversation with the alderman. The young men refused to discuss the subject of their talks when they left Konkowski's sanctum.

How About Police List?

After their departure, Konkowski was asked whether the visits had any connection with rumors that his troubles in recent weeks were due to his failure to get some of his constituents' favorites on the list of eligible candidates for the police force. This list was posted recently. Konkowski denied that his callers had anything to do with the rumors.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan, assigned to investigate complaints against Konkowski, said he had several men at the alderman's office last night.

"They didn't question any of Konkowski's visitors," Coghlan said, "because they didn't think they could get any worthwhile information from them."

Denies Charges Involving Jobs.

Earlier in the day Konkowski gave an interview in his office.

"I suppose any one in politics has some enemies," he said, "but it is absurb to connect the fact that my office windows were shot out [on Sept. 22 and 30] with charges involving police jobs. Everybody knows that this sort of thing occurs in all the river wards. I wasn't alderman one day before somebody shot out all the windows all the way down the street, including my own office. That was nine years ago."

Konkowski denied that he had been ousted from command in his ward. He said he asked to be relieved of control of Democratic political activities until after the election Nov. 8. Konkowski, in addition to being alderman, is the regularly elected ward committeeman of his party. Both of his terms expire next spring.

Plans Visit to Clinic.

On Tuesday Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], acting chairman of the Democratic county central committee, appointed Joseph T. Baran, sanitary district trustee, as campaign manager in the 26th ward. Arvey said he made the appointment because Konkowski planned to be out of the city until after the election.

Konkowski said he will depart in a few days for the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn. There, he said, he plans to have five teeth removed and X-rays made.

"After the campaign, I'll return and take charge in the ward again," he declared.

AMUSES HIMSELF DODGING DEPUTY SHERIFS; CAUGHT

After three weeks of outwitting deputy sherifs, Harold Howard was locked up in jail yesterday. It took five hours, but one of the deputies outwitted him and served him with a summons to answer his wife's charge that he is $230 behind in payments for their child.

Howard is 30 years old. He lives at 7602 South Aberdeen street. His wife's attorney, Norman Becker, said deputies have been calling five times a day at Howard's home. But Howard amused himself, the attorney said, by telephoning to Mrs. Howard at 5630 South Trumbull avenue that her deputy was back, and wasn't going to get in. Judge Philip J. Finnegan didn't ask Howard to explain. He just sent him off to jail.

And how did the deputy find Howard? He hid so Howard would feel safe to leave and then served him when he returned at 1 a. m.—five hours later.

REPUBLICANS HIT BOSSES IN BOTH STATE AND CITY

Recall Democrats' Own Taunts in Primary.

Republican candidates for county offices had a field day yesterday at the weekly luncheon in the Hotel Sherman. County Chairman Edward F. Moore led off with a general attack on the Democratic opposition, and then candidate after candidate assailed his rival.

Moore's speech made a hit. The part that brought the most applause was a prediction of victory on Nov. 8. He sounded a note different from that of some county candidates who center their attacks on the Nash-Kelly organization. Moore included the Horner machine in his chastisement.

Recalls Taunts in Primary.

Henry D. Lindblad, nominee for president of the county board, followed with an argument that if what the Democrats said about each other in the primary was true then it is still true. Patrick Sheridan Smith, nominee for sherif, questioned the degree of harmony presented by the Democratic reunion luncheon last Monday.

Mrs. Leona M. Rohen, candidate for county commissioner, blamed the Democrats for the action of the American Medical association and the American College of Surgeons in dropping the Cook County hospital from their approved lists. Raymond J. Peacock charged that his opponent, Assessor John S. Clark, is ashamed to show his Democratic label on his biliboards and campaign cards.

Reports Change in Sentiment.

"I have reports from every ward in Chicago and every other city, village, and township in Cook county," said Chairman Moore in discussing his victory prediction. "These reports are all alike. They show such a tremendous change in public sentiment that I have no hesitancy in saying that if the election were held tomorrow the voters, who are fed up with Kelly-Nash boss rule, would elect the entire Republican ticket by majorities of at least 50,000 to 75,000 votes.

"Reports from downstate are even more encouraging. The ultra-conservative leaders predict that Richard J. Lyons, our candidate for the United States senate, will come up to the Cook county line over 200,000 votes in the lead.

High Cost of State Government.

Moore placed the responsibility for increased local taxes on the Nash-Kelly local governments, and continued:

"The Horner boss ruled Democratic state machine has boosted state expenses to the limit. Gov. Horner collects a 3 cent sales tax on everything the people of Illinois buy, including the baby's bottle of milk and the laborer's loaf of bread.

"This sales tax was voted by the legislature as an emergency relief need, but now only one cent of the three cents goes into the relief fund. The other two cents is used for Horner's ever growing army of political pay rollers and the extravagant cost of our state government."

In referring to the speeches the Democrats made about each other last spring, Landblad quoted from a radio speech in which Mayor Kelly condemned County Judge Jarecki. A quotation he read was as follows:

"The mayor of Chicago cannot close his eyes to the dilly-dally tactics of a county judge who, in the face of the collapse of the tax collecting machinery, has known and condoned the loopholes offered to the large property owning tax dodger.

Delay of Tax Cases.

"The county judge deliberately delayed the disposition of tax objection cases in his court for years despite the public cry for speed and justice. He played politics with the tax tragedy by constantly holding out false hopes of reductions to small taxpayers who in the end paid no less than before. . . . There are tax liens against 500,000 homes. The county judge permitted vested interests represented by high powered attorneys to take advantage of tax reductions while the small taxpayers were unheard and unprotected."

Mrs. Ogden Armour Faces New Operation on Jawbone

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, widow of the packer, is in the Western hospital in Toronto, Ont., preparing to undergo an operation on her jawbone. The surgeon in charge, Dr. Fulton Risdon, said in Toronto last night that the operation would not be serious and that Mrs. Armour's condition was good. She underwent a similar operation in July.

ASKS PERMANENT ORGANIZATION OF WOMEN IN G. O. P.

A permanent political organization for Republican women was proposed yesterday by Mrs. Mabel B. Krutckoff, women's chairman of the Cook county Republican Central committee.

In a letter directed to Republican women throughout the state, Mrs. Krutckoff declared such an organization would eliminate the cost of constantly rebuilding political groups, and would serve as a bureau to clarify all political problems which affect women.

Unless such a permanent headquarters is established, Mrs. Krutckoff pointed out, the women's division will close after election next month.

G. O. P. COUNTING ON HOUSE GAINS IN IOWA NOV. 8

Farmers' Change of Heart Hurts Democrats.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Battles over Iowa's nine house seats in congress in some close districts are overshadowing the races for senator and governor. Most politicians of both parties look for Republican gains. The Democrats now have five congressmen and the Republicans four.

Disaffection among the farmers on the Roosevelt regulated scarcity scheme, the drop in corn to 28 cents a bushel on the farm, and expansion south on the corn belt into the deep south on land taken out of cotton and tobacco at government expense is likely to change the complexion of the Iowa congressional delegation.

Republicans of experience figure their party will gain two or three seats. Democrat leaders privately look for a loss of one or two seats. Republican headquarters itself insists the ticket may make a clean sweep of the nine districts. A general opinion here is that the outlook is for seven Republican seats and two Democratic.

Stiff Battle in 9th.

The 9th district in northwest Iowa, the old home of radicalism, has been regarded as most likely of the nine to remain Democratic. But in recent weeks opinion has been changing. In Sioux City, political old timers declare the fight is about a tossup between Representative Vincent F. Harrington, Democrat, and Albert F. Swanson, Republican. Harrington has been active in getting federal projects for the district. But while he has been getting swimming pools, Swanson has been out whooping it up for the use of alcohol, made from corn, as fuel for automobiles, in mixture with gasoline.

Farmers in the northwest are showing growing discontent, and the idea that corn by-products might be a means of disposing of the surplus, which has refused to keep down under crop control, is hitting on all cylinders. It will be an interesting district to watch. It is Senator Guy M. Gillette's home district. He rolls up a great vote in the area, but whether others will ride on his coat tails, the politicians aver, remains to be seen.

Warm Contest in 2d.

The 2d and 4th districts in eastern Iowa have furious battles. In the 2d, Alfred C. Mueller, former mayor of Davenport, is Republican opponent of Representative W. S. Jacobsen, Democrat, who won by 25,668 two years ago. He is the son of the late Representative Bernhard M. Jacobsen of Clinton, Ia., a redoubtable vote getter, and lots of wets along the Mississippi are said to imagine they are still voting for the father.

In the 4th Representative Fred Biermann, Democrat, of Decorah, who beat Gilbert N. Haugen, of McNary-Haugen bill fame, in the 1932 Roosevelt slide, is opposed by H. O. Talle, a college professor. Biermann's pluralities have been slipping since 1932 and two years ago he won by only 4,500, less than 5 per cent of the vote cast. Republicans regard this district almost in the sack.

G. O. P. May Win District.

James P. Gaffney, Democrat, nominated in the 1st after Representative E. C. Eicher withdrew, is opposed by Thomas E. Martin, former mayor of Iowa City, Republican, who may win one of the seats expected by the Republicans.

The 7th district, now represented by Otha D. Wearin, Democrat supported by the White House kitchen cabinet in the effort to purge Gillette in the June primaries, gives signs of electing a Republican, Roger F. Warin, over Ben F. Jensen, Democrat.

In the senatorship race, L. J. Dickinson, former senator, is reiterating his challenge to Senator Gillette to engage in a series of debates. Dickinson first asked the senator to debate with him on the court packing bill, which Gillette opposed, and thus became marked as victim No. 1 for the purge, which he beat two to one in June. Dickinson has been attacking three other Supreme court bills introduced by Gillette, and has claimed the voters are confused.

Garage Owner Found Dead from Gas Fumes in His Car

Michigan City, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—William Wolff, 55 years old, garage proprietor, was found dead in his car in his home garage tonight. A hose had been run from the exhaust pipe into a window. The body was discovered by his daughters, Jean and Marion. There is another daughter, Adele.

HYDE PARK POLICE STATION SPORTS CAMPAIGN SIGNS

Candidates Violate City's Code on Posters.

Campaign posters were observed yesterday on the rear wall of the Hyde Park police station, 5233 Lake Park avenue, less than forty-eight hours after Police Commissioner Allman had repeated orders to his department to stop the posting.

On Monday the commissioner ordered Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed force, to enforce the city ordinance against bill posting.

"I added," the commissioner said, "that if the order wasn't enforced I would pull down something more than the handbills."

Three Posters Deface Wall.

Yesterday riders on Illinois Central suburban trains saw three campaign posters on the rear wall of the station. They advertised the candidacies of John B. Geary [D.] for the state senate, Bernard M. Epstein [R.], Geary's opponent for the senate, and James Weber Linn, University of Chicago professor and Democratic candidate for the state house of representatives.

Sandwiched in between the posters was an advertisment for a comic opera.

Law Prohibits Placards.

In addition to a city ordinance prohibiting the posting of signs or bills on utility poles the city code expressly makes it unlawful to mark or deface any public building, station house, or engine house belonging to the city.

Republicans have been at a disadvantage recently because of the refusal of Otto Krueger, business manager of the bill posters' union, to post signs reading "Smash Nash-Kelly Boss Rule—Vote Republican." Krueger said he didn't like the wording of the signs.

This censorship spread to the Republican Municipal court candidates on Tuesday, when a member of the union declined to post a sign approved by the candidates and which also assailed the city administration.

KELLY, HORNER TO JOIN IN FOUR PEACE MEETINGS

1st Gathering Tonight at Broadway Armory.

Four Democratic massmeetings, at which Mayor Kelly and Gov. Horner will speak, are to be held within the next six days. This was announced last night by State Tax Commissioner Charles K. Schwartz, a member of the coördinating committee appointed to smooth party factional differences for the duration of the campaign.

The Broadway armory will be the site of the first of the harmony gatherings, according to Schwartz. He said party workers and voters of the north side would meet there tonight. The second meeting is to be held in the Dexter Park pavilion in the stockyards tomorrow night and the third in state armory at 2653 Madison street on Monday. The fourth get-together will be in the Guyon Paradise ballroom, 128 North Pulaski road.

Lucas and Lewis to Speak.

"Scott W. Lucas, candidate for the senate, and Louie E. Lewis, nominee for state treasurer, will also speak at the meetings," said Schwartz. "Gov. Horner will arrive in Chicago from Washington in the morning and will stay here over the week-end. Mayor Kelly also is expected back from the Eucharistic congress in New Orleans in ample time to attend the north side meeting."

Schwartz disclosed the plans while he was at a party of the 18th ward Democratic organization in the Trianon ballroom, 62d street and Cottage Grove avenue. This is the home ward of State's Attorney Courtney. The prosecutor attended this affair and introduced the candidates. He also handed prizes to winners, but made no remarks of political significance. His part, if any, in the Kelly-Horner harmony program was not discussed.

Defends Alphabetical Bureaus.

Candidate Lucas spoke last night to an audience of 400 in the Masonic temple in Waukegan. He defended the government alphabetical agencies and praised the leadership of President Roosevelt. He said that the Republican nominee, Richard J. Lyons, had promised WPA workers jobs at $200 a month in private industry, and asserted this was impossible.

An earlier meeting of Lucas followers, scheduled for 3 p. m. in Lyons' home town of Libertyville, was canceled. Only twenty-three listeners appeared at the time set. Lucas arrived an hour late and drove through town without stopping to address the patient handful awaiting him. He explained later that he didn't know he was expected at 3 o'clock.

DR. FORD NAMED PRESIDENT OF U. OF MINNESOTA

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Dr. Guy Stanton Ford, dean of the Graduate school, was elected president of the University of Minnesota tonight by a 7 to 4 vote of the board of regents, succeeding former President Lotus D. Coffman, who died Sept. 22. All four regents who voted against Ford were appointed by Farmer-Labor Gov. Elmer A. Benson. Dr. Ford, who has been a member of the university faculty for twenty-five years, is 65 years old. Under the compulsory retirement rule, he will be retired in three years, when he reaches 68.

REPUBLIC STEEL TOLD TO REHIRE 5,000 STRIKERS

Unfair Practices Charged by Labor Board.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The National Labor Relations board today held the Republic Steel corporation guilty of unfair labor practices and violence in the C. I. O. inspired little steel strike in the summer of 1937.

The board ordered the company to reinstate and give back pay to approximately 5,000 workers who walked out of its Ohio plants. Eleven strikers who had been convicted of crimes or had pleaded guilty to acts of violence during the strike were barred from reinstatement.

These provisions were identical with those in the board's original ruling against the steel company last April. The ruling was withdrawn in alarm over the United States Supreme court's expression of aversion for star chamber methods of governmental agencies.

Relief Wages Deducted.

The ruling today contained one new and radical departure from previous orders of the board. This was a provision allowing the steel company to deduct from the back pay of reinstated employés all money that these workers had received on federal, state, county, municipal, and other relief projects or from other private employers.

Except for deductions for pay received from private employers, however, the board will not permit this money to remain in the company's treasury. The 100,000 word order of the labor board instructed the company to pay over the deducted money to the disbursing relief agency.

This phase of the order, the work of an anonymous brain truster, was expected to provoke a legal battle. Administration officials, who rubbed their hands gleefully over the provision as another administration weapon against business, were confident it will be upheld by the courts.

Employé Violence Overlooked.

The attitude of the labor board, which has been called the judicial branch of the C. I. O. by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, is that no punishment is too great for any violation of the Wagner labor relations act on the part of an employer. At the same time, the board in its decisions has overlooked employé violence as righteous indignation against interference with the right to organize.

In other administration quarters, particularly in the Works Progress administration—which put the strikers on relief at the orders of WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins—the relief reimbursement phase of the NLRB order was a signal for jubilation.

"The fat cats wanted to know where the money was coming from to pay for relief," said one official. "Now they are beginning to find out."

Company Unions Upset.

The decision of the three man board, which was unanimous, was served on the corporation, of which Tom M. Girdler is head, in Cleveland. The company plants affected by the order are in Youngstown, Canton, Massilon, and Warren, O.

The order directed the company to disestablish as employé collective-bargaining agencies the company unions which were set up against the steel workers' organizing committee of the C. I. O.

If necessary, the order said, the company shall dismiss workers hired after the strike in order to reinstate strikers. If all strikers cannot be absorbed, those who cannot be given employment shall be placed on a preferred list.

Retreats from First Stand.

The board retreated from its first decision last April under fire of federal courts. The original order was withdrawn as it was being challenged in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Philadelphia. The board's action was forced by the Supreme court rebuke to Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace for failing to give live stock exchange traders a fair hearing in the fixing of rates.

NLRB officials, recognizing that they, too, were open to attack because they had pursued the same procedure in denying employers a fair hearing, withdrew their original order to correct procedural defects. The company fought against the withdrawal, but the Supreme court upheld the board.

Sweeps Company Stand Aside.

The final order swept aside with harsh language the company's contention that many of the strikers should not be reinstated because of their participation in acts of violence.

"It must be remembered," the board said, "that the acts of which the respondent complains were committed by strikers in the heat and turmoil of bitter industrial strife in which the threat of violence on the part of the respondent against the strikers was ever present and frequently carried into execution; that the strike was brought on fundamentally by the respondent's own unlawful acts; that the respondent had itself been guilty of brutal acts of violence in the period of organization preceding the strike, and the respondent itself committed or was responsible for acts of violence during the strike far more serious than those attributed to the strikers in question."

MACHINIST TELLS EFFORTS TO SELL SONGS HE WROTE

Robert Nicholas Wilkins twisted his big hands as he sat on the witness stand before Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday. Wilkins, who is 33 years old, is a machinist from Lynn, Mass. But that's not why he was before Judge Holly. He was a government witness against Daryl C. Doran, who is on trial on twelve charges of using the mails to defraud in connection with a song marketing scheme. The government charges he took fees from hundreds but marketed no songs.

Under questioning by Assistant United States District Attorney A. Bradley Eben, Wilkins said he had written "Smiling in Spite of You," "Mine in Reality," and "That's What You Call Love"—all unmarketed. Questioned further, Wilkins twisted his big hands and named one more: "Moonlight and Starlight and You." The case will continue today.

LABOR LEADER TELLS BID TO BECOME A RED

Invitation Given by U. S. Officials, He Says.

They don't even want to win a strike. They prefer to keep the workers discontented.

When Knox referred to Walter P. and Roy Reuther, leaders in the sit-down strikes of 1937, Chairman Dies asked him whether they were communists.

"No, they are Socialists, very hare-brained revolutionary Socialists," Knox said. "The left-wing revolutionary Socialists are more dangerous than the communists. They are the low-bred Socialists. An intelligent Socialist wouldn't speak to one of them."

Knox said he built his local up to a membership of 24,000 before he was ousted by Martin and the executive board at the instance of the communists. They have only about 10,000 members now, he said.

First Strike in 1936.

Clyde Morrow, an employé of the Ford Motor company in Detroit, told the committee that the communists organized the first sitdown strike in Michigan, at the Midland Steel company plant in 1936. He said the strike was led by John Anderson, communist candidate for governor in 1934.

Morrow said he joined the communist party to get information. He testified that the technique of the sit-down strike was evolved in experiments by the communist party in 1933 and 1934.

A spokesman for the labor board said today it had no lawyer named Ben Wolf, but that Benedict Wolf was secretary of the board in 1934.

NEW YORK TUGBOAT STRIKERS VOTE TO RESUME THEIR JOBS

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Approximately 1,000 tugboat workers who went on strike Saturday after a wage dispute voted today to return to work at midnight under the terms of a settlement proposed by Mayor F. H. La Guardia. The mayor's plan suggested a procedure to be followed in future wage negotiations.

The strike, which forced the 80,000 ton liner Queen Mary and other ships to dock over the week-end without the aid of tugboats, involved an additional 1,000 members of an A. F. of L. union who did not attend the meeting at which the settlement was ratified.

TROOPS REOPEN SWIFT PLANT IN SIOUX CITY, IA.

Sioux City, Ia., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Swift and Company's packing plant, which was besieged last night by C. I. O. rioters, was reopened today under protection of troops. Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel ordered six companies of National Guardsmen to strike duty after city officials asked for aid.

The trouble last night started when more than 1,000 men and women advanced on the packing plant with the announced intention of dragging out 150 workmen who were inside.

For the present the guardsmen will assist the civil officers. All employés who desire to do so will be allowed to return to work. Pickets will be kept away from the plant and C. I. O. meetings will not be allowed within the military zone.

HORNER URGES KERNER FOR U. S. APPEALS COURT

Backs Attorney General for New Seat.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois today submitted the name of Otto Kerner, Illinois attorney general, for the new seat on the 7th United States Circuit Court of Appeals bench at Chicago.

Otto Kerner.

The governor called on Attorney General Homer S. Cummings at the department of justice on his arrival from Hyde Park, N. Y., where he visited President Roosevelt yesterday.

The submission of Kerner's name for the new post complicated the Illinois judicial situation in which the administration has been treading softly.

The administration was anxious not to roil the factional feud between the governor and the forces of Mayor Kelly and Democratic National Committeeman Nash in Chicago.

Until Horner stepped in, Kerner had been considered for a district judgeship, along with Michael L. Igoe, United States district attorney at Chicago and a Nash-Kelly man. Kerner was to get the new downstate district post and Igoe was to get the opening which would be created by the elevation of a Chicago district judge to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

It had been expected that the promotion would be secured for Judge Philip L. Sullivan by Senator James Hamilton Lewis, who looks upon Sullivan and Igoe as his protégés. Judge William H. Holly who has the backing of Secretary of the Interior Ickes, was conceded a chance to go up.

Surprised Over State Post.

Gov. Horner professed to know nothing of the judicial ambitions or hopes of any one except Kerner. He said he had submitted Kerner's name before the last vacancy was filled by the appointment of Walter Treanor of Indiana and still was behind his candidate. Asked about the new downstate district post, he expressed surprise that such a vacancy existed and said he would get busy on it.

The governor left the capital in the afternoon for Chicago and Springfield.

Illinois Mortality Rate of 10.6 in 1938 New Low

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The state health department today reported that a mortality rate of 10.6 for each 1,000 estimated population during the first eight months this year was a new low for Illinois. Trafic fatalities for the period were reported as 1,212, or 23 per cent under the total for the corresponding period last year.

LYONS AROUSES VOTERS WITH HIS ATTACK ON REDS

Issue Brings Thousands Back to Republicanism.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fairfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Any one who doubts the popularity of the anti-communism issue has not attended a downstate meeting of Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator. Tonight, as usual, the wildest applause was for Lyons' savage attack upon communistic activities in this country.

Cheers and stomping of feet by the audience reflected Lyons' fervor when he cried that all communists within our borders should be sent to Europe in cattle boats. Similar demonstrations have occurred at every one of his talks on the final week of his downstate campaign.

Tonight the young candidate waved newspaper clippings quoting Jack Kling, state secretary of the communist party in Illinois, saying the communists are out to defeat him.

"The communists have no candidate except the New Deal candidate," Lyons said. "The election of my opponent would mean a victory for the communists in Illinois."

KERNER TO FORCE RETURN OF FLOOD RELIEF FUNDS

Attorney General Kerner said yesterday he is prepared to take the final steps necessary to compel W. H. Thompson, a former mayor of Chicago, to surrender $72,794 left in his hands from a Mississippi flood relief fund collected in 1927.

Last Monday the United States Supreme court denied a petition for a writ sought as a means of stopping enforcement of a decree of the Cook county Circuit court. This decree, which was upheld in the Illinois Appellate court, ordered that the money be turned over to the American Red Cross.

The attorney general said he would serve notice today that he will appear in the Appellate court next Wednesday and ask that its mandate be certified to the Circuit court. Thereupon the Circuit court is expected to fix a deadline before which the money must be paid. Mr. Kerner began this case in 1933 in conformity with a campaign pledge he made in 1932.

A STEP BEYOND

By CALEB

A GIFT FALLS short if it fails to carry with it opportunity for the recipient. We are told by the men and women whose work brings them constantly in contact with those who need help that the most prevalent and consistent cry is for opportunity.

"I must accept gifts of food and clothes today because my need is great. But—if only I had the opportunity I could do something so that we wouldn't need such gifts any more." So speaks the great collective voice of those who today are forced to turn to the community for aid. The spirit of American independence is strong, it asks sustenance—but above all opportunity.

Dependence, steady and unceasing, is for many still a bitter pill to swallow. The qualities that drove our ancestors to these lands and sustained them through generations of unremitting toil do not die in a few years. But the corrosive action of long adversity eats toward the very heart of that older spirit—and beyond all doubt, threatens its existence.

The cry—and the need—are for opportunity—a form of assistance by the community that goes beyond, the line of sustenance and shelter. Man does not live by bread alone—particularly not the bitter bread of dependence. And so, bound up with the community duty to keep body and soul together, is the responsibility for a further step toward rehabilitation and opportunity.

To this challenge there is one obvious, effective answer — supplied by the many groups organized in the community for the specific purpose of filling man's spirit along with his stomach. Joining forces, they annually launch one great concerted drive for funds in a project that enlists the best in every member of the community.

This week the Community Fund of Chicago is being gathered—an emphatic, italicized answer to the serious challenge of any aid that feeds men's bodies and not their souls. The one is not enough without the other. If we are to survive as a community, we must feed both—and the 175 organizations in the Community Fund, representing many faiths and nationalities, are the most powerful weapons the community has at hand to use for such an end.

The Community Fund has found unfailing response in the past because there is a general recognition of its essential function. This year, with needs still pressing, the response is certain to be generous. And for another season the community will be able to bestow, at least in some measure, the priceless gift of opportunity.

DEATH OF WOMAN AND POLICEMAN HELD ACCIDENT

He Ignores Warning Bell and Auto Hits Train.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday at the inquest over Policeman Raymond J. Schmitt, 31 years old, 5040 Altgeld street, and Miss Lottie Wilczynski, 23, of 2101 North Marmora avenue.

They were killed early in the day when Schmitt's car collided with a Milwaukee road freight train at the Grand street crossing in Elmwood Park. Testimony indicated the policeman drove past swinging red lights and a sounding bell and struck the locomotive almost head on at the angling crossing.

Pedestrian Fatally Injured.

Frank Canty, 40 years old, 8041 Vincinnes avenue, was fatally injured by an automobile yesterday while crossing the street near his home. The driver, John Byberg, 5931 Perry avenue, took Canty to the Auburn Park hospital where he died two hours later. Byberg was held.

Arthur O'Connell, 30 years old, 3501 Van Buren street, a chauffeur, died in the County hospital of injuries suffered Tuesday when his motorcycle was hit by an automobile at Hubbard and Wood streets. The driver, George Jorgensen, 1019 North Central avenue, was charged with reckless driving.

The body of John Vidrinas, 55 years old, was found yesterday in an old frame cottage at 10324 Indianapolis avenue where he lived alone. An examination by a coroner's physician indicated Vidrinas had been struck by an automobile and either crawled or was helped into the house.

Heart Attack Kills Driver.

Shortly after stopping his car at Foster and Kedzie avenues after a minor trafic accident, Charles Stuker, 45 years old, of 5536 North Spaulding avenue, died of a heart attack yesterday.

Andrew Henninger, 67 years old, 3001 North Keating avenue, died of injuries incurred Sunday when he was struck by a car while crossing Cicero avenue at Wellington avenue. Attorney Charles Kramer of 5338 Washington boulevard, was the driver.

Albert Slapelis of Chicago was killed and three other men were injured when their car left route 80 near Port Byron, Ill., struck a telephone pole and overturned. D. C. Jones of Chicago was among the injured. The Chicago addresses were not learned.

Morris Rothman, 59 years old, 1405 North Rockwell street, was critically injured by a hit-and-run automobile last night at Hirsch street and Maplewood avenue. He was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 661 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county. Of these, 513 were killed in Chicago, where 15,869 were injured in the same period.

DEWEY BLASTS CORRUPT RULE BY NEW DEALERS

Racket Buster Charges Crime Alliance.

Brooklyn Democratic political machines.

The reference to the Brooklyn political machine was pertinent to the pending house cleaning in Brooklyn, the appointment of a special prosecutor which was forced on Gov. Lehman, and the current scandal surrounding the theft of records in Brooklyn police headquarters.

Politics for profit is at the masthead of the Democratic machine in Albany, said Dewey.

Sale of Justice Charged.

"Imagine their grin," he said of the Albany Democratic politicians, "as they voted for a social welfare plan at the Democratic state convention."

The Brooklyn machine must also have found humor in a sound finance plank in the party platform, he said, because justice has been on sale "in everything from murder cases down," in the county in which the machine rules.

"At present the Democratic party of this state stands before you as a discredited political organization," Dewey said. "Twice in the last five years in New York City the people have repudiated that organization and everything it stands for.

"Scandal after scandal has besmirched its records. In New York county, Brooklyn, and Erie public pressure has finally forced the state administration to take action in some of the more flagrant cases. Betrayal of public trust by the Democratic organizations of these communities has become a fixed habit.

Party Called Unfit.

"These ever recurring scandals are the results of causes deep rooted within the Democratic machines of the state. Utterly unfit to govern locally, the party is unfit to govern the state."

The meaning of Dewey's references to betrayal of public trust and recurring scandals was clear to most of his listeners, although he did not directly mention names or places.

It was evident, however, that he referred to conditions in Manhattan which brought about his own appointment as a special prosecutor—a move into which Gov. Lehman was maneuvered when public indignation brought a demand that District Attorney William C. Dodge, a Tammany wheelhorse, be supplanted in New York City in the prosecution of pyramiding rackets. Dewey got the job and results began to pile up.

It also was clear that he referred indirectly to circumstances surrounding criminal prosecution in Brooklyn under District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan, who this week was superseded for the third time when investigation of political-criminal alliances was forced on Gov. Lehman. In 1936 Lehman gave Geoghan a clean bill of health when Geoghan was called on the carpet for negligence as a law enforcer.

"The last six years," Dewey said, "have seen sincere efforts to solve problems too long neglected. But where these objectives have been lost or obscured by party politics or personal hatreds we should strive to clear the way.

"We must fight to uphold every sound measure passed or offered for the relief of human distress, the advancement of the cause of labor, and the promotion of economic security."

The fault he found was that the "New Deal in government"—the efforts at legislative reforms rooted in the economic structure—had struck a snag. They had not, he declared, been carried through. Recovery had not been stimulated.

"The excesses of business in the old days have made possible the excesses of government today," he said. "I hope business has learned its lesson. I hope government will do the same.

"The federal administration has too often fumbled near the goal. It has callously wasted public funds for political purposes."

SURVEY BEGUN TO SEE HOW MANY N. Y. POLICE RECORDS ARE GONE

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Investigators today started a comprehensive survey of police records in New York City, after the disclosure that records of 7,200 arrests had been stolen in Brooklyn. Twenty-five investigators and accountants from the office of William B. Herlands, commissioner of investigation, will make the survey.

The wholesale theft of the crime records was made from the presumed security of Brooklyn police headquarters between 4:45 p. m. Monday and 9:25 a. m. Tuesday.

The theft was perpetrated on the eve of the special investigation of official corruption charges for which Gov. Herbert H. Lehman has appointed John Harlan Amen special prosecutor.

"Someone with a terribly guilty conscience did this," said Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine. As for the possibility that records also had been stolen from police stations in Manhattan, an official at headquarters said it was true certain records requested by Herlands had not been located.

After the twenty-nine made donations, speeding charges against them were dismissed.

DRINKS AT BAR WITH 2 WOMEN; STRICKEN; DIES

Joseph Bushnell, 71 years old, of Wilmette, a widower, ordered drinks for himself and two women companions last night in a tavern at 10 West Lake street. Before the drinks were served Bushnell became violently ill, then unconscious. He died en route to St. Luke's hospital.

The women, seized by central police for questioning, said they had met Bushnell earlier in the evening in another tavern at 164 North State street. One of the women, a platinum blonde, said she was Mrs. Dorothy Keith, 33, a producer of tavern floor shows. Her companion said she was Mrs. Lucille Larson, 37, a housewife. Mrs. Larson was carrying a star inscribed "Chief Janitor—C. P. S." She said she had obtained it from a friend who is a janitor at the central police station.

Cards in Bushnell's pocket indicated he lived at 1010 12th street in Wilmette. His daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Hess, who lives there, said Bushnell had a room in the neighborhood. She said she last saw him in the morning.

RUNNING MATE OF GOV. LEHMAN LINKED TO REDS

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Senator John J. McNaboe, a Democrat, after attacking the American Civil Liberties union as a communist organization, said today that former Supreme Court Justice Charles Poletti, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor and running mate of Gov. Herbert Lehman, had been a director of the union in 1933. Speaking at a luncheon, Senator McNaboe said a spokesman for the Civil Liberties union had admitted that communism was its goal.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes predicted today that President Roosevelt might have to run for a third term in 1940, but added quickly: "For his sake I hope he doesn't." The secretary, on a tour of Pacific coast PWA projects, said he believed the President would carry the United States if he ran again.

TWO MISTAKES BLAMED FOR 200 POISONING CASES

Baker Errs and Workman Turns Wrong Valve.

A workman turned the wrong valve and a baker let his materials stand overnight. These two men, it was learned yesterday, are believed responsible for the double wave of poisoning that attacked some 200 persons and caused two deaths a month ago.

The state department of public health, the Chicago board of health, and the department of public works are conducting investigations into the poisonings, which occurred in Elmwood Park and Chicago areas near that suburb. They have made no official reports, but some of their tentative findings have become known.

Two Waves of Poisonings.

Their present theory is that there were two separate waves of poisoning, unconnected as to cause. Part of the poison victims, all of whom were attacked by intestinal complaints, are believed to have been victims of tainted water. The remainder, it is thought, were poisoned by tainted cream fillings in pastry.

The first poison cases came to the attention of authorities on Friday, Sept. 16, when one of the victims died. On the preceding Tuesday, a gang from the city water pipe extension division was repairing hydrants on the northwest side. To facilitate their work, one of the workmen was instructed to turn the shutoff valve in a 12 inch main feeding the hydrants.

By mistake he turned the valve of a 24 inch main. That main runs from the Mayfair pumping station, and supplies Norwood Park and nearby areas in Chicago. The main was shut off for nearly two hours, until complaints of failed water pressure reached the work gang. Then the main was turned on again.

Usual Precaution Not Taken.

All this was done without the knowledge of water purification engineers at the pumping stations. Because they did not learn what happened they were unable to take the precaution against pollution which is routine whenever it is necessary to close a large main. This precaution consists of tripling the usual dosage of bacteria killing chlorine with which Chicago water is treated.

Water ordinarily flows slowly through a large main. When the supply is turned on after a shutdown, it flows swiftly for a time, stirring up silt that has settled. After the 24 inch main was turned on again on Sept. 13, residents served by it reported that their water was muddy. Among others, teachers in the Sayre school noticed this, and forbade children to use drinking fountains.

Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt pointed out yesterday that it has not been definitly established that water was responsible for any of the poisonings. However, poison cases were reported that could not be traced to the other cause, tainted pastry, and a shutdown water main, engineers say, is a potential source of pollution unless carefully guarded.

Trace Pastry to Bakery.

That tainted pastry played a part in the poisonings was demonstrated to investigators both by the large number of victims who had eaten cream filled pastry, and by the fact that some of the persons poisoned were not served water by the supposedly polluted main.

The investigators traced a quantity of the suspected pastry to an Elmwood Park bakery. This pastry was filled with a cream mixture of eggs, sugar, cornstarch and other ingredients that form an ideal growing food for the staphylococcus bacteria responsible for pastry poisoning.

There is no danger in eating such pastries if the filling is freshly prepared. Cooking destroys any bacteria that may be present. The investigators found, however, that one of the pastry bakers had been in the habit of preparing his filling the night before it was used, and leaving it overnight in a covered container. Ten hours are a sufficient time for bacterial infection, if introduced in such a mixture accidentally, to grow to dangerous strength.

A. M. A. IS ASKED: TELL US WHAT TO DO AT HOSPITAL

County Officials Urge New Survey.

The American Medical association will be asked to make a survey of the Cook County hospital, Dr. R. W. McNealy, president of the hospital medical staf, said yesterday. The A. M. A. dropped the hospital last summer from its list of those approved as training centers for interns.

On Monday the hospital was dropped from the approved list of the American College of Surgeons. Dr. McNealy said he would wait for formal notice of this action before deciding whether to ask the A. C. S. to make a survey of the hospital also.

Smith Favors A. M. A. Inquiry.

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, said he favored Dr. McNealy's request to the A. M. A. Smith added that he will sponsor a resolution at the next county board meeting asking the legislature to remove any doubt that a nonresident of Illinois can be appointed head of the hospital. This question has been raised before the county board, which appoints the head of the institution.

"I'm very much in favor of having the A. M. A. inspect the hospital," President Smith said. "We have done and will do everything in our power to comply with any recommendations that they can make which will aid the poor people who receive treatment at the hospital.

"We tried to get Dr. Black to head the hospital. When we couldn't get him we appointed Gen. McCloskey as warden. Let the A. M. A. come into the hospital and tell us what they find wrong."

Favors Change in Title.

Smith referred to Dr. Benjamin W. Black of Oakland, Cal., a leading authority on hospital management, and Brig. Gen. Manus McCloskey, retired. Smith added that the title of warden should be changed to something with less of a prison taint.

"I have had a good deal of correspondence with the A. M. A. as to why the County hospital was dropped from the approved list," Dr. McNealy said. "The principal objection seems to be to the appointment of Gen. McCloskey. I can't understand this as the A. M. A. dropped us in June and Gen. McCloskey wasn't appointed until the end of July."

The A. M. A. first objected to practices at the hospital in April, 1934, Dr. McNealy said, when it objected to acceptance of Chicago Medical school graduates as interns. The school is not accredited in the A classification by the A. M. A.

Cause of Complaint Renewed.

Penalties were imposed on graduates of nonaccredited schools in the competitive examinations for internships, Dr. McNealy continued, and this eliminated what appeared to be the A. M. A.'s principal objection.

"The recent objections to Gen. McCloskey and the corrected condition in regard to the Chicago Medical school are the only specific complaints against the hospital we have had from the A. M. A.," Dr. McNealy said.

The county board, at the suggestion of a citizens' committee which studied the hospital, asked Dr. Black to come here as the head of the hospital. Dr. Black is the health director of Alameda county, Cal., and has a distinguished record in public health work.

He came to Chicago to confer with the county board and was offered $18,000 a year, $6,000 a year more than the salary of Michael Zimmer, who resigned as warden of the hospital last November. The commissioners were unable to give Dr. Black a contract and there was some question then whether he could occupy the post because he was not a resident of Illinois.

Dr. Black was reported to have accepted the job, however, on condition that Alameda county would give him a year's leave of absence. But the Alameda county board of supervisors refused to allow him to leave for that time.

The citizens' committee then recommended Gen. McCloskey, who has a distinguished record as any army administrator. He was appointed on July 28 by the county commissioners and accepted the wardenship the next day.

Dr. McNealy, President Smith, and Dr. Karl Meyer, chief of staf of the hospital, all claim the A. M. A. is being unfair in condemning Gen. McCloskey without giving him time to show what he can do.

ARRAIGN COUPLE IN SHORTAGE OF SCHOOL WARANTS

Al D. Young and his wife, Mae Petersen Young, charged with embezzlement and forgery in connection with a $5,000 shortage of Lombard school warants, were arraigned yesterday before Circuit Judge William J. Fulton in Wheaton and pleaded not guilty. Their trials were set for Nov. 28.

Young launched a promotion last spring that was to turn the village of New Lebanon, west of Elgin, into a frontier town and dude ranch. Investors from Du Page, Kane and De Kalb counties complained when the ranch failed to materialize. At this time Young married the then Mae Petersen, who for ten years had been secretary of the Lombard school board. They are both under indictment for embezzlement in connection with the warant shortage and he is also charged with forgery.

The Youngs are held in the Du Page county jail in bonds of $12,500 each.

AILING MOTOR PERILS PACIFIC CLIPPER, BUT PILOT REACHES PORT

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Passengers voiced praise today for A. E. La Forte, Pan American Airways pilot, who sideslipped the Philippine Clipper from an altitude of about 8,500 to 100 feet within four minutes after one of its starboard motors began smoking and spitting oil.

Dr. Lafayette Monson of San Francisco, said the incident took place 600 miles from Guam after departing from Manila.

"We were calmly informed by the plane's officers we probably would have to attempt a landing," said Dr. Monson. "Each of us was given a life preserver. We skimmed the waves for 10 or 15 minutes and then resumed the flight to Guam, where the motor was changed."

GAS LINE BREAK FOUND CAUSE OF AIRLINER FIRE

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Engine vibration that broke oil and fuel lines caused the fire in the air that destroyed an Eastern Airlines plane a few miles from Montgomery airport last night. A damaged propeller caused the vibration.

Although the plane was lost, the fourteen persons aboard were safe due to skilful landing of the burning ship in a meadow by Pilot Dave Hissong. Hissong was burned painfully on his head, face and hands. He was the only person aboard the ship who received any serious injury.

The explanation of the fire was advanced today by Hissong after he returned to the wreckage and examined the charred remains of the twin-motored plane. He was swathed in bandages, but insisted his burns were inconsequential.

ASK POLICEMAN'S ARREST IN ARSON CONFESSION FAKE

Judge Rooney Again Puts Off His Decision.

In a short, boisterous hearing before Judge John J. Rooney in the Felony court yesterday, Attorney Joseph T. Harrington and his clients, Frank Kolesiak and Emil Guerreri, victims of the notorious fake arson confessions, applied for warants for Policeman Sol Corsi of the Maxwell street station. The applications were taken under advisement, as in the cases of Harrington's requests for warants for eight other persons, including State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas of Jacksonville.

The warants requested for Policeman Corsi charge kidnaping, false arrest and illegal compelling of a fake confession. The attorney said he discovered only recently that Corsi, without the knowledge of any superior in the police department, accompanied Coultas and his amateur sleuths in the arrest of Guerreri for the fatal fire in the Center hotel on West Madison street last April.

Force and Threats Charged.

Although even the firemen said the fire was not of incendiary origin, Coultas and his amateur investigators arrested Kolesiak and Guerreri and by force and threats, it is charged, forced them to confess setting the blaze in which eight men were killed.

The judge allowed Attorney Harrington's petition for a subpena for the records of a concern which Harrington charged supplied the amateur sleuths to Coultas. The subpena calls for the Illinois Publishing and Printing company and its officials, Harry A. Krehler, Henry Browne, Harry Canfield, and John W. Dienhart, to produce in court tomorrow morning "all records, expense accounts, documents, and photographs in their possession, which will disclose various expenditures for the investigation."

10th Attempt in 14 Days.

Attorney Harrington, who yesterday made his tenth trip in fourteen days to the Felony court with his clients, seeking warants, was obviously irked when his latest application was continued.

"Let me say this," said the attorney as the judge announced he would continue the matter. "In every other case which comes into this court the warant is issued immediately."

"Yes that is right," replied the judge.

Harrington thought Judge Rooney was going to continue the warant applications until after the election, and said so. Judge Rooney said he had made a mistake in the date, Dec. 21, and changed it to Oct. 21, adding that he didn't see what the election had to do with the case. Judge Rooney is up for reëlection Nov. 8.

Courtney Awaits Warants.

Attorney General Otto Kerner, who had been asked by Harrington to assign a special prosecutor to the case, has been assured by State's Attorney Courtney that Courtney will prosecute if the warants are obtained, it was learned yesterday.

Harrington had charged in his telegraphed request to Kerner that Courtney had refused to prosecute the case. It was learned that the state's attorney told Kerner that he [Courtney] had never refused and would never refuse to prosecute a case in which warants had been obtained.

Gov. Horner is conducting a personal investigation of Coultas' case.

Two Storekeepers Fined for Giving Short Weight

Two storekeepers were fined $25 each yesterday by Municipal Judge Erwin J. Hasten for giving short weight. They are Edward Knight, 1372 East 63d street, and Jacob Klein, 508 South Halsted street. Knight was charged with short weighing a chicken and Klein, with short weighing old gold.

LULI KIVINAKI.

Luli Kivinaki, 22 years old, was still held by police yesterday as the search continued for her sweetheart, Anthony Haidl, suspected of having taken part in a holdup Tuesday of a store at 3532 North avenue. One of the two bandits, Arthur Stafford, 28, of 2446 Madison street, was captured. The second man, identified by Stafford as Haidl, escaped. Luli was found in Haidl's apartment at 3422 Grace street, as were a .45 caliber automatic, a .38 pistol, three rifles, and a civil war ball pistol.

INDIANA TO HEAR G.O.P. BROADCAST FROM CORNFIELD

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—From the same Daviess county cornfield that held the tented Republican conference a few weeks ago, G. O. P. leaders will broadcast a message on the night of Oct. 29 to mass meetings in each of Indiana's voting precincts.

The plan was outlined today to the state's ninety-two Republican county chairmen by Archie N. Bobbitt, state chairman. The rally program was worked out by Bobbitt and Homer E. Capehart, owner of the Daviess county farm and host several weeks ago to more than 35,000 Republicans gathered for the Capehart cornfield conference.

Promptly at 9 p. m. the speakers will take the air over a state-wide hookup, including stations in Indianapolis, Elkhart, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Gary, Muncie, Richmond, South Bend and Terre Haute.

"It is estimated," the Republican state committee announced tonight, that more than 500,000 persons will hear the speeches from the cornfield in these precinct meetings."

KILL AND CARRY AWAY HOGS.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Thieves last night killed and carried away the carcasses of six fat hogs, but abandoned the carcass of a 500 pound sow at the Sylvania Cunningham farm, near here.

CHICAGO ARSON FAKE PLAGUES FIRE MARSHAL

Coultas Is Quizzed in Springfield Trial.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Beatings administered to two innocent men to force them to confess arson in connection with a recent Chicago fire haunted State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas today. Coultas was on the witness stand in Circuit court here to testify against William Rath, on trial for arson.

Rath is accused of having burned two homes he owned here in March, 1927. The case against him hinges on a confession Coultas says Rath made voluntarily. Rath repudiates the confession, asserting it was obtained after he had been beaten into submission and denied food and water for thirteen hours in Coultas' office.

Parallel in Chicago.

Similar charges have been made against Coultas in Chicago. Frank Kolesiak and Emil Guerreri say they were seized by the fire marshal and several amateur sleuths and beaten and held prisoners illegally until they signed statements accepting responsibility for the fire in which eight persons burned to death in the Center hotel on West Madison street, Chicago, last April.

When Kolesiak and Guerreri were turned over to the state's attorney they were able to prove unshakable alibis. They denied their confessions and were freed by the Cook county grand jury.

Denies Mistreatment.

Defense Attorney A. M. Fitzgerald, acting for Rath, today seized upon the Chicago case in his cross-examination of Coultas.

"Did you ever push Rath around or call him a liar, or threaten him?" the lawyer asked Coultas on cross-examination.

"I did not," the marshal said.

"Is that why," demanded the lawyer, "a Chicago grand jury refused to indict the two men from whom you beat statements up there?"

The state objected and Coultas was permitted to remain silent.

Saved by Objection.

"Is that why two members of the state fire department are about to be indicted in Chicago?" The lawyer asked.

Again Coultas was saved by an objection by state prosecutors.

Later in the afternoon when Roscoe Bonjean, chief investigator for the fire marshal, was on the stand, Attorney Fitzgerald resumed his assault. When Bonjean, a practicing lawyer in Springfield, said he was not aiding the prosecution of Rath, Fitzgerald demanded:

"Is this because you have business in a Chicago court in connection with the Hotel Center fire there?"

Wife Charges Beatings; Sues Radio Announcer

Russell Hodges, radio announcer for station WIND, was sued for divorce yesterday by Mrs. Mildred Hodges. She charged that her husband beat her twice, knocking her down and injuring her severely.

FACES EXECUTION TOMORROW FOR SLAYING FARMER

Preparations were completed at Joliet penitentiary yesterday for the electrocution of John Jelliga, steel worker who was convicted of murder last June. The execution is to take place early tomorrow morning.

Jelliga and a confederate, Michael Munjas, beat Edward Pansa to death during a robbery last Dec. 10 in the Pansa farm home near Crete. Munjas committed suicide while awaiting trial.

The condemned man's last hope of judicial reprieve was shattered Oct. 12 when the Illinois Supreme court refused to review his case. He was visited in his cell yesterday by his wife and their two small children.

SEEK TO IDENTIFY LAKE VICTIM.

An inquest into the death of an elderly man taken from the lake Oct. 4 was continued yesterday to give police more time to identify him. In his pocket was a souvenir key ring inscribed "Mrs. Sweiseh, 5240 Winnemac avenue."

5 CCC WORKERS BURN TO DEATH; TRAPPED IN FIGHTING FOREST FIRES

Emporium, Pa., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Five CCC workers died today in a forest fire which trapped them in a small wooded gully 25 miles south of this north-central Pennsylvania town.

Col. C. L. King at Indiana, Pa., district CCC headquarters, said three of the dead had been identified as Gilbert Mooney, 40 years old, of Ridgway, Pa.; Basil Bogush, 18, Conemaugh, Pa., and John Boring, 18, Johnstown, Pa. The other two bodies were burned until they could not be immediately identified.

Four others were taken to hospitals badly burned on the hands and face.

SEIZED FOR ASSAULTING POLICEMAN.

Lee Renis, colored, 228 North California avenue, a WPA worker, was arrested yesterday after he assaulted a policeman in the WPA office at 755 Harrison street.

ANYTHING TO WIN.

Mr. Woodring, the secretary of war, appeared in Jersey City on Monday and officially inducted Mayor Frank Hague into the order of the truly good, initiating him into the brotherhood as a man of superior good will. Mr. Hague is the country's No. 1 Nazi strong boy. He is another Furor who thinks that anything less than a 99 4/5 per cent yes vote is an indication that more storm troopers and more concentration camps are needed.

The New Deal's candidate for the senate in New Jersey is W. H. Ely, who qualifies himself for the office by saying he would go to Washington with only one idea in his head, which will be to do everything he's asked to do if the orders come from the White House. This makes him a perfect statesman. Mayor Hague, who chases opposition speakers out of Jersey City, has adopted Mr. Ely and Mr. Roosevelt has adopted Mr. Hague.

This maneuver may seem to the unobservant to be slightly inconsistent, but in reality it is not. Mr. Hague represents a political system of cracking down, and although it might appear to be on the other side of the fence it is in accord with New Deal tactics. In Minnesota, for instance, the power is on the left side of the dividing line, in the hands of Gov. Benson and the revolutionaries and communists of the Farmer-Labor party. Benson and Hague might be wordy in their disputes, but they use the same political methods and they'd create the same subversive sort of autocracy. They wouldn't jail the same fellows and they might have a fight if they were shoved into a room, but the truly good recognize congenial methods, and they can use Hague in New Jersey and Benson in Minnesota.

The truly good are hard pressed. Their record for over five years of unrestricted management of the country is howling like a hungry wolf all over the land. Twenty million people are dependent upon government subsidies for their living. Quacks are arising everywhere with schemes to pick money out of the air. People are following them. The farmers are looking at the prices they receive for their product and wondering what Mr. Wallace's wizardry has got them.

The workers of the craft unions are fighting the laws which have split organized labor into warring camps. The scandals of corruption in public life are growing in volume and turpitude. The truly good know more about this than any one else. So it has become anything to win.

In Rhode Island the truly good will give membership in their club to the predatory organization which purged the senate to fire the Supreme court and used the state troops to take a race track away from its owner in order that the present governor might run it for his own profit. In Pennsylvania they must indorse New Deal friends of the people whose private money deals in connection with every public office have disclosed a frank disregard of all standards of public decency which Matt Quay and Boise Penrose would have regarded as insane and disgusting.

Washington offices of the New Deal have become so reckless that appearances are no longer taken into account. Wherever disaffection appears federal money is poured in to stop its consequences. Anything goes and will go until the election is over. The only thing that can save the New Deal Nov. 8 is the employment of gang politics of the lowest order. If the truly good should lose the house of representatives, and except for the money behind them nothing could prevent it, that would be the end of the Roosevelt revolution. It would be the end of the hard times which have been politically nourished for revolutionary purposes in the United States since 1933.

The election of a Republican house of representatives would be followed by an immediate upturn in American business. The employable men who are now getting subsistence in the WPA would soon be taken back into profitable private enterprise. The industry and commerce of the country, now attacked and held back by deliberate government purpose, would be free to undertake the production and trade which alone will reëstablish national welfare. The tone of government would immediately be changed.

The congressional elections would contain this possibility if it were not for the unscrupulous use of public money conferring spurious benefits and inflicting great injuries and if it were not for the alliances the New Deal makes with every type of rascality and subversiveness.

The truly good will exhaust themselves to win because they must do so or pass out of the picture of the United States.

GOOD POLICE WORK.

The police department and the city are to be congratulated upon the handling of the incipient riot at Lincoln-Turner hall on Sunday. Restraint and good sense prevented the incident from developing a serious clash with possible tragic results. Capt. Prendergast and his men deserve the thanks of the public for their efficiency and good spirit.

Meanwhile law abiding and loyal citizens will feel justified resentment against both parties concerned in the meeting and counter demonstration. This is America, not Europe, and the American people do not wish or intend to have the peace and harmony of their own household disturbed by issues foreign to their lives. An association based entirely on enthusiasm for an alien government, its methods and policies, has no place in our affairs. The so-called bund, which cannot even find a name without using a word chosen from a foreign tongue, and which expresses approval of a régime which is foreign to fundamental American ideas of government, represents in fact an invasion of American life and by its inevitable challenge rouses animosities injurious to the welfare of this country. It is an affront to many good citizens of other sympathies and past associations, to say nothing of the citizens who favor American principles and intend to preserve them. The bund takes advantage of civil rights, largely denied by the régime it approves, to breed faction on alien issues.

On the other hand, the counter demonstration by those who disapprove Naziism was not a necessary or judicious method of expressing disapproval of the bund and its activities. We live in America under a régime of liberty under law. Discussion is our means of dealing with our differences and, while the method is sometimes ignored by zealots and trouble makers, it must be insisted upon if we are not to be subjected to costly discord and the confusion of our own proper national concerns. The peace of our American life is not to be trampled down in alien causes.

THE HAT OF THE DUCHESS.

The duchess of Atholl, Conservative member of parliament, recently was the distinguished guest speaker at a luncheon of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. When she was in New York on her way home one of her secretaries presented her with a copy of a Chicago newspaper reporting her speech—"Britain and the Crisis"—and it was all about her hat, which was straw. "It was the sensible thing to wear when Chicago was having such warm weather," said the duchess.

May it be confessed that the paper was THE TRIBUNE? So it was. The accomplished lady made a speech and she wore a hat. If it were flippancy to report the hat and not the speech we must try to find a justification for it. Speeches on crises are made up of opinions. Hats are made of materials and in shapes dictated by arbiters. Some hats can be as defiant as some opinions, but for the most part both come to the possessor from some source over which the individual has less control than self-esteem would require. This will be conceded more readily regarding the hat than the opinions on which it sits.

It is unnecessary to go far into the question of whether hats are more important than opinions. That would be merely to provoke more opinions, which often make more trouble than hats, more trouble even than the bills for hats. Hats represent conventions. A lady might laugh off ridicule of her opinions but not ridicule of her hat.

The thinking man is his own creation and a myth, luckily. The hat of the duchess of Atholl was unconventional, which was strange because she is a cog in the upper structure of the British empire and it rests upon conventions and not upon opinions. If it were built of opinions it would fall to pieces. They change opinions in Great Britain with every crisis but they do not change habits or conventions. They have the habit of always being right, but you could not make logic or sense of that habit. People who try to do so lose either their minds or their real estate or both.

The hat of the duchess was wrong. She should not so encourage nonconformity. That is subversive. It stimulates irregularity, the breaking of traditions, a lack of respect for custom. But also it was right. It indicates, very delicately, the superior breed. As was said in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," only a queen could wear a hat like that. To be equally right and wrong is a British prerogative.

The observation, if true, was interesting and perhaps significant. It was worth investigation and the editor queried THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent in New York, who forwards news gathered by the reporters of the New York papers. The inquiry confirmed the observation.

The failure of the news account to note the appearance of the defendants was probably because the reporters were too preoccupied listening to the opening addresses and testimony to use their eyes. The eye of the camera was not diverted. As expertly employed today the camera gathers and records many significant facts that human observation misses. It is an invaluable aid to thorough and accurate reporting, to the recording of personalities and events. Its contribution to science is immense and it will serve history likewise. Its contribution to human knowledge is only beginning.

PICKETING RIGHTS.

[Indianapolis News.]

The possibility of a closer definition of picketing rights is suggested in the declaration of Lester Washburn, a regional director of the United Automobile Workers of America, that he will appeal his conviction on a charge of having "interfered with a workman in pursuit of his lawful vocation," to the United States Supreme court. Washburn was accused of having directed a line of pickets armed with clubs who prevented employés from entering a factory at Lansing, Mich. He was fined $250 and costs. He appealed his case to the Michigan Supreme court and asked for a rehearing. This was denied. He now intends, according to his statement, to appeal his conviction to the United States Supreme court.

Washburn's defense is not an attempt to justify mass picketing and resort to force in blocking the highways, trespassing on property and preventing men from going about their lawful work. It seems to be conceded by all concerned that this is not picketing within the meaning of any statute. It is a clear violation of the laws against threat, force and assault, and no responsible agency attempts to defend it. There is no higher court decision under which this unlawful exercise of the privilege of peaceful picketing can be defended.

It is the contention of Washburn that he cannot be convicted of interfering with other workmen when the evidence showed that he was not engaged in the picket duty himself. His attorneys argued that since he was accused only of directing the picketing, and not of participating in it, he was not guilty of unlawful picketing. The question is important, for the Washburn defense implies a belief that a strike leader who directs a mass picketing operation, yet who does not actively engage in it himself, has no responsibility in the matter. If the court should hold that his relationship with active pickets amounts to a conspiracy to restrain workers from going about their lawful employment, the position of organizers and others who incite their followers to violence in an effort to force their will upon employers or other employés will be clearly understood, and the problem of controling unlawful picketing will be considerably simplified.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS PREPARES A BOOK.

19th Oct.—To the office betimes after a restless night dreaming of wooden Indians, horse-head hitching posts and other oddments of the Line, about which the populace, it seems, will never stop writing; and putting my nose to the grindstone most diligently in order to prepare a new Line Book for the coming Christmas season. This task causes me to struggle with 312 clippings of printed columns, and in the midst of it I look like the famed ancient statue of Laocoön, writhing in the coils of serpents, and suffer as much. Ye Line Book, fifteenth annual number, will come out of the print shop on or about the 17th day before Christmas, and many good folk of the town will be eager to see it, hoping to find their whimsies or poems included.

Then to my club, where a bowl of Brunswick stew had been prepared for me and my fellows, and we did eat most heartily, proclaiming it a most excellent medley of fowls' meat and vegetables, akin to slumgullion, perhaps, but most tasty. This is the dish that figures frequently in the humorous writings of Octavus Roy Cohen of Birmingham, Ala., and is a rarity among eaters of the northern breed.

To my desk again to read 52 letters and verses on the subject of Indian summer and to do my regular chore, and then out into a rainy night and to home, where painters have been at work, and to step into a bucket of calcimine; and so to bed, but not before setting down these matters of small moment in cipher in my diary.

PAGAN PRAYER.

Let me die gloriously as autumn does
With days as bright as bittersweet—a space
Of breathless beauty e'er the haze drops down
To veil the starkness of earth's fading face.
Be mine the passage of an errant hour
Of burning sun and scarlet leaves flung high,
Each moment golden with chrysanthemums
And harvest wine, before I droop and die.
Great God of Field and Forest, whom I claim
As Deity with what small faith I own,
When I must go, make mine the wind-swept days
When geese go south, the nights when stars alone
Are brilliant. Winter winds will bring
A span of sleep before another spring.

"Now It Can Be Told."

By Snowshoe Al.

[A "Who's Who" of Old Line Contribs.]

MacKINLAY KANTOR [that's his real name]—Now lives down in the Florida keys. Just brought out another novel. Had a habit of writing postmortem poetry about sick guys an' then waiting for them to croak so he could rush it in fast. Kipling fooled him twice. An' he got burned up at me for getting well again.

DUKE BAKRAK [Irving Bachrach]—Lives in Chicago. Talks an' acts the way he wrote. Fate slipped him a mean uppercut last winter when a big coal truck struck and fatally injured his little son. The Duke took it standing up. He's that way.

THE PHANTOM LOVER [Henry V. Stevenson]—The Casanova of the column, an' during his hectic career he was engaged to practically every one except Anna May Wong. [Yeh, we knew Anna.] I dunno where he is.

LA MOUSQUETAIRE [Shafto Dene]—He married Thally. Was a marine an', speaking of war wounds, that boy got hit with everything except a tank. If he just sewed his wound stripes together he would have had enough material for an overcoat. I dunno where he is.

COLORADO PETE—He went Home.

DON FARRAN [his real name, I reckon]—Last I heard he was in Rowan, Ia., but with his looks he should be out among the unusual weather doing kleig light clinches with Myrna Loy.

THAT FELLA DOWN IN STREATOR [Bill Lewis]—He can do more with a few words than Thurston could have done with a silk hat an three assistants.

SNOWSHOE AL [Al Bromley]—Still in Chicago. He's washing diapers for Snowshoe Jim, who will be 5 weeks old when you see this.

Roll Your Own Crullers.

Crullers are not [1] doughnuts without holes, or [2] French doughnuts. Here is my grandmother's recipe:

1 cup thin sweet cream
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
2 eggs
4 cups flour

Dissolve soda and add to cream. Beat eggs; then mix all ingredients together, adding flour to roll [not too stiff]. Cut dough into oblongs about 2 by 3 inches; then make 3 or 4 slits about ½ inch from ends and sides; and twist. Fry in deep fat.

JUST TO BE NEAR.

I wish I were a little cat,
Forlorn and thin,
Outside your door I'd meow, and you
Might let me in.

Watching the gaze inscrutable
In a cat's eyes,
Not even you would guess
My strange disguise.

You'd bring some milk and talk to me,
Stroke my dark fur . . .
Then I would settle close to you,
And purr and purr.

PULLING THE TRIGGER IN ASTHMA.

A RECENT discussion of asthma in children elicited a number of requests for a description of the behavior of the malady in adults. This affords an opportunity to remark that most diseases affect children and oldsters similarly. The chronic asthmatic grownup often presents a distressing picture and some there are who are obliged to wheeze their way through life at about half efficiency. Others are subject only to periodical seizures—worse during certain seasons of the year, better at others.

As to the origin, we may say that some specific irritant—such as material that is inhaled or foods that are ingested—may be blamed. We must not forget, however, that infections, abnormalities within the air passages, and certain nervous factors may play important rôles.

In the sensitivity type the trouble may come on as a sequel to a bout with hay fever and may be complicated by skin eruptions [eczema] or a persistent cough. Now and then more than one member of the same family will evince a predisposition which is probably inherited as one parent or the other may give a history of long drawn out invalidism associated with difficulty in breathing.

Treatment would be very simple were it not for the fact that many victims respond in hair trigger fashion not to a single irritant but to many. While some solitary element of diet may have forged the first link in the chain—started the ball rolling—after a time the response may become so general that any one of a dozen or more substances may usher in the symptoms.

The best plan for permanent relief demands that the slightest contact with any and all articles which contribute to a paroxysm must be avoided. If isolation can be practiced for a long enough period, many patients will become less and less sensitive as time goes on until the tendency fades away. It is then that we term the individual immune.

I recall a patient who was very much upset whenever she was brought into contact with feathers—down or goose. The substitution of cotton or vegetable moss filled pillows in the home ameliorated her symptoms, but did not dissipate them entirely. Further tests showed reactions to wheat and when this was omitted from the diet all was well. Her symptoms returned, however, every time she took a trip and was obliged to spend a night in a sleeping car. Later she carried her own cotton filled bolster and was enabled thereby to spend a comfortable night.

Of course, extracts of the offending substances [vaccines] may be injected with much improvement. The specific solution is usually mixed with a small dose of adrenalin, as this drug, while not interfering with the protective nature of the vaccine, will be helpful in preventing disturbing results.

Another patient was sensitive to several foods. It was easy for this man to make his own list and thus shun the proscribed edibles. Much to my surprise—about two years later—he was eating with impunity more than half of his original "don't touch" items. He had accomplished this miracle by accustoming himself to small quantities. Bread made from wheat—in fact, all breakfast foods containing wheat—were at first abstained from. He then began to take very minute amounts—¼ teaspoon once daily. In the beginning he would have a bad effect from this apparently insignificant bit. He reduced the portions still further until it was no longer provocative, whereupon he began gradually to add to it. Within a year he was able to take a fair quota of wheat daily and, after two years, could use it freely.

While the acute attack can generally be brought to an abrupt close by appropriate remedies, nevertheless a search must be made for the basic cause as, in many instances, the ailment becomes more severe as time goes on.

QUIT DRIVING FOR A TIME.

C. C. writes: I have been driving a car for ten years and until two years ago—enjoyed it hugely. In this time, however, I have experienced a growing fear of being at the wheel. I have an almost undeniable impulse to drive the auto into a ditch or into oncoming cars. I tremble, my heart pounds, and my legs lose all sensation when I have to drive. I would like to be cured of this phobia, or whatever it is. What would you suggest?

REPLY.

Until the impulse passes away you should ride in the back seat. A skilled psychiatrist can determine the basis of your fears and point the way to cure.

SYMPTOMS OF PYORRHEA.

M. C. writes: Are there any early symptoms of pyorrhea?

REPLY.

Early symptoms are reddening and swelling of the gum tissue. The areas between the teeth become definitly inflamed. Later the margins recede. The gums bleed on slight provocation. Pain is rarely experienced.

MANY POSSIBLE CAUSES.

P. T. writes: What causes vomiting of blood—besides cancer of the stomach?

REPLY.

Blood in the stomach contents may be due to an oozing ulcer, violent or prolonged retching, swallowed blood from mouth, lungs, trachea, or bronchi, varicose veins at the lower end of the esophagus, or certain blood diseases.

BUYING VOTES.

Farmer City, Ill., Oct. 17.—A few months ago President Roosevelt at Louisville, speaking in behalf of the renomination of Barkley, said in substance as follows:

"Senator Barkley has secured 300 million dollars of government money for his state. It is more than any one else could have gotten. Out of gratitude you people should send him back to the senate."

Yesterday at Springfield Secretary Wallace, amid cheers of the WPA, said: "If you farmers have signed up with us you can today get a corn loan of 61 cents and get a 10 cent subsidy, or 71 cents a bushel, for your corn." The market price at Farmer City, fifty-five miles from Springfield, was 30 cents a bushel that day.

It used to be a penitentiary offense to give $2 for a single vote. Today the President of the United States can give $300 each for a million votes and Wallace can show his cheering audience how to beat Uncle Sam out of 40 cents a bushel on an entire corn crop, or over half of its value, under laws of congress made on his recommendation. Do criminal laws no longer apply to the President and his cabinet? O. H. SWIGART.

SEES A BRIGHT FUTURE.

Cicero, Ill., Oct. 17.—I, too, would like to voice my approval of the Townsend plan. As the son of a man who would be eligible for this pension in a few years I look forward to a life of enjoyable idleness helping my dad spend his $200 a month. Having a trade which normally pays a measly $45 a week, I can see no sense in working for such a small amount while other people would get this amount for loafing. J. P. M.

"PISGAH NOTES" PLEASING.

Logan, Ia., Oct. 17.—The 400-600 people of Pisgah [as many of us here did] are going to get a lot of wholesome pleasure from reading your clever "Pisgah Notes" in Sunday's TRIBUNE. That, if the word fits, is a delicious piece of writing, friendlylike and gracious, quite in contrast to the one-time fun poking at the "country folks" the big time newspaper editors once thought was smart. In this I except THE TRIBUNE. Your "Pisgah Notes" will be published here.

We anti-New Dealers, and there are a great many more of us than there were a few years ago, particularly like the stinger you put into the last paragraph. Even with 30 cent corn they are "taking care" of themselves and getting back to the old American idea that all get along best by self-help.

Naturally, we greatly appreciate the kind words said about us and what we consistently have tried to do. And here let me most sincerely commend THE TRIBUNE for the great work it is doing in the battle to restore America, revive the old American spirit, and show up the New Deal for what it really is.

THE COMMUNISTS ARE PETS.

Chicago, Oct. 18. — The newspapers ramp and rage about dictatorships, the citizens pound into a fury over the Nazis and Fascists—and all the while the viper of them all—the communists—go ahead with their boring-from-within tactics in our government unmolested. Bund meetings are protested and broken up, but no one would think of protesting a communist meeting. They packed the Stadium back in 1936 and no one cared.

A half dozen Nazi spies are going to be tried in a few days—while 400 or 500 communists are actually members of the official government family. And we wonder why the dictators laugh at our so-called democracies!

A WORD FROM THE WEST SIDE.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The north and south sides have the great outer drives for trafic. The new subway will start running north and south.

They are still nailing down the old boards on Washington and Jackson boulevard bridges leading to our great west side. Looks as if the west siders are all asleep. OLD TIMER.

A WORLD WITHIN FOUR WALLS.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Because of illness I find my world condensed to one room and I am amazed to find how interesting a little world like this can be for those who must stay "put" awhile.

First, I have my bedside lamp that is man's coziest companion. You pull a cord and the light coming through an amber shade floods the room with sunshine night and day. Next to this little lamp is my radio. I press a button and the great outside world is at my bedside. I listen to sweet music or hear clever discussions or the latest news—Dorothy Thompson telling us what to fear and not to fear in Europe.

And I never knew red roses in a green earthenware pitcher, on the end of my dresser, could be so beautiful. Some one has just scattered fresh strawberries over my bowl of fruit. The whole room smells like a sweet garden after a rain. A friend dropped in a few minutes ago with her baby, who did all of her cute stunts and was adorable.

Late in the afternoon the wind blowing the leaves off a tree at my window sent sunbeams across my wall. Then it was supper time; the tray looked like a flower bed, and with it came the family for our evening visit. They made the room ring with laughter as they told of the funny happenings of the day. Then all grew still. I was left with my cheerful little lamp and the evening paper.

'Tis midnight; I hear a fellow coming down the street whistling the gayest tunes and his feet are keeping perfect time. Did he have to work late or is it a lover homeward bound? As his footsteps die away in the distance I fall asleep to dream that my little world of four walls is a happy place after all.

GET HAROLD AND HARRY TOGETHER.

Glencoe, Ill., Oct. 18.—"How to get rid of subway clay is big problem."—CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE. "It would fill a string of barges 104½ miles long. It would fill railroad gondola cars reaching from Chicago to Cleveland."

Or—It could be used to fill Chicago's proposed island airport.

WPA has built San Francisco's Treasure Island airport, and is building New York's North Beach airport.

"Honest Harold" and Harry Hopkins both live in Washington, don't they? And they both have telephones, haven't they?

Well, if Hal is willing to gamble a telephone slug on this proposition, maybe Harry could fix up a place to use the clay so we wouldn't have to string those gondolas all the way to Cleveland.

Or maybe they don't speak to each other any more. O. P. ALFORD JR.

LAST EMBERS OF THE '71 FIRE.

Chicago Heights, Ill., Oct. 12.—I have read many letters and articles in THE TRIBUNE about the great Chicago fire, but I have never seen any mention of where the last of that fire was put out.

I went through that fire from beginning to end and I know just where the last burning sidewalk plank was put out with cider by my brother-in-law, Richard Bellinger, in front of his house. The house was then 17 Lincoln place, a street only a block long between Webster avenue and Sophie street, a block west of North Clark street—a brick basement one-third in the ground and one story frame above. I think it is still standing. My brother-in-law and my sister are both dead. G. A. WEINMANN.

OLD AGE PENSION.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I own a piece of property valued at about $1,200 which I rent for $72 yearly. I wish to make application for old age pension but [1] have been told the state will take this pension from my property at my death.

2. Is this the law? My husband is now drawing $25 monthly pension.

3. Can this be taken out of my property at his death?

4. The deed to the property is in my name. My husband has an insurance policy which my daughter pays. It now has a cash value of $249.

5. The pension inspector told him he would have to borrow $60 on this policy and use it and then make new application for pension.

6. Is this possible. The policy is only $450.

7. Where can I get a copy of the state pension law? E. C.

1. Correct.
2. Yes.
3. No, but it would be a charge against any estate that he leaves at the time of his death.
4. We assume that you mean that the property actually belongs to you as distinguished from being held by you for him.
5. He is in a better position to advise than we are.
6. In general, the purpose of the pension is to take care of the immediate needs of the old person, rather than to enable him to provide for other persons after his death through insurance.
7. You might try asking the officials with whom you are dealing. Another source of information would be the public library.

SOCIAL SECURITY ACT.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a "working wife" 37 years of age. I have been told that my health may not permit me to work indefinitly. If I should outlive my husband my future is not very well provided for. Can you tell me what is the minimum I must work or earn in order to secure any income under the social security act when I have reached the age of 65? W. W.

In defining a "qualified individual," section 210 of the Social Security states: 1. That he must be 65. 2. That the total wages paid to him after 1936 and before he becomes 65 shall be not less than $2,000, and 3, that wages were paid to him on some five days after 1936, each day being in a different calendar year. Section 202 provides that every qualified individual as above defined shall be entitled to receive, beginning when he attains 65 or on Jan. 1, 1942, whichever is later, a total age benefit as follows:

[1] If the total wages between 1936 and his becoming 65 years were not more than $3,000 then at a monthly rate of ½ of 1 per cent of such total wages.

[2] If such total wages were more than $3,000 the old age benefit shall be as a monthly rate equal to the sum of the following: [a] ½ of 1 per centum of $3,000; plus [b] one-twelfth of 1 per centum of the amount by which such total wages exceeded $3,000; plus [c] 1-24 of 1 per centum of the amount by which the total exceeds $45,000.

If this information does not cover the question that you have in mind we suggest that you get directly in touch with the Social Security board at 225 South Clark street, Chicago.

FARMERS GO OUT IF STATE GOES INTO BUSINESS

Learn Costly Lesson in South Dakota.

BY LLOYD WENDT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Republican leaders are getting enthusiastic response in their drive on the New Deal because the farmers here know well from experience the harm that comes from putting the government into business.

Putting the state government into business in South Dakota helped to put one-fourth of the South Dakota farmers out of business. This experience of the state is being driven home in the state's congressional campaign. There is no reason to believe, Republicans say, that paying the bills of the national New Deal is going to be any easier or less disastrous than settling accounts for the little New Deal here.

Tenant Farmers Increase.

In 1910, before South Dakota tried out the experiments which were to provide a more abundant life, only 24.8 per cent of the farms in the state were operated by tenants.

In 1920, after the state government had gone into the business of making farm loans, guaranteeing bank deposits, and running insurance, mining, and cement making projects, this figure had increased to 34.9 per cent.

In 1935, when the liquidation of South Dakota's business in government experiments, with a probable loss to the taxpayers of 96 million dollars, 48.6 per cent of the farms were operated by tenants, nearly double the figure of 1910.

Coal Mine an Example.

One of the strangest socialistic experiments which now burdens South Dakota taxpayers is the state coal mine. Most of the other projects were aimed at removing some burden that seemed to be unfairly resting most heavily on the farmer.

There was a story at the time that the state coal mine would help to develop the lignite industry in South Dakota. But after the legislature had appropriated $200,000 for a mine it was found there was no lignite in the state that could be mined profitably.

That did not deter the legislators, however. They bought a coal mine in North Dakota!

The state mine did cause private dealers to reduce the price of coal slightly for a time, but most people wouldn't burn lignite. Finally, in 1933, after a long record of operating deficits, the mine was ordered sold. The loss to the state of South Dakota was $211,587.

Cement Plant Has Monopoly.

The state cement plant is one of the South Dakota experiments that may break even.

The state spent 2 million dollars to get into the cement business on the pretext that a monopoly was charging too much for cement. For years the plant could not get enough business to operate at capacity, and much of the equipment was idle. Now the state has a monopoly, selling about 96 per cent of the cement used in the state.

Last spring, Republican leaders say, South Dakota indicated that it was turning against government-in-business experiments in any form by piling up a big anti-New Deal vote. The Republicans got a bigger vote in the May primaries than any time in recent years, and the Democrats turned a cold shoulder to Senator Herbert E. Hitchcock and Representative Fred H. Hildebrandt.

HITLER HONORS LINDBERGH WITH GERMAN MEDAL

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was decorated by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Nazi minister of aviation, without ceremony last night. The decoration was the Nazi order of the German eagle, one of Germany's highest.

Lindbergh was decorated at a reception given by Hugh Wilson, United States ambassador, in honor of him and Marshal Goering. When the Nazi leader passed down the receiving line he paused when he came to Lindbergh and said he had orders from Reichsfuehrer Hitler to give him this decoration as a token of Germany's esteem for what Lindbergh had done for aviation.

Lindbergh said simply "Thank you," and hung the decoration around his neck.

[The bestowal of the decoration upon Lindbergh followed violent attacks on him in the soviet press for opinions he was supposed to have expressed in England regarding the relative merits of the German and soviet air fleets. These opinions were highly favorable to Germany and devastating to Russia.]

NURSE TESTIFIES DAVID SHANAHAN WAS IRRATIONAL

David E. Shanahan's night nurse testified yesterday that the veteran Illinois legislator was irrational most of the nights she attended him in his last illness. The nurse, Miss May White of 2700 Prairie avenue, was a witness for the Misses Mary and Margaret Flynn, nieces of Shanahan. They are seeking to prove invalid his death bed marriage to Mrs. Helen Troesch Shanahan, to whom he left his $850,000 estate.

The nurse said that Shanahan seemed upset after the marriage, on Oct. 5, 1936, thirteen days before he died. One night he tried to get out of bed, she said, and he kept repeating: "They married me." The legal battle is being fought before Judge George W. Bristow of Paris, sitting in Circuit court.

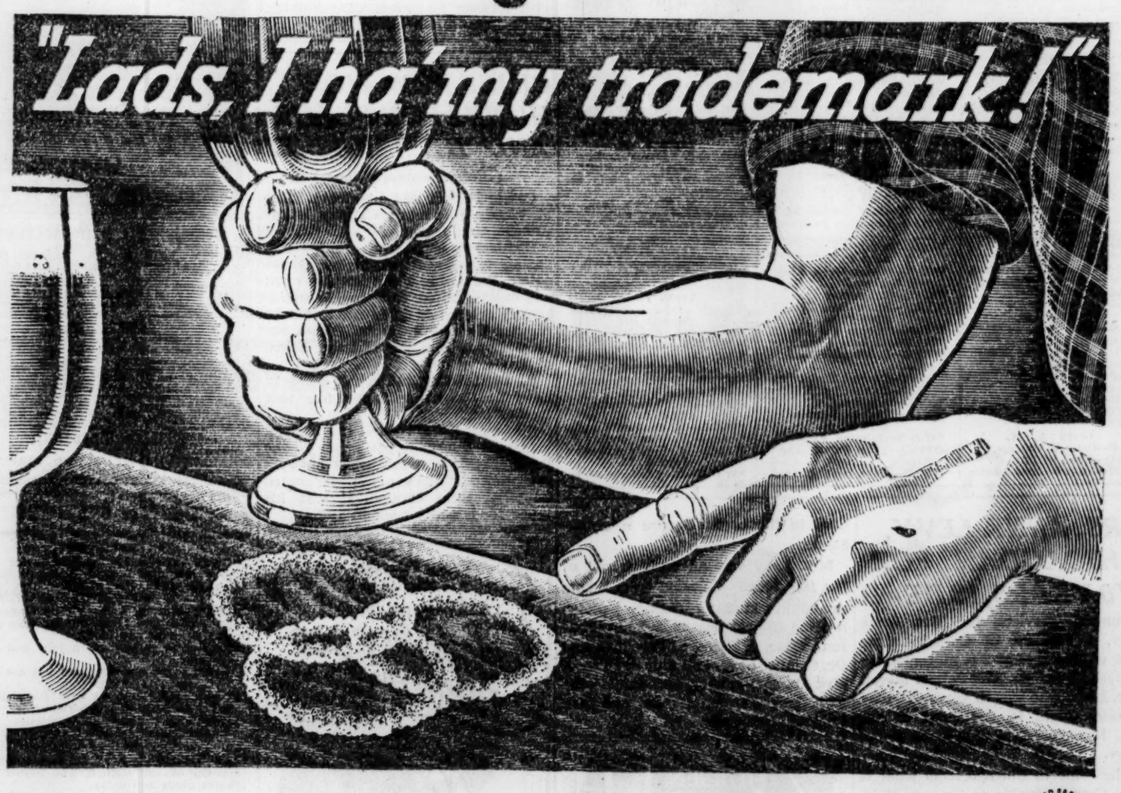
Peter Ballantine lifted his glass 3 times



TIME: 1840. Place, Peter Ballantine's brewery in Newark : : : The founder and brewmaster himself had just completed his threefold test of a keg of ripened ale. He smacked his lips and pronounced it "per-r-r-fect!"

Being a Scot, Peter Ballantine trusted his taste for ale beyond any man's. "It ha' the PUR-R-R-ITY, the BODY, the FLAVOR-R-R," was his verdict.

On the scoured oak of the table were three moisture rings left by his glass as he made the tests.

"Thr-r-ree tests—thr-r-ree rings—the sign of a good ale," he mused: "Lads, I ha' my trademark! Ye'll put the thr-r-ree rings of quality on every keg of Ballantine's."

COUNCIL GROUP WITHHOLDS O. K. ON SUBWAY CASH

Wants Assurances Funds Won't Be Tied Up.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Members of the city council's finance committee yesterday said they want to see the final provisions for building and financing Chicago's subways before authorizing use of the city traction fund for the project.

The committee met to consider a request by R. B. Upham, city controler, to enter into an agreement with four downtown banks for the sale of tax warants from the fund. When all of its questions could not be answered the committee adjourned its meeting until today.

Fear for City Finances.

Several aldermen said they were concerned lest the use of 22 million dollars of traction fund money upset city finances. Upham told them that withdrawal of that much from the 67 million dollar fund would not be dangerous. The subways are to cost 40 million dollars, of which 18 millions are an outright grant by the Public Works administration.

The traction fund has been used many years as a bank for the city. Instead of selling all of its tax warrants to banks and investors, the city has put most of its tax paper into the fund, where it pays only a small fraction of 1 per cent as interest. The outside rate on tax paper ranges from 2 per cent upward.

The aldermen wanted to know if there was any intention of tying up the existing traction fund as a condition of the federal subway grant. William H. Sexton, special traction counsel for the city, said it was his understanding that strings would be attached only to a new fund that would be created with future compensation received by the city from the traction companies.

Assails Ickes' Stand.

Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] criticized Harold L. Ickes, PWA administrator, for insisting as a condition of a grant that the city put its traction revenues into a special fund and that the PWA must approve a new unification ordinance.

"I don't see any reason why Mr. Ickes should decree that an inviolable fund be set," McDermott asserted. "I hear also that he wants to pass on our unification ordinance. "I wonder by what right the secretary of the interior in Washington seeks to control Chicago traction problems. We have been working on them for years. Now Mr. Ickes signifies he will come in and take it over. The council might as well go out of business if the federal government is going to move in."

It may be possible to advance the Dec. 15 schedule for starting the subway digging to Dec. 1, Col. Henry M. Waite said yesterday. Waite is chairman of the PWA engineering commission supervising the subway planning.

FRED L. ROACH'S THREE TIME WIFE IS DEAD AT 61

Mrs. Harrison Lowry, 959 Cuyler avenue, died in the County hospital yesterday. The wife of an obscure artist, her body lay last night in the county morgue. But 25 years ago her stormy romances were much in the news.

She was married three times and divorced twice from Frederick Lyon Roach, son of John M. Roach, president of the Chicago Railways company. Their third marriage, in 1913, was followed in a year by Roach's death.

Her first husband had been James Rutherford, a south side dentist. Her third was W. S. Dunderdale, an army officer she married in 1919. They were divorced in 1924, when Dunderdale was secretary to Sanitary Trustee Timothy Crowe. Her marriage to Lowry followed. Mrs. Lowry was 61 years old.

CHIEF POW WOW HUNTS FOR PEACE AND HE FINDS IT

Carrie Nation had a hatchet. But F. Woody Hockaday, Carrie's fellow Kansan, uses feathers.

He dashes about the country crusading for peace and higher wheat prices, showering white feathers upon any one he thinks can provide either. Woody dresses as an Indian and calls himself Chief Pow Wow. Yesterday he whooped into the Chicago Board of Trade.

"I want dollar and a half wheat!" he yelled, a hand in his five foot feather bag.

"So do we!" answered the traders.

Instead Hockaday got a ride to the Psychopathic hospital. There his eyes brightened. "Home again," he smiled happily. Sure enough, it was his tepee for a while back in 1925.

Rural Metaphors.

A sophomore of rural origin was among the Drake football players fed to the Wildcats in Dyche arena Saturday before last. It was his first venture beyond the borders of the tall corn state and Ed Lytton, Drake's business manager, showed him the big city sights. The lad stopped in his tracks when he saw Tribune Tower. He whistled softly and said:

"That's the biggest and purtiest silo I ever set eyes on."

And when he saw the Merchandise Mart he offered: "You could store all the hay in Ioway in a barn that big."

New, Imaginative, Poetic.

A wide gold bracelet ornamented with constellations of diamond stars and one great pale moonstone held enclasped in a new moon of sparkling diamonds. The new moon held the old moon lovingly in her arms, quotes Miss Isabel Joyce, the dark eyed chic young jewelry designer. "I don't know what the quotation is from, but it sounds like Tennyson." Any of the scouts recognize the quotation?

A watch to be clipped on bag or sleeve, its cover a coiled serpent with an apple in its mouth, a tiny green fig leaf adorning the face of the watch.

A gold daisy, dew-sprinkled with diamonds, several of the leaves detached from the center. He loves her; there's an even number of petals.

Gladys, the Bus Driver.

We discovered the lady of the long haul some months ago—a Carole Lombard of the trucking business. This morning we give you Gladys, who runs the bus from Sportsman's Park in Cicero to Wilson and Sheridan road. As passengers leave the bus she opens the door, jumps out, assists the less agile ones to the ground, and calls a cheery farewell.

Men in Uniform.

Corporal Charlie Gifford of Paris, Ky., and Private Ted Carey of West Chicago, recently of the marine brigade in Shanghai, visited Chicago on leave recently. Resplendent in their uniforms they took in the sights. Walter A. Richards reports their experiences:

A bartender at the Brevoort mistook them for Canadian Mounties. In a clothing store where Private Carey used to work they were taken for Culver cadets. The cruelest blow fell in the Civic Opera building. A sweet faced old lady inquired, "Which elevator goes to the Electric club?"

Corporal Gifford, after politely directing her to the starter, turned to his friend.

"Come on, T.," he said. "Let's get back to San Diego before somebody takes us for a couple of sailors."

Have you heard, asks a bulletineer, about the girl who discarded her dress and said decisively, "I won't wear the dirndl thing another minute!"

Chicago Literati.

Margaret Ayer Barnes' new book, Wisdom's Gate, will be out in November. Advance copy already received. Has Chicago and Lake Forest for a setting.

Louis Zara's new opus is a historical novel on the opening of Northwest Territory. His first, Blessed Is the Man, now is in the series Novels of Distinction.

Mignon Eberhardt's The Glass Slipper scheduled for fall publication.

Kenneth Horan's latest, It's Not My Problem, has local characters.

Smooth Figure Is Essential to Stylish Suits

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Suits for daytime or dress parade, dinner or evening, are stealing every fashion show. These suits must be worn smoothly and with an air of assurance. For that reason you will need proper accessories as well as superfitted underlayers. Never has the waistline been so revealed or so important.

Bulges, anything that even distantly resembles an unsightly wrinkle or unseemly plumpness, are to be avoided.

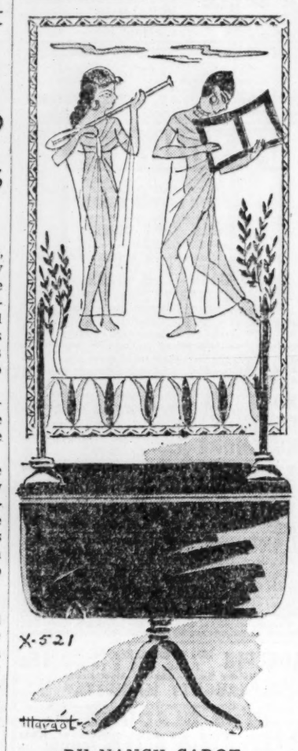
Velvet suits usually consist of the skin fitting simple dress and a tiny fitted jacket. Daytime outfits of jacket and skirt or jacket and dress are so high fashion that every one wears them and you must have the smooth streamline if they are to be worn to the best advantage.

Dinner suits, cocktails suits, and the newest formal evening suits are all made to reveal, to accentuate a perfect smoothness. Achieve it how you will, but achieve it. Taffeta, clinging lamés and metallics, suedelike fabrics, satins, and chiffon thin woolens, all demand the presence of good under control.

Right accessories include matching bag in some eye-opening color contrast, gloves, and costume jewelry.

Blouses are too numerous to describe. They are ready for the shopper who knows how to avoid monotony of suits. The latest arrivals, priced way down, are the clever, demure things made of powdery pastels in moire taffeta. Sleeves are brief and slightly puffed; covered buttons march down the front; circumspectly high, round, collarless necklines make them ideal finds.

Attractive Wall Hanging Features Egyptian Figures



BY NANCY CABOT.

Wall hangings being definitly "in" for home decoration, many needleworkers are confronted with the problem of something different in theme. These Egyptian figures are those of musicians embroidered in gold and two shades of green, with the outlines in black. The border is carried out in the same tones, using an outline, running, and buttonhole stitch.

For a hot iron transfer pattern of the Egyptian wall hanging, No. X-521, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Melita Seipp to Enjoy City's Debut Affairs

BY JUDITH CASS.

A NAME to be added to invitation lists to debutante parties during the latter half of the Christmas holiday season is that of Miss Melita Seipp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Seipp of Middleburg, Va. Miss Seipp, who is a student at Wells college, is having an especially gay "first year out," for she is taking part in the debutante festivities in Baltimore and Washington as well as in Chicago.

Her own debut was at a dance in September at the Seipps' Middleburg home. At Thanksgiving time and again during Christmas week she will go to Baltimore. Then she and her father and stepmother will come to Chicago for a week's whirl.

While they are here Mr. and Mrs. Seipp will give a party to introduce Melita to his large family, and, of course, various members of the Seipp-Uihlein-Bartholomay clan will entertain for their kinswoman. Most of Miss Seipp's Chicago relatives have not seen her for the last five years, for she has been away at school. Likewise, those Chicagoans who go to Virginia to hunt will be interested to meet the daughter of their Virginia friends.

Miss Seipp will have two attentive escorts to the Chicago parties, her cousins, Edwin A. Seipp Jr. and Walter Bareiss. The former is her double cousin, for his father and hers are brothers and her mother was Mrs. Edwin Seipp's sister. Mr. Bareiss, who is a sophomore at Yale, is not so closely related, for he is the son of one of the Seipps' cousins living in Germany. He stayed with the Henry Bartholomays last Christmas, but probably will stay with the Edwin Seipps this year. Young Mr. Seipp attends Princeton.

Miss Nancy Cockrell to Bow in Dallas.

An Evanston girl who is to have a debut season in Dallas, Tex., is Miss Nancy Steele Cockrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Cockrell. She and her mother are leaving today for Dallas. Miss Cockrell will be among the debutantes presented at the Idlewild ball on Nov. 12, the sixth member of her family to be presented by this club since 1884.

One of the first parties to be given in Dallas for Miss Cockrell is a dance her aunt, Mrs. Sally Green, will give on Saturday night at the Brook Hollow Country club.

A young woman with Chicago connections who is making her debut in Boston this year is Miss Barbara Virginia Schueler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Schueler of Concord, Mass. Mrs. Schueler is the former Lillian Mansfield Boggs, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Mansfield Boggs, early Chicagoans. The Schuelers are giving a luncheon for their daughter next Wednesday in the Balinese room of the Somerset hotel in Boston. Miss Schueler was graduated last June from the Cambridge school at Kendall Green, Mass.

Governors of Assembly Take More Space for Ball.

The governers of the Assembly are taking no chances on having crowded quarters for the Assembly ball. They have taken the grand ballroom, the red lacquer room, and foyer [the entire fourth floor] of the Palmer house. The date of the party has been changed from Dec. 9 to Dec. 16 in order to secure the large space.

No new governors have been elected to fill the places of the three who have resigned, Arthur Meeker, Morris L. Johnston, and Harold F. McCormick, but that matter may be taken up at a meeting tomorrow.

Here's one way to keep the back-of-the-neck stragglers under control if you wear your hair high. Use a quick drying lacker that doesn't make the hair greasy but does hold it in place.

This would be a swell world if every woman could afford to have her hair done by a professional each week. There'd be a lot more contentment in the land.

Until that day comes the women who must do their own hair should master every possible trick. You can't top the professional job as a rule, but you can, if you're at all deft and painstaking, have a very well groomed head of hair.

Cleanliness of hair is the first essential. A shampoo when you need it, not two or three days later. Then select a hairdress that you can handle yourself. Don't choose anything elaborate or extreme. Unless it's perfectly done it will look messy and you'll defeat all your own attempts to have style.

If it's curls you want, make them few and substantial. The trick combs that curl and comb at the same time are a tremendous help. And, for grooming, the maker of one of these combs has a quick drying lacker that makes a whale of a good setting fluid. The bottle has an atomizer, which means that you can spray the stuff where you want it and avoid cold dribbles down the back of your neck.

This same lacker helps with the high hairdress. Spray plenty of it on the stragglers at the back of your neck and comb them flat. Your hair will stay in place for a long time.

The lacker doesn't make a stiff, greasy coating. When it's dry it is an invisible but firm film that is an unobtrusive hair dressing.

Convalescent Home.

At the annual meeting of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children, Miss Mary S. West was elected president to succeed Mrs. Richard Hackett who resigned. The other officers are Mrs. Arthur Cutten, first vice president; Mrs. Harold E. Leopold, second vice president, and Mrs. John R. Thompson, secretary.

Baptists of Illinois Ask Churches to Form a Temperance Agency

Baptists of Illinois in annual convention at Elgin yesterday asked the state council of churches to set up an organization for the eradication or control of the sale of intoxicating liquors. The action was based on studies which said there is now no effective church temperance organization—the anti-Saloon League included—to cope with the situation. The convention met in the First Baptist church in Elgin.

The report said that the new organization should be the authentic voice of the churches.

An upward trend in church membership was reported to the convention yesterday for the first time in a decade.

The Rev. Paul Smith of Carbondale was elected president of the Illinois Baptist Ministers council. All officers of the Women's Baptist Missionary society were reelected.

Institute Opens 49th American Exhibit Today

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Forty-ninth Annual American Paintings and Sculpture exhibition opens today in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. It is an extraordinary exhibit; not one of the really fine Chicago painters is represented. The two painters whose names will be the most familiar to gallery-goers are Frances Foy and Gertrude Abercrombie.

There is much modernism in the show. But those who are not modern minded will enjoy the two stunning portraits by Robert Brackman, the one of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and the other of his wife, Ann Morrow Lindbergh. The painting between, "Amelita on a Burro," by Wayman Adams is another beautiful canvas. Louis Betts shows a fine portrait of a young man with a violin, "Alfred Lustgarten" and in the very back gallery above the stairs is the splendid "Polperro Harbor," by Jonas Lie.

Undoubtedly "The Eternal City," by Peter Blume, will be a subject for much discussion. It is a surrealist painting, filled with exquisite color, and having detail which is often exquisite and often a little repulsive. It is curious and fascinating, but except for it and the Louis Betts' portrait which hangs in the same gallery, this gallery increases one's wonder at modernism.

The sculpture, in contrast to the pictures, is finer than usual and has won only its just deserts by being remembered in the distribution of prizes. The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan Art institute medal and $500 went to the bronze "Kneeling Woman," by Robert Laurent, an unexciting piece but on the sound side. The sculptured "Head," in terra cotta, by Alfred Lenzi, won the William M. R. French Memorial gold medal and the very charming three-quarter length figure of a little girl in bronze, "Martha," by Harold Cash received honorable mention.

In the paintings Francis Chapin, that veteran among Chicago prize winners, was given the Norman Wait Harris silver medal and $500 for his landscape, "Little River." The work is liberally bathed in green. "Waiting for the Cue," by Esther Williams, a circus picture, was awarded the Norman Wait Harris bronze medal and $300.

The jury of the exhibition awarded the M. V. Kohnstamm prize of $250 for the most commendable painting to "Springtime," by Franklin Watkins. The jurors were three museum curators of painting, Clyde H. Burroughs of the Detroit Institute of Art, Henri Marceau of the Philadelphia Museum of Art, and Henry Sayles Francis of the Cleveland Museum of Art.

The Martin B. Cahn prize of $100 went to "The Spirit of the Clan," by Christian Abrahamsen, a delightful portrait of an elderly woman. Honorable mention for portrait or figure subject went to the excellent portrait of "Frankie Loper, Ex-Slave of Jefferson Davis," by George Biddle, one of the finest pieces of contemporary painting the Art institute shelters. Harry Mintz for "Side Church, Niles Center," and Georgina Klitgaard for "Clearing and Cold," were also awarded honorable mentions.

The Stage

The cast of "The Mikado," the Federal theater production at the Great Northern theater, will give an extra matinée performance today for invited guests from the companies of "Susan and God," "I Am Different," "Blossom Time," and the San Carlo Opera. Seats are also available to the general public.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Hollywood Mirror.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 19.—On lot 2 at M.-G.-M., Hedy La Marr in a love scene with Walter Pidgeon. . . . It was before the preview of "Algiers" that your correspondent declared that Newcomer La Marr was even more gorgeous, photogenically, than Marlene Dietrich, and that prediction seems to have stood up.

So it is particularly interesting that in her second American picture she is being directed by Joe Von Sternberg, Dietrich's director. . . . I asked him which of the two was more beautiful and he sidestepped: "They are both lovely. Marlene was lighter in her coloring. Hedy is brunette."

It was the first time I'd met Von Sternberg. . . . I expected to find a tall, dashing figure of a man. . . . Instead he is quite short. . . . He was dressed in brown, brown shoes, brown trousers, brown sweater, even to the little brown Alpine hat relieved by a spray of feathers.

"This story is strong," he explained, "so the photgraphy will be secondary. I'm taking no particular pains to photgoraph Hedy, because she doesn't need special photographic treatment. She'll get the same lighting as Pidgeon or Spencer Tracy."

I had heard so many legends about Von Sternberg's temperament that I was prepared for brusqueness. . . . Instead he said: "Make this place your headquarters. If I can be of any service, just tell me what you want." . . . There's no argument with a guy like that.

Best show on the set is provided by Britisher Reggie Gardiner, who is Hedy's boy friend, and Walter Pidgeon, who is making love to Hedy. . . . "I'll never forgive Chamberlain for calling off that war, Reggie," says Pidgeon. . . . "By this time you would have been back in England and the field would have been clear."

Gardiner turns to Miss La Marr and says: "Bear in mind, my dear, that this unspeakable Pidgeon goes to the cashier's office after making love to you and demands to be paid for it."

John Considine Jr. is the chap who produced "Boys' Town," the saga of Nebraska's Father Flannagan, who befriends homeless boys. . . . The picture is rolling up tremendous grosses wherever it goes, and thereln lies a story. This industry is predicated on the preview card system of trial by jury. That is, when a picture is completed and scored, the studio takes it to an out of the way theater, exhibits it, and passes out cards which the audience fills in. From these cards the studios learn what scenes appeal and what scenes should be eliminated.

Considine did that with "Boys' Town" in two sneak previews. Every card turned in was a rave report. M.-G.-M. decided that the preview card system had broken down and was valueless, being of no help whatsoever. "Boys' Town," however, has been such a unanimous success that M.-G.-M. now is convinced all over again that the card system is O. K., and that the fans who wrote in rave reports at Pomona and Long Beach actually were discriminating.

The major companies make money from each other, every day in the week, by renting to each other sets and locations. . . . Warner Brothers, for instance, maintains a large ocean liner docked at a typical water front pier. . . . When other companies want to shoot an ocean liner picture they rent it for $3,000 a day.

RKO, at the ranch outside Encino, has a modern Parisian street, a modern New England street, and a western cow town street. . . . Any of these can be rented for $1,750 a day. . . . Columbia has a New York street which rents at $1,750 a day. . . . Universal has an old fashioned theater set, and the rental is $750 a day. . . . 20th Century-Fox will rent you a large, modern theater interior for $1,500. . . . M.-G.-M. has an ocean liner and pier, an old Chicago street, and a New England street and the rental averages $2,000 a day.

Lack of studio space is the answer to this community renting system. . . . Because of the lack of space, studios must erect specific sets for specific pictures. . . . It would be economical to let these sets stand, but because of lack of space the sets must be knocked down as soon as the scene is shot, because other sets must be substituted on the following day. . . . As a result the studios that erect a set and keep it as standard equipment do a land office business.

No young actress in this town has made forward strides so noticeable as lovely young Anita Louise. . . . The youngster who once supplied only a Dresden doll loveliness to the screen now has become a darned effective young actress. . . . In "Marie Antoinette" and in "The Sisters" she proved how far she had stepped.

"I'm fed up with being cast as a beautiful dope," she told me. . . . "I'm going to be an honest-to-goodness actress." . . . She's making good on that promise. . . . No nicer youngster lives out here and the manner in which she has remained loyal to her Buddy Adler indicates that she has plenty of quality.

Ever since "There Goes My Heart" went into Radio City Music hall your reporter has been waiting for the critical report from New York. . . . Your reporter had more than a rooting interest, having penned the original story for Fredric March and Virginia Bruce. . . . Today the N. Y. papers arrived. . . . Kate Cameron's estimate: "Our own Hollywood reporter, Ed Sullivan, wrote the story from which Messrs. Moran and Jevne fashioned the screen play. . . . The picture achieves its purpose beautifully. . . . Dialog is expertly written and the gags have new twists. . . . Has the current audiences at Music hall in stitches," etc., etc. . . . Now isn't that swell?

A Door Closed Softly

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, accompanies his cousin, Alison, to a party at Lady Wibbe's. By mistake they go to the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman who receives them they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. But young Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. But they acquire one next day. While in the house David had seen a favorite book of his former love, Betsy Greentree, with her initials in it. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David learns the Scarpaths live in the mysterious house and sends a letter there to Betsy, which is unanswered. David confronts Scarpath, who explains that Betsy is suffering from a chronic nervous condition and can have no visitors, that she is being taken care of by his sister Evelyn. In the guise of a telephone repair man David gains a secret interview with Betsy and learns she did not receive his letter. She tells David her husband is not in love with her and she doesn't know why he married her. David arranges a scheme whereby they may communicate, with Penelope Wibbe's aid. Then Betsy's writing materials disappear. When Dr. Broderick, the specialist attending Betsy, insists on her taking the medicine, which always makes her feel worse, she grows desperate. Alison's friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, leaving her flat one night, finds Betsy unconscious on the threshold. Revived, Betsy explains Penelope helped her escape. She is half starved.

INSTALMENT XXVIII.

THE UNWANTED CHILD.

Colin had a decision to make—one for which he must shoulder entire responsibility. It was a serious decision and it might, he foresaw, involve them all in a grotesque, calamitous scandal. Him worst of the lot. Fully appreciating the risk, he had his suggestion. It was almost alarming to see Elizabeth's pupils dilate with sudden, incredulous hope.

"Could it . . .?" she whispered. "O, is it possible?"

"A chance worth exploring. We might as well make sure. I think, if this progress keeps up, I might get you out for an hour tomorrow Don't think about the knee any more. What I want to learn more about is your life down in Hampshire—and the treatment from the time Dr. Broderick took over."

Bit by bit it came out, with extreme diffidence, since the two topics involved the baring of innumerable sore spots. Colin could see that from the day of her marriage one sorry, humiliating experience had been piled on another. Round the whole had lain crushing boredom, inability to take part in the life about her, and a general helplessness she bitterly deplored.

"It's wrong, all wrong, for any girl to be shielded as I'd been! It makes me so ashamed! Why, do you know I've never once bought a railway ticket or looked up a train? I felt that no human soul wanted me. First my aunt, terribly good in a way, but so plainly hating to be bothered. Then my husband and sister-in-law, both treating me as a rather irritating nuisance." Her face clouded. "Now, of course, I'm sponging on Alison—who can't want me either, in spite of her being such a pet. I'm crowding her. I'm using her things. Anybody would loathe that. O, I can't let her do it! Don't you see I've got to get away?"

"In those?" He pointed to the thick wool golf stockings and worn, beribboned mules. She burst out laughing, as he had intended, and let him argue her—under protest. "Now be sensible! Wouldn't you do exactly the same for Alison and be glad of the chance? Why must you credit her with less admirable instincts? So you're the famous unwanted child," he made fun of her. "May account for quite a lot."

"Not for my getting this awful thing?"

"It might," he lied. "Don't forget it's a nervous complaint, and that many such have a way of clearing up under the right conditions."

He wondered if he were committing the unpardonable sin in thus raising hopes possibly unrealizable. Nearly any colleague of his would say so in view of the powers ranged against him. If the man on this case had been any one else but Guthrie Broderick . . .

Colin, back in his flat, surveyed his own lamentable actions with a touch of chagrin. "God, if I'd only had more experience with nervous pathology!" He considered which one of the bigger nerve specialists he might consult for Barham was a back number, hopelessly old fashioned. Henderson? Fairly sound, but almost certain to carry tales straight to headquarters. Ranleigh, the same. MacConochie, though—that was an idea! And hold on—wasn't there some lecture where he was surely to be found?

MacConochie religiously attended medical lectures, as a rule to jeer. At one or two recent affairs Colin had chatted with the red, hairy Aberdonian who had bludgeoned his way to the front rank of nerve specialists, leaving a trail of enemies in his wake. His tactless tongue was bound to alienate the profession. Expansive though, and crudely honest. Thinking of which things Colin ransacked his mantelpiece, found the card he wanted, and inspected the date.

"Tonight! That's luck if you like. I can bring it up casually, make it less pointed than if I routed him out. Who's speaking, by the way?"

He stared, his skin prickling. Things were moving his way! On Nov. 30, at the Royal Institute hall, a paper on recent progress having to do with the central nervous system was being read by Guthrie Langton Broderick, M. D., F. R. M. S.! Not a doubt of it, MacConochie would be there.

Late, between calls, he paid another flying visit to his new patient. She was on the hearth rug, wearing Alison's worst jumper and a skirt overlapped with safety pins. Her color was surprising—and she was deep in the latest number of Vogue! The nurse, Badger by name, made signals. Outside he learned what they meant. While little Mrs. Greentree was having her nap some gentleman not giving his name had rung up to ask for a Mrs. Something or other beginning with Scar.

"Most persistent he was. Would have it she was here and being called something different. The impudence! Rather a nice voice, too."

With further orders as to the strong line she was to take, Colin went his way, worried.

He arrived early at the hall and from the vantage point of the anteroom kept watch on those who went in. At 8:20 a rich burr smote his ear.

Turning he beheld MacConochie, spare red hairs on end, fiery features glistening with violent shaving and diabolic humor. All out for enjoyment—and his rig! Cheapest broadcloth—strained across the ploughman's back, in front barely covering the braces which caused the gray, pock marked shirt to buckle, almost to burst open its dull black studs. The Scotsman's parsimony was a legend. He was even said to flaunt it, with malice. Colin touched his shoulder and found his hand seized in a punishing grasp.

"Well, now! I'm richt pleased to be seeing ye. Paying homage to royalty are ye?"

They entered the well filled hall and with some difficulty discovered two adjacent seats. A buzz of shop chatter went on, but watches began to be consulted and boredom to show through the masks of dutiful respect. Into this atmosphere, over 10 minutes late, a slight figure strode, sat down beside the chairman, and benignly accepted the tumult of applause.

It was a neat, scholarly paper, somewhat general in character, and couched in terms comprehensible to the least informed of those present.

"Stepping doon to us!" came the subterranean mutter from Colin's side. "What does he take us for—secondary students, wanting instr-uction in common hygiene?"

Guthrie Broderick's manner was suave, his delivery incisive and occasionally brilliant. Colin watched, puzzled. The man at moments scintillated, yet his whole physique had grown so shockingly depleted! That appalling leaden tint, shown up by the footlights—those fine criss-crossed lines, worst of all the sagging mouth with muscles not always under control. . . .

"Bad!" grunted the Scot, wagging his enormous head. "O, I grant ye yon chap's putting up a magneeficent front! Mark ye this, though: he's riding for a fall, and that soon!"

At the finish Broderick seemed querulous, hardly able to endure the crowd pressing around him with congratulatory handshakes. Three minutes of this and he had bolted. In the street Colin saw him sink exhaustedly into the shining black coupé which waited for him.

The hirsute barbarian was still near.

"Aye," he observed, "he's made it—but only just. I was at dinner with him, ye see, and I was wondering. Interesting—but how soon will he crack?"

"It's early. What about a drink at my place? I've got my bus around the corner."

"Have ye, noo? Weel, then, I'll not object to a small drappie. A mon wants it to wash away the taste of this mush we've been swallowing!"

GASOLINE ALLEY—PARTY POLITICS

Snow White's Voice and the Prince Sue Disney for $300,000

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Snow White and the prince—the flesh and blood originals of the animated characters who are grossing around $10,000,000 for the famous Walt Disney movie—sang a song of sixpence today. Adriana Caselotti [the voice of Snow White] and Harry Stockwell [the voice of the prince] sued Walt Disney Productions Ltd. and RCA Manufacturing Co. for $300,000.

Petite, dark haired Adriana, who received less than $1,000, asked $200,000. Stockwell, whose pay check was under $500, sought $100,000. Through their attorney they charged breach of contract.

Disney and RCA, they charged, made millions of phonograph records from the sound recording of the film in violation of their contracts, which restricted their voices to "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Franklyn Waldheim, lawyer, in answering the petition, contended that both Snow White and the prince had signed releases giving Disney the right to reproduce their voices in any manner whatsoever.

Disney already is having legal headaches over the music in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." In federal court last week, Thornton W. Allen Co., music publishers, charged that "Some Day My Prince Will Come" was pirated from "Old Eli," marching song of Yale, which awarded Disney an honorary master's degree. In Los Angeles, Raymond Fraunfelder, Swiss yodeler, is seeking $50,000, charging that Disney stole his yodeling melodies.

North American Indians knew how to tap the maple tree for its sweet sap years before the white man explored Canada and the territories that now are America. Indians knew about maple sirup and maple sugar, too, delectable sweets then produced from sap by the heat of the sun.

In the early days maple sugar was cheaper to buy than cane sugar and wasn't considered the precious luxury we of the middle west now deem it. Genuine New England maple sirups and sugars these days are expensive, but there are times when a craving for the real thing on waffles or pancakes will not be denied. Maple sugar candies, too, are utterly delicious. Easterners have pointed out to us some of the more unusual uses for maple sirup. As a sweetener for those Boston baked beans, as a medium for candying sweet potatoes, as a basting sauce for baked ham, it has no peer. Apples baked with maple sirup and butter are the best you ever tasted. Upside-down cakes, pecan rolls, and cinnamon rolls swimming in sirup during their time in the oven turn out delicious.

Maple Divinity.

2½ cups sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup maple sirup
¼ cup water
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine sugar, salt, maple sirup, and water. Stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Cook without stirring until a drop of the sirup forms a hard ball in cold water, or to a temperature of 265 degrees. Wash away crystals from the side of the pan with a damp cloth wrapped around the tines of a fork. Pour the sirup slowly over the egg whites, which have been beaten until stiff, and beat constantly until candy will hold shape when dropped from the spoon. An electric mixer is best, or use a rotary egg beater until the candy thickens so as to make beating difficult, and then continue with a spoon. Add vanilla and turn into a greased pan, or drop by spoonfuls on waxed paper. Nuts may be added. Black walnuts are especially good with maple divinity.

Seven Minute Maple Icing.

1 cup maple sugar
¼ cup water
1 egg white

Place sugar, water, and unbeaten egg white in the top of a double boiler. Set over rapidly boiling water and cook for seven minutes, beating constantly. Remove from the heat and continue beating until the sirup becomes thick enough to spread.

Maple Cream Tapioca.

[Serves four.]

1½ cups milk, scalded
3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
2 egg yolks
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup maple sirup
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla

Add tapioca to scalded milk and cook about ten minutes, or until clear. Beat egg yolks slightly and add salt and maple sirup. Add hot milk and tapioca slowly, stirring constantly. Return mixture to the double boiler and cook until the custard will coat a clean spoon. Beat the egg whites stiff, beat in confectioners' sugar and vanilla gradually. Fold into hot custard, cool, and chill.

Mother and Daughter Duet

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER DIRNDLS.

Twins no longer have the monopoly on duet costumes. Mothers and daughters, sons and fathers are appearing at the smartest places attired similarly. We think the fashion is particularly attractive in the feminine realm, and one of the modes that is most adaptable is the dirndl, because it is graceful and womanly. Absolutely identical are the two dresses offered today. They have square necklines and puffed short sleeves trimmed with ruffling. The bodices are buttoned and fitted snugly to the figure. The waistlines are defined with narrow sashes of the material, and the skirts are flared gracefully.

Silks, satin, velvet, velveteen, and soft woolens are ideal fabrics. All fashionable colors are suitable, especially the jewel tones and the rich browns, wines, purples, and blues.

Style No. 2554 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 4⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with 2 yards of ruffling.

Style No. 2814 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material, with 1½ yards of ruffling.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Mother's Job Harder in City Than Country

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y News Syndicate, Inc.]

In recent years I've seen a lot of suburban and country mothers. I'm sure most of them don't realize what a easy time of it they have. Compared with the life of a city mother, it's a bed of roses. I've been both, and know.

The mother who lives in a large city has to make up her mind to spend more time on her children than the country mother does,

So the city mother, if she has her child's good at heart, must plan her days with provision for his playtime in mind. Starting with his babyhood her little newcomer must have his outing—either one or two of them. This usually means pushing the carriage or go-cart to the nearest park, or square, or any other green, open spot. It involves planning her housework around the baby's day—his nap, his meals, his bath.

It means quite a performance getting him ready, especially if it's winter and the perambulator has to be engineered in and out, and up and down steps. The country or suburban mother, in contrast, can whisk the baby out on the sun porch or into a protected sunny part of the grounds and leave him within hearing.

However, most city mothers don't seem to mind this park outing when the baby is in arms, or just able to walk. But let him get to be 3 or 4 and they begrudge the time he really needs in the nearby park or square where he can play safely and under her supervision. Yet here is the time when he needs her time, most especially, if the only alternative is to play on the streets while she is in the house.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Right now, virtually at the start of the Second Annual Self-Rating Bridge Examination, I want to clarify some important points.

First [as in the case of last year] you are not expected to answer questions on the sole basis of the Culbertson system. This is a test of general bridge knowledge, not of your ability to memorize [or look up in my books] the rules or illustrations that will lead you to the correct answers. Hence, followers of other systems will have an absolutely equal chance with Culbertson players. Take slam bidding, for instance. If you regularly use the Blackwood convention, and make the proper bid in accordance with it, you will receive full credit, just as though you used the more widely known Culbertson 4-5 no trump convention. Indeed, if you arrive by logical steps at the correct final contract, you do not have to use any slam convention.

TODAY'S QUESTIONS.

Question 5. With neither side vulnerable and North [your partner] the dealer, the bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	?

You [South] hold:

♠ K Q 10 8 6 5 ♥ A K Q 4 2 ♦ None ♣ Q 4.

What call do you make now?

Question 6. Both sides vulnerable. East, the opponent on your right, deals and bids one spade. You [South] hold:

♠ None ♥ K 10 8 6 ♦ A J 8 5 3 ♣ Q J 9 2.

What call do you make?

TODAY'S HAND.

West, dealer.

NORTH
♠ A Q 10
♥ K J 10 7 3
♦ J 5 4
♣ 5 3

WEST
♠ 3
♥ A 6 5 4
♦ 10 6

EAST
♠ K J 8 7 6 5
♥ Q 9
♦ None
♣ K J 6 4 2

SOUTH
♠ 9 4 2
♥ 8 2
♦ A K Q 9 8 7 3 2
♣ None

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 club	1 heart	1 spade	2 diam.
Pass	2 hearts	3 diam.	4 clubs
Double	Pass	Pass	4 diam.
Pass	Pass	4 spades	5 diam.
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

East's bidding was pretty bad in that he at no time actually showed his terrific club support. His three diamond bid implied it, but his later persistence with spades was not helpful to his partner. Incidentally, his three diamond cue bid was too strong, considering his meager honor trick holding. Six clubs would have been an absolute laydown, but West could not be blamed, under the circumstances, for doubling five diamonds. The spade three was opened and dummy's ace was played. Declarer immediately ruffed a club, cashed the diamond ace, and led to the dummy's jack, then ruffed dummy's last club. Now a heart was led toward dummy. The heart ace was marked in West's hand for his opening bid; hence, when West ducked, dummy's king was put up and a low heart was returned. East won with the queen, but could make no safe return. On a club lead, declarer would ruff while dummy discarded a spade [or vice versa], whereas to lead the spade king was to confine defenders to one spade trick. Declarer's foresight in ruffing away dummy's two clubs before attacking hearts had insured his contract.

Tomorrow's Hand

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

Art Institute Reception Today.

This afternoon between 3 and 5:30 o'clock the sixtieth annual reception of the Art institute will be held. It will open the forty-ninth annual exhibition of American paintings and sculpture. Of special interest in the show will be two portraits, one of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and the other of his wife, Anne Morrow Lindburgh, both painted by Robert Brackman of New York.

But no painting or piece of sculpture in the exhibition ever is of more interest to the several thousand women who crowd the galleries than the tea tables presided over by members of various women's clubs in the city, and decorated by the most artistic of each club.

In gallery 25 the Antiquarians will have a table, with Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, and Mrs. Phillip Miller in charge. Representing the Fortnightly club in the same gallery will be Mrs. Silas H. Strawn and Mrs. James M. Hopkins.

In gallery 45 the Chicago Woman's club, the Art Institute alumni, and the Municipal Art league will preside at a table; in gallery 48 members of the Arts, Friday, and Contemporary clubs will be hostesses; in gallery 30 the Renaissance club and the Drama league will combine to serve tea and coffee, and in gallery 27 there will be representatives from the Musicians Club for Women and the Arché club.

Women Meet at Old Trinity Church Today.

The days when old Trinity church at 26th street and Michigan avenue was the place of worship of many of Chicago's prominent families will be recalled today when Episcopal churchwomen from all parts of the city assemble there to observe the annual quiet day of the woman's auxiliary of the diocese of Chicago. Mrs. C. Colton Daughaday of Winnetka is president of the auxiliary.

Robert Briffault's lecture on "What You Think and What I Think" at 11:30 o'clock this morning at the Arts club promises to be a controversial subject and it is expected that his audience will have plenty of questions to ask.

Mrs. Ralph James, president of the Conseil d'Administration of the Alliance Française, is entertaining the organization's various committee members at tea at 3 o'clock this afternoon at her home, 220 East Delaware place.

Modern furniture and modern fireplaces call for definite types of decorative accessories. You can't put an old fashioned mahogany clock on the mantle of an asymmetrical fireplace, for example, and get away with it. Whatever you place there must be completely modern.

The smartest and most beautiful decorative objects we've seen in ages are recent inports: plaster heads and torsos, and horses' heads of considerable size to go in modern rooms. They look as new as tomorrow, yet most of them are copies of sculptures of ancient Greece and Rome, the heads being larger than life size.

BADGERS SHAKE UP LINE; READY FOR PURDUE

WALDORF SEES LOW SCORE IN ILLINOIS GAME

N. U. Coach Points to Tight Defenses.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

"The Illinois-Northwestern game figures to be a low scoring contest. Illinois is a tough defensive team. I was pleased with Northwestern's defense against Ohio State and I hope we can do as well defensively against Illinois."

This is the observation of Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern coach, on the homecoming battle at Champaign Saturday. It is a forecast based on last year's result, when the Illini upset Northwestern, 6 to 0, on survey of Illinois' material and play against Indiana and Notre Dame, as reported by scouts, and the estimate of the possibilities of the Wildcat squad which last week played a scoreless tie with Ohio State.

Coaching Staf Pleased.

Waldorf said yesterday that in general the coaching staf was pleased with the performance of the Wildcats in their first major game. The team was disappointed, of course, that it didn't score against the Buckeyes, but the offensive record otherwise, as attested by the 16 to 6 count of first downs and by comparison of yards gained, was far from discouraging. Defensively the Wildcats kept Ohio State in its own territory for three quarters and Ohio State escaped only when Jim Strausbaugh broke loose for a long run which accounted for about half of the yards gained from scrimmage by Ohio State.

Northwestern's defensive play is based on the development of the second line by Burt Ingwersen, line coach, so that there is slight decrease in effectiveness, if any, when the varsity line is relieved. John Haman, center, has played exceptionally well and against Illinois Northwestern plans to divide the defensive full backing between George McGurn and Jay Laskay. Laskay has successfully completed every demand of the coaches and in recognition he will play practically as much of each game as McGurn.

Wildcats Hold Scrimmage.

Yesterday the Wildcats held a short scrimmage after an earlier session devoted to defense against Illinois' plays. The backs were sent through a blocking lesson. Northwestern now has about finished its defensive preparations for the Illini. The remaining practices will be devoted to speeding up the attack. The team will move to a Chicago hotel tomorrow evening and leave Saturday morning for Champaign.

Waldorf's estimate of Illinois is that the squad is stronger both in the line and back field than a year ago. Illinois has two lines of approximately the same strength and it has more back field speed. But it is Illinois' defense that worries the Wildcats.

Comparisons Are Made.

Until the game with Notre Dame, Illinois had a remarkable defensive record against plays from scrimmage. Indiana, for instance, was held to a minus nine yards. The Hoosiers also are the measuring rod for Saturday's game between Illinois and Northwestern.

Although Indiana failed offensively against Illinois, the Hoosiers made 16 first downs against Ohio State, the same number of first downs Northwestern garnered last Saturday. By comparison then it would seem that Illinois has the better defense. Northwestern's running attack made about 180 yards against Ohio State. Indiana gained 144 yards by rushing against Ohio State, but failed completely against Illinois.

There is no question but that Illinois is a faster team than Ohio State, although Strausbaugh who didn't start a game until last week against Northwestern, altered that conception somewhat. It was Strausbaugh who opened the Ohio State touchdown drive against Indiana.

Goldak Is Injured.

Northwestern probably can not use John Goldak, right guard, Saturday. Goldak was injured in the Kansas State game. Tom Eby, left end, who played only four minutes against Ohio State, also may not be available for the Illinois game. To bolster the ends, H. E. Horton, a sophomore, now will be used at left end as well as at the other flank. George Zorich also will be given a chance at right end.

All this conversation about defenses leads only to a scoreless tie. There is a suspicion that the open attack, which it is rumored the Illini have been working on diligently, will be unveiled this week against Northwestern. At least, the razzle-dazzle wasn't in evidence at Notre Dame. Northwestern probably is considering the airways as proper approach to the Illinois goal line.

N. U. Passers Dangerous.

Indiana completed fourteen of its thirty-seven forward passes attempted against Illinois. Since Northwestern completed five of nineteen passes against Ohio State, the Wildcats can't be rated helpless in this form of attack. Northwestern's sophomore half

My Half Back.

My half back came to visit me again,
And he had on a collar and a tie,
I never saw a fellow in such pain
Nor heard one breathe such a despondent sigh;
He squirmed and twisted like a muzzled pup,
He couldn't get a comfortable pose,
He writhed when sitting down and standing up,
The collar had him beaten, I suppose.

At times he seemed to think that he was tied,
He acted like one snared by a lasso,
He wouldn't even move from side to side
For fear the lariat might tighter grow;
I'd like to bet a grand against a dollar
That boy will never wear another collar.

I, too, love a half back,
But he doesn't drink or chew,
He says that he's in training;
Some life, I'm telling you.
No beer and no late hours,
It's football talk each night;
His forward or his lateral pass,
His end run to the right.
Sometimes it kind of gets me,
But when at every game,
My hero makes a touchdown
And the crowd yells out his name
I feel so awfully proud;
And when the game is through,
And he's finished pitching passes
We go home and pitch some woo—
And he can really pitch it,
And he's handsome, strong and tall,
So, though I have to stand a lot,
He's worth it, after all.

To the Noblest Roman.

The following is a copy of a letter from Duke Hutchinson to A. A. Stagg:

"Dear Mr. Stagg: I wonder if you remember the autumn of 33 years ago? That was the year you stopped Michigan and Fielding Yost, 1905, to be exact. The score was 2 to 0, as if any of us ever would forget it.

"You remember the apartment on Drexel avenue where Roy Van Patten, Bill Cuppy, Roy Keehn, Duffy Cornell, and I used to gather on Sunday afternoon? Perhaps you also remember the boys who played on that team. I do.

"Remember Walter Eckersall? While you and Eck didn't agree on a lot of things, you must admit he was the greatest football player and gridiron genius ever packed into 145 pounds. The longer we live, the greater he looks. You can have your Heffelfingers, Coys, Thorpes, Hestons, Granges, et al. I'll still take Eck.

"Marc Catlin was captain. I saw him not long ago in Appleton, Wis. He went up there to coach Lawrence and he's still there, a serious minded lawyer. It was Marc and Ben Badenock who threw Clark over the line for that greatest of all safeties.

"There was Babe Meigs. Babe never knew just what to do with his feet, there was so much of them. Leo De Tray still is an incorrigible optimist. The last time I saw him he was prospecting for oil and playing long shots at Lincoln Fields. And there were Ed Parry, Bubbles Hill, Hugo Bezdek, Bert Gale, Carl Hitchcock, Chuck Kennedy, Fred Speik and a lot of other great guys.

"I didn't mean to get reminiscent. What I started to say is that we are tickled to death that you are coming here on Nov. 12, and I think you picked a swell year for it."

AUTUMN IS HERE FOR SURE; BIKE RACERS RETURN

Six Day Event to Start in Stadium Nov. 6.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

As sure as the leaves turn red in the fall, as inevitable as the haze that screens the harvest moon and the frost that gathers on the pumpkin. That's the six day bicycle race.

It doesn't seem any time since the first six day bike race waged by two man teams took place out at the Stock Yards. But the impending spectacle will be the fortieth to be held in Chicago, not counting several outlaw uprisings, and those one man affairs at Tattersall's back in the gay nineties. Doesn't time fly?

Race Starts Nov. 6.

Harry Mendel, promoter of the race for several years and press agent for the event these many annums, is in town making preparations for the race, which opens in Chicago Stadium Nov. 6. Mendel is loaded with some new unpronouncable names, renewed optimism about the gate but the same old adjectives, all superlative.

Mr. Mendel says he feels that a lot of Chicago citizens have been worrying about the case of Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel, the German lads who are about the most spectacular fellows that ride bicycles at high speeds for long periods. These two boys rode in an outlaw race here last spring and it was announced at the time that organized cycling had administered all manner of discipline, except burning the boys' tires off their bikes. The setting down was to have been for one year.

Germans to Ride.

Happily the Germans had all the rulings altered. They stayed in the doghouse about the length of time it took to have their wheels greased and their saddles retanned. So they are going to ride in the Chicago race.

For a while Mr. Mendel thought he'd get the Germans to split up for the Chicago engagement. But he got them whipped in the race just over in Montreal, after they had won their twelfth straight in the New York race which ended on Sept. 24. Torchy and Doug Peden beat them in the last eight minutes of the Montreal race after finishing second in the New York race. Mendel says that the Pedens asked that the Germans ride as a team here and promised to take their measure again.

Promoter Mendel, who is not altogether in accord with the precepts of Hitler and Mussolini, seems to chortle a bit when he reflects that he not only is giving Kilian and Vopel more work than they have had in Germany but that he also is giving employment to a popular Italian athlete, Cesar Moretti. Mendel is not quite ready to shoot the works on Moretti, but is quite sure Cesar's papa was the greatest Italian rider that ever lived. Kilian, Vopel, and Moretti before the season ends will have raced under the Mendel star in New York, Montreal, Chicago, Buffalo, and Philadelphia.

Old Favorite Returns.

The management expects patriotic rallies to greet the return of an old favorite, Marcel Guimbretiere, a member of the original French red devil team. Marcel will be back after an absence of four years. He has done a stretch in the French army since he last whirled in Chicago.

After he gets through with all his international artists, Mendel generally gets back to the Canadian brothers, the Pedens. He is pretty proud of Torchy since the Montreal race. That was his thirty-second six day bike victory, a new world record, topping the mark of Pete Van Kempen of Holland.

Lou Ambers to Fight Steve Halaiko Oct. 28

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Lou Ambers, former lightweight champion, today signed to meet Steve Halaiko, veteran Auburn, N. Y., boxer, in Syracuse on Oct. 28. It will be Ambers' first fight since he lost the 135 pound title to Henry Armstrong six weeks ago.

Getting Set for Battle in Lafayette

Tony Ippolito, Purdue full back, who will throw his weight against Wisconsin's line in Saturday's game.

Gene Britt, Purdue end, who will attempt to turn back the Badgers' running plays Saturday.

Roy Bellin, who will be captain of the Badgers during the encounter in Lafayette. He plays half back.

Maroons Take Morning Drill Today for Ohio

Coach Clark Shaughnessy, faced with the almost insuperable task of checking the ponderous Ohio State football machine, has ordered his Maroon squad to assemble early tomorrow morning so that they may get in a few more licks of practice before boarding a train for Columbus later in the day.

Feverish efforts to plug up the big holes which Iowa made apparent in the Maroon defense went forward yesterday, and more of the same is scheduled for today. Yesterday the entire practice period was devoted to defensive scrimmage, with the varsity opposing a freshman team coached in Buckeye plays by Kyle Anderson, who has scouted Ohio.

Don Wilson, sophomore from Hinsdale, the latest candidate in a group of newcomers who have been tried at right tackle, was in the tackle spot yesterday, having shown some promise against Iowa. Bob Flack, another aspirant to the post, is out of action, the only Maroon casualty of the moment, and is not expected to play Saturday. Alongside Wilson, at right end, was Carl Nohl, another newcomer.

Shaughnessy continued to use Hamity, Meyer, Davenport, and Valorz in the back field.

BUCKEYES WORK INDOORS.

Columbus, O., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Rain drove Ohio State indoors today in their practice for the Chicago game Saturday. Coach Francis Schmidt ran the players through a brisk signal drill and the three sets of backs which the Buckeyes plan to use against the Maroons, were instructed on means of breaking up Capt. Lew Hamity's passes.

Only Victor Marino, guard, was absent from practice because of injuries. He will be in the starting lineup Saturday.

Michigan Men Train Yale to Play Michigan

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Driving under high pressure for nearly two hours, the Yale football squad today climaxed its training for the Michigan game here Saturday with a defensive drill against the Wolverines' air plays. The practice session was closed with a ground attack against the scrubs, employing the new formations taught by Head Coach Ducky Pond.

The passes were tossed by Bill Renner, Yale back field coach who was Michigan captain in 1935. In this week's practices three former Michigan players—Renner, Ivan Williamson, end coach, and Gerald Ford, assistant line coach—have headed the Yale program.

Today's practice showed Yale improved in team play. Especial aggressiveness was shown by the first string guards, Charley Miller and Jim Dern.

The lineup today and for the game follows:

MICHIGAN PRIMES GUNS.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Michigan plans to match Yale's anticipated aerial attack with its own offensive guns, Coach Fritz Crisler indicated today as he emphasized running and passing.

Bill Luther, a reserve back, and Dave Strong, who completed five of eight last minute passes against the Gophers last Saturday, devoted much time to passing. Crisler also directed a defensive group against freshmen employing Yale plays. Ralph Heikkinen, guard, was idle. He has a slightly bruised leg, but he will be available to play against Yale.

Lee, Carnegie Full Back, Out of Irish Game

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Coach Bill Kern announced tonight Bill Lee, Carnegie Tech full back, would be unable to play against Notre Dame Saturday because of an injured leg. Lee hurt the leg two weeks ago and aggravated the injury last Saturday against Holy Cross. He is receiving treatment in a hospital. Don Campbell replaced Ron Gumbert, who was battered in the Holy Cross game at right tackle. The Tartans leave for Notre Dame tomorrow.

LAYDEN ORDERS SCRIMMAGE.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Coach Elmer Layden has been ready to dispense with scrimmages for Notre Dame's football team by this stage of the average football season, but he ordered one today in anticipation of the plays Carnegie Tech is likely to use in Saturday's game.

He has maintained for several months that he expected more trouble from Tech than he anticipated from any other early season opponent. His apprehension was justified Saturday by Tech's 7 to 6 victory over Holy Cross, and on Sunday when he met with Scouts Bill Carney and Chet Grant who said Tech was the best team they had seen this fall.

Aggressive line play and speedy backs, he told his squad, are the two factors that make Carnegie stand out above Kansas, Georgia Tech and Illinois.

FIGHTER DIES IN RING AFTER BOUT; ARREST OPPONENT

Rockland, Me., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Henry King, 21, Worcester, Mass., heavyweight, died in the ring here tonight at the end of a ten round bout with Roy Worcester, Bangor. Worcester was arrested by state troopers, who said he would be held on a technical charge of manslaughter. He was released on bail pending appearance in Municipal court tomorrow.

State Police Lieutenant J. Edward Marks, a spectator, said the Massachusetts boxer crumpled to the floor just before the bout ended.

State police and city firemen jumped into the ring and began applying artificial respiration. An inhalator was used and a physician gave King a heart stimulant before pronouncing him dead.

Moeller Will Start at Gile's End.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Three varsity teams were kept on defense against the freshmen using Purdue plays today as Wisconsin completed its heavy work for Purdue's homecoming game at Lafayette Saturday. A light workout will be held tomorrow and the squad will leave for Indianapolis tomorrow night.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher indicated he might start Ralph Moeller, a junior, at left end in place of Sophomore Gordon Gile. It also appears likely that Al Dorsch may start at left tackle in place of Bob Eckl. Eckl is bothered with a sprained ankle. Dorsch didn't report until the season was four weeks old, but he has come along fast. He was a regular last year.

The squad morale is excellent despite the crushing defeat by Pittsburgh, and there is a general confidence among the players that they are going to defeat Purdue—something a Wisconsin team hasn't done at Lafayette since the current series began in 1925.

PURDUE SQUAD RESTS.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Convinced by the listless performance in yesterday's scrimmage that the Purdue squad is more in need of rest than anything, Coach Mal Elward gave the Boilermakers one of the lightest drills of the season today.

Contact work was abandoned as the coaches reviewed both offensive and defensive tactics, with emphasis on pass defense.

With the exception of the back field, where he expects to make frequent shifts to relieve Lou Brock and Jack Brown, Elward indicated he would stick to the same lineup that worked against Minnesota and Fordham.

Seeking new half back strength the coaches continued to devote considerable attention to Ted Tykocki and Mike Byelene, sophomores, as well as Elwood Yeager, basketball player, who has shown promise.

HOOSIERS TRY PASSES.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Improvement in the blocking department was shown by the Indiana football squad today during an intensive practice for Saturday's homecoming game with Kansas State. The drill was held on a rain soaked field.

Polishing their aerial game, the Hoosiers afforded better protection for Passer Joe Nicholson, who threw several well placed passes under fire. The squad also laid plans to repulse an anticipated passing attack, scrimmaging against reserves using Kansas State pass plays. Trainers announced that injuries will keep three Hoosier ends, Frank Petrick, John Janzaruk, and Eddie Rucinski out of the game. Despite the injury jinx Coach Bo McMillin said he is "encouraged by the sharper blocking and tackling shown in the last two scrimmages."

After rehersing offensive plans the Hoosiers spent much time on defensive tactics designed to stop the line charges of Elmer Hackney, 215 pound full back, who has been the spearhead of the Wildcats' attack this season.

Would Let Injured Player Lie Until a Doctor Arrives

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Lives can be saved on football fields by letting injured players lie untouched until a physician can look them over.

This suggestion was made today to the American College of Surgeons by its retiring president, Dr. Frederic A. Besley of Waukegan, Ill. The dangers were described in a brief from the college's committee on fractures.

"Never lift an injured person or his head," the brief states, "until he has told you whether he can move his legs or fingers.

"If he cannot move his legs his back is broken.

"If he cannot move his fingers his neck is broken."

But at this stage, it was explained, the injuries are not necessarily fatal. Recovery depends largely on the "first move." A physician knows how to have such an injured person picked up and carried away without giving the broken vertebrae a chance to cut or damage the spinal cord.

"Contrary to this," said Dr. Besley, "it is common practice to roll him over, allow him to stand or even walk, or, what is even worse, to remove him from the field by having a few students carry him, causing great spinal angulation.

"The same applies to skull fractures, which at the time may cause only temporary mental confusion.

"It is a disgrace for an educational institution to subject its students to careless and unscientific methods and not fully protect them in this great American sport."

WESTON BEATS MORIN, 300-214, IN CUE MATCH

Cowboy Weston, attempting a comeback after four years of idleness because of an automobile accident, defeated Charles Morin, 300 to 214, in their six-block three-cushion match which ended last night at 131 South Wabash avenue.

Weston won every block, defeating Morin, 50 to 34 in 39 innings in the fifth block yesterday afternoon. His high run for the match was 8 and Morin's 7. The match took 305 innings.

Bluenose Breaks Steering Gear; Race Is Postponed

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Canada's Bluenose and America's Gertrude L. Thebaud today made another attempt to hold their third scheduled race for the international fishermen's trophy, but the event was called off again when the Canadian schooner's steering gear became disabled shortly before the boats were to start on an eighteen mile triangular course.

HAUER RETURNS TO HERO'S ROLE AT SPORTSMAN'S

Rides Sanctity to Victory in Feature Race.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Henry Hauer, the Arlington Heights boy who was a riding ball of fire at the Sportsman's Park meeting last year, had been shunted into the wings during the current program at the half mile track until yesterday. Jockies like Earl Dew, Al Bodiou, and Tay Pay Martin had been running the show until Hank climbed aboard Sanctity, the C. E. Davison gelding, in the Monee purse, feature of the day.

Away seventh, Hank and Sanctity didn't look as if they could win by next week. The speedy Our David appeared to be the winner when he dashed to the front and held on, in spite of a challenge by the favorite, Maleman.

Then Hauer became the Hauer who thrilled the fans at the little track last season. He was sixth, then fifth, but then, heading into the stretch, it seemed as though Sanctity would be no better than third. Here it was that Master Hauer went to work and brought his mount home in front of Airlap by a length and a half. Airlap came up to take the place from Our David. Sanctity paid $10.40.

Unpromising Daily Double.

The daily double public started out as though it were going to duplicate Tuesday's $8 combination. Jay D., favorite in the first number, gave them that idea by romping home two lengths in front after having led all the way. Ridden by Jocky Page, the winner returned $5, beating out the challenge of Ebony Boy and Luckingo.

Any suspicion of a double of favorites was spoiled when Sweepogan, third in his last start, got up to take the second race at better than 6 to 1. Dead Ready, the popular choice, finished out of the money. Sweepogan returned $15.40, winning by three-quarters of a length. The daily double then paid $43.20.

Form Players Rally.

The form players rallied in the third when Flying Doll and Emporium, co-choices with Charlotte G., ran one-two. Flying Doll, ridden by Pete McLean, won like a 2 to 5 shot, coming up to the wire four lengths ahead of Emporium. The Beyda filly paid $8.40.

The folks who watched Mountkala run a great race in his last time out at Sportsman's remained faithful enough to make him a 4 to 1 choice in the fourth race. Jocky Bodiou brought him up on the outside in the back stretch and from there on there never was any doubt about who was the winner. Ultidue was second and Dusky Maid third.

Spaniels Run in Two Trials This Week-End

BY BOB BECKER.

Cocker spaniels and English springer spaniels of the middle west will compete in the field trial to be held this Saturday and Sunday by the Cocker Spaniel Club of the Middle West. The trial will be run at the Blackheath Country club, between Northbrook and Deerfield on Waukegan road [U. S. route 42A].

The events on the program include puppy, novice, and open stakes for cockers; nonwinners and open stakes for springers, and possibly an open stake for Clumbers. The trials will start at 9 a. m. both mornings. The judges are O. H. Kale, Benton Harbor, Mich., and J. A. Blow, Deerfield. Further information about the trial may be obtained from J. Paul Bishop, chairman of the field trial committee, 124 Eastern avenue, Clarendon Hills.

The open springer stake included on the program of the cocker club's trial gives owners of these dogs two chances to run them during one week-end. The Midwest Field Trial club is holding its annual fall retriever trials Saturday and Sunday at the Biltmore Country club near Barrington, and a springer stake is included on the schedule of events. The springer stake will be staged Saturday and the next day the cocker spaniel club will hold its stake for springers.

If the cocker spaniel club's trial brings into action not only cockers but a good entry of springer spaniels and some Clumber spaniels, these breeds plus the entries of Labrador retrievers, Chesapeake Bays, goldens, flat coated retrievers, and possibly an Irish water spaniel or two will give dog fanciers and hunters a splendid opportunity to watch many different breeds on game during one week-end.

Officers of the Cocker club were advised some weeks ago that several Clumber spaniels, raised and trained in Iowa, would be entered in a special open stake for that breed.

Miss Markham Star Rider at Kansas City Horse Show

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Miss Jane Markham, Chicago, rode three out of four place winners in the ladies' hunter class at the American Royal horse show tonight. She won the event with Ilderton, a brown gelding owned by Stanley Luke, La Grange, Ill. Miss Markham cleaned up with Master Johnny, owned by Mrs. A. C. Thompson of Chicago, and Activity, also a Luke horse. Other results included:

THREE GAITED SADDLE GELDINGS OVER 14-2 HANDS—Snuffy Smith, Red Top farm, Libertyville, Ill., second.

Manhattan Brewers Beat Wisla in Soccer, 8 to 1

SALESMAN SUES WASHINGTON PK. FOR CASH PRIZE

It is the contention of Joseph Bergman, president of a motor sales agency at 6525 South Western avenue, that he won a $1,000 prize picking winners at the Washington Park race track on Aug. 31. The jockey club, which offered the prize, decided that Attorney Hayes McKinney was the winner and Mr. Bergman got nothing.

Yesterday Bergman's suit to collect was called before Municipal Judge J. M. Braude. His attorney, Gregory A. Gelderman, said the contest rules promised that the person picking the largest number of winners in the first seven races should win. There was an added proviso that, in case of a tie, the best pick in the eighth race would determine the award. Bergman claimed he picked six winners, tying Hayes, and then outguessed him in the eighth, getting a win to the attorney's third.

BEARS AIM TO GET EVEN WITH RAMS ON SUNDAY

Plan to Give Alert Foes No Breaks.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Corby Davis.

Considerable awe accompanied the Cleveland Rams' victory over the powerful Detroit Lions two weeks ago. When a week later the lowly Rams conquered the Bears consternation reigned. In fact, in some sectors, notably Pittsburgh, it amounted to panic.

It is not likely that the confusion will continue through Sunday's game between the Bears and Rams on Wrigley field. It should not have prevailed in Cleveland. The Bears and Lions are much better football teams. But the fact that two title contenders lost should not have occasioned such surprise. No team in the National league this year is so superior to another that it can afford to be slovenly or careless.

Cellar occupants in each division have sufficient offense to whip the leaders if given the slightest break. This was the case at Cleveland, where one of the best back fields in football, finally supplemented with a passable line, was presented with opportunities in the form of Lion and Bear fumbles and seized both the fumbles and the opportunities.

Hope to Get Even.

The Bears are not apt to make the same mistake twice. They are after revenge Sunday. They realize now that if they do not qualify for the championship playoff it will be because of the 14 to 7 defeat by a team they should have whipped by a couple of touchdowns. What is more important, they have a high regard for Cleveland's offense and expect to meet a better team than the one to which they lost. The two weeks' layoff, brought about by the cancelation of the Pittsburgh game last Sunday, has permitted all Cleveland cripples to recover.

John Drake and Corby Davis, two old favorites in the Big Ten district, led the Rams' attack. Drake of Purdue and Davis of Indiana supply the power and punch in the Rams' back field. The speed and finesse is provided by Bob Snyder, a half back from Ohio university, and Bob Davis of Kentucky. Davis is one of the league's fleetest backs. Coach Art Lewis, the youngest coach in the National league, may elect to start Carl Brazell of Baylor. Brazell is an excellent passer.

Reserves Are Ready.

For relief Lewis can call on Julie Alfonse and Vic Spadaccini of Minnesota, Stan Pincura of Ohio State, Ed Goddard and Carl Littlefield of Washington State, and Dick Tuckey of Manhattan. Littlefield scored the touchdown that defeated the Bears. Tuckey played a major part in the Washington Redskins' attack against the All-Stars. He is an excellent passer and powerful plunger and is expected to strengthen the Rams, to whom he was sold last week.

Bob Davis has been out three weeks with a fractured rib, but is ready to face the Bears. Goddard had a dislocated elbow and Spadaccini suffered a head injury two weeks ago, but both are in shape again.

Cards Face Lions.

While the Bears are attempting to exact a measure of revenge on the revived Rams the Cardinals will be in Detroit trying to do their fellow townsmen a favor by whipping the Lions. The Cardinals' pass attack, now that it has been supplemented by a good running offensive, is expected to give the Lions a great deal of trouble. In fact, on the basis of their showing against the Bears last week the Cardinals stand a good chance of coming away from Detroit with their first victory over the Lions. They never have been able to beat the Lions since they were transferred from Portsmouth.

Al Babartsky, the former Fordham star, has bolstered the Cardinals at tackle, and the running attack has been made more effective by the plunging of Sam Agee and Buddy Parker, who jammed through the Bear line for sizable gains on Sunday. If the team can become as determined against the Lions as it was for the greater part of the game against the Bears, Dutch Clark and cohorts may be stripped of everything but a mathematical chance in the championship race by Sunday night. They already have lost two games, one to Cleveland and one to Washington.

Iowa Shows New Power in Scrimmage

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa football team showed new vigor today as the first cool weather of the season hit Iowa City. The Hawkeyes went through the freshmen in scrimmage for long gains on every play.

Coach Irl Tubbs was especially cheered by the tackling and blocking the squad displayed. The program of blocking, tackling, and pass defense will continue tomorrow, and the players will get a short tackling practice as late as Friday.

Chuck Brady and Bob Allen, regular guards, were still kept from heavy work due to minor injuries, and Red Olson, who was injured against Wisconsin, was still on the sidelines.

The Iowa back field was again composed of two sophomores, Jerry Niles and Ray Murphy, and a pair of juniors, Nile Kinnick and Russell Busk.

COLGATE QUARTER OUT.

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—With Bob Johnson, regular quarter back, definitly out of the lineup with injuries, Coach Andy Kerr this afternoon drilled Trey Coley, a sophomore, Bill Bartlett, a junior, and Mike Caseria, another sophomore, at the signal calling post as he prepared Colgate's Red Raiders for the Iowa game Saturday.

Coley played 54 minutes of the Columbia game after Johnson was injured, but neither of the other two have been in a game this fall. Hal Lube, forward passing star, is still out with an injury, but it is hoped he can play Saturday. Johnny Long and Wallie Davids have been alternating at his berth at left half back.

MARQUETTE LINE SET.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Marquette university's football line, with four sophomores in starting rôles, today appeared set for Saturday's game with Texas Christian here, but the back field still is uncertain. Coach Paddy Driscoll again is handicapped by injuries in preparing the team. Two first string backs, Dick Bilda and Norm Woods, have been unable to scrimmage.

Today's workout in brisk weather indicated that Gil Thomsen and Don Vosberg will start at the ends; Game Captain Carl Siefert and Ray Busler, tackles; Ray Apolskis and Bob Kemnitz, guards, and Eddie Niemi, center. Thomsen, Vosberg, Kemnitz, and Apolskis are sophomores.

STUDY IOWA STATE PLAYS.

Lawrence, Kas., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Kansas Jayhawkers worked out for the third straight day today against Iowa State plays. John Burge, who has been out with a skin ailment, was back today and he may be able to play Saturday. Frank Bukaty, back field man, who has been out several weeks with an injured shoulder, may be lost for the rest of the season because of an attack of jaundice.

GOPHERS STILL REST.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Minnesota's football squad continued its rest for the Northwestern game at Evanston one week from Saturday. Once more Bernie Bierman concentrated on his reserves in an effort to replenish the man power for the arduous last half of the schedule.

Wilson, Ingwersen, Halas to Address Chicago Illini

The Chicago Illini club will be hosts to Northwestern university alumni at its annual weekly luncheon meeting at Mandel Brothers at 12:15 p. m. today. K. L. Wilson, athletic director of Northwestern, Burt Ingwersen, Purple line coach, and George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, will speak. Wilson and Ingwersen were graduated from Illinois in 1920 and Halas in 1918.

Goodfellow Is Named Captain of Red Wings

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey league today elected Ebbie Goodfellow captain for the 1938-'39 season. He succeeds Doug Young, captain the last three years.

PABSTS GO INTO LEAD IN CLASSIC LEAGUE BOWLING

Football for the Fan

You Can't Enjoy a Game Without Knowledge of Rules.

[This is the tenth of a series of articles. The eleventh will appear tomorrow.]

THE RULES.

Let us consider a few playing rules. It is first down if any part of the ball is on or beyond the imaginary line drawn from the leading chain stick and parallel with the end of the field.

Remember also that a touchdown is made if any part of the ball is on, across, or over the goal line. Furthermore, a ball is dead at the point reached when the referee's whistle blows. For example, a referee seeing the ball carried to a point on the goal line will blow his whistle. In the finish of play, if the ball is found a yard in the field of play, it is a touchdown just the same.

A safety occurs when a team in possession of the ball is forced back beyond its own goal line. This counts two points against this team. If a ball is declared dead behind the goal line, it is a touchback. If you are not sure it was a safety or a touchback, watch what happens right afterward. If a team puts the ball in play on the 20 yard line by regular scrimmage formation, it was a touchback. If a team lines up for a free kick formation on the same yard line, you will know a safety has been scored.

On a free kick formation, a team lines up as in the kickoff and the kicker puts the ball in play by punt, drop kick, or place kick. The defending team must line up ten yards beyond the ball.

A player receiving a punt may raise his arm to signify that he intends to try for a fair catch. No opponents can interfere, but the man who catches the ball cannot run with it. If the ball is caught, play may then be resumed by scrimmage or free kick.

A free kick after a fair catch or after a safety and the kickoff are onside kicks. This means that every man back of the kicker is on side and has as much right to obtain possession of the ball as the team receiving. On punts the kicking team is eligible only to recover the ball after it has been touched by an opponent. A kickoff recovered beyond the opponents' goal line by one of the kicker's team is a touchdown.

If a kickoff goes over the goal line and becomes a touchback, it is put in play by scrimmage on the 20 yard line.

If a kickoff goes over the sideline the opponents can put the ball on the 35 yard line or fifteen yards in from where the ball crossed the sidelines.

A fumble which hits the ground can be recovered by the side carrying the ball and progress continued, but if received by the team not in possession of the ball, it is dead at the point of recovery. A ball which is fumbled and which does not strike the ground may be taken out of the air by either side and carried as far as the opponents will allow.

After a touchdown the scoring team, in trying for the extra point, may put the ball in play two or more yards from the end of the field—this, of course, makes the distance at least twelve yards from the goal posts. Any type of play from scrimmage may be tried—running, passing, or kicking.

Corrigan Will Oppose Loyola for De Paul

Bill Corrigan, regular quarter back on the De Paul university football team who was injured in the Montana game two weeks ago, may return to the lineup for the intersectional game with Loyola of New Orleans Saturday at Wrigley field.

John O'Donnell, who became the varsity center when Bob Immel was injured in the Illinois game, will remain there.

Capt. Tom Roberts and John McInerney still hold forth at tackles, while Frank Jenks and Jim Patek have played exceptionally well at guard.

Coach Larry Mullins and his Loyola squad will leave New Orleans today and arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning. They will be quartered at the Palmer house. The southerners won their first three games, then lost last week to Louisiana State.

Even If Budge Does Quit, U.S. May Keep Cup

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—While J. Donald Budge sits in California, ostensibly weighing the difference between $75,000 and $100,000, Walter Pate sits in New York and considers the problem of rebuilding the Davis cup team which required three years to weld into a successful unit.

Resigned as he seems to be to the supposition that the world amateur tennis champion will turn professional very shortly, Pate isn't as downcast as the occasion might warant.

People seem to take it for granted that, with Budge no longer available, the best team the United States can piece together in 1939 won't be able to stand off the challenge of Australia's Bromwich, Quist and company. The United States Davis cup team captain meets this attitude with a comprehensive reply.

He Calls It Ridiculous.

"It's ridiculous," Pate says. "It will be a terrific blow to lose Budge. But it doesn't mean the loss of the Davis cup is inevitable. Not by any means.

"If I had to start rebuilding right now, I'd make a singles player out of Gene Mako. It's true Gene is a great doubles man, but he also is potentially a fine singles player. However, he isn't the type who can play both well, as Budge can. Gene has to do one or the other.

"He proved his singles ability by beating Australia's John Bromwich in the national semi-finals. I feel sure he can beat Bromwich any time. I'm not worried about Australia's Adrian Quist because he's far weaker in singles than in doubles, whereas for our own No. 2 singles spot we have Bobby Riggs, Joe Hunt, and a lot of other good youngsters.

Need a New Doubles Team.

"Our main problem would be to build a new doubles team to replace Budge and Mako. That, of course, would be a big order—but I haven't got around to worrying about it yet."

When Pate last saw Budge about two weeks ago, Budge already had virtually decided to turn pro.

AGED INVALID TO SEE GRANDSON IN PRINCETON GAME

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Police Chief Timothy Leahy, of Cambridge, today granted a request for a special permit to drive an automobile into the Harvard stadium for the Princeton football game on Oct. 29 so that an aged Connecticut grandmother with an artificial leg might see her grandson perform on the stadium turf.

The request came from Weston C. Pullen of Norwich, Conn., who said his 79 year old mother-in-law—"swears up and down she is going to watch her grandson play even if she has to be carried into the stadium."

is the way one Phillies smoker puts it. "Any cigar smoker who doesn't know Phillies owes it to himself to try at least one of these great cigars. And if my experience means anything, it will be the best nickel he ever invested.

"He'll discover a cigar that has everything. It has the kind of fine Havana flavor it takes to satisfy a real cigar smoker. It has mildness and smoothness that invites you to light up as often as you like. And only 5c. I always get a kick out of introducing a fellow smoker to Phillies."

PLANNERS PERIL U. S. ENTERPRISE, SAYS CAR MAKER

Hoffman Warns Liberty Faces Destruction.

"Planned economy, if continued in its present course, will lead inevitably to destruction of free business enterprise in America. If free business enterprise is destroyed civil and religious freedom then will quickly perish.

This warning was given to members of the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday by Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker corporation, automobile manufacturer. He spoke at the Palmer house.

Paul G. Hoffman.

Economic planners reach a point where, if they are to continue their efforts, they must exert immediate control over every individual in the state, Hoffman said. To get this control, he added, they must destroy free business enterprise. To accomplish this they must first destroy individual civil liberty, Hoffman declared.

Must Destroy Christianity.

Religious liberty must go next, he said, because the doctrin of Christianity is incompatible with that of the economic planners whose aim is the totalitarian state.

"If any one thinks better living conditions are obtained under the economic planning of the totalitarian state, let them look at the record of dictator nations, both past and present," Hoffman continued. "In the earlier dictatorships the masses of the people lived on starvation or subsistence levels, and the same goes for people living under modern dictators.

Cites Living Conditions.

"The people of Italy, Germany, and Russia traded their liberty for a loaf of bread and now they are not even getting their loaf of bread.

Even with depressed business conditions, living conditions of America so far surpass those of the dictatorships that they are not comparable."

PRICES OF CORN RISE AS EUROPE REVIVES BUYING

A revival in European demand for American cash corn yesterday resulted in more active buying of futures. The Chicago market closed ½ to ⅞ cent a bushel higher. Export sales in all positions were estimated at 800,000 bushels. Short covering and smaller offerings of cash grain for deferred shipment from the country assisted in the advance.

Wheat, oats, and rye were affected to some extent by the action of corn. Wheat futures closed at net gains of ⅝ to ¾ cent. Winnipeg wheat was ¼ cent higher.

Reports that there had been further export sales of soy beans led to short coverings and closing sales on futures were at net gains of 1½ to 2½ cents a bushel. Market interests estimated that 200,000 to 300,000 bushels had been sold for export this week.

HALT PRICE WAR IN STEEL TRADE; CUTS CANCELED

Move Follows Fight for Auto Business.

The price war in the steel industry appeared yesterday to be ended. Although no steel company executives would make a statement or would comment officially on the price situation, it was well established that price reductions totaling $6 a ton made in the last week have been canceled.

Most of the price cutting that has been done in the last few months appears to have originated in the Detroit and other automobile manufacturing centers. In these areas steel companies, large and small, have been bidding against each other to capture the huge orders for steel released by the automobile companies.

First Cut $4 a Ton.

On Oct. 11 it was disclosed that some companies had cut prices $4 a ton for hot and cold rolled sheets and hot rolled strips—products used largely by the automobile industry. The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and other important companies announced immediately that they would meet the competitive prices.

Later in the week it was disclosed that a further reduction of $2 a ton had been made. This brought the total cut to $6 a ton. On Tuesday it was disclosed that the price of galvanized steel sheets—not used to any great extent by the automobile industry—also had been cut $4 a ton.

What induced the various steel companies to withdraw their latest cuts is a matter of conjecture.

Most Mills Losing Money.

It has been stated frequently by steel company executives lately, however, that either steel prices would have to be raised again or wages cut. On the basis of present prices, most companies are operating in the red, officials say.

Prior to the recent outcrop of price cutting, the steel industry this year had made two price reductions on the steel used largely in the automobile industry and one on rails. The cut on rails and track materials was made Sept. 19 and ranged from $2 to $5 a ton.

On Feb. 9 there was a reduction of $4 a ton on the type of steel used by the automobile industry. On June 24 leading companies cut prices by amounts varying from $2.50 to $11 a ton, with most of the reductions averaging $4 a ton on the steel used by the automobile companies. The June 24 adjustment also resulted in a further cut through a change in the old method of basing prices at Pittsburgh.

Disturbed Conditions Noted.

Disturbed conditions have prevailed for some weeks in the steel industry as a result of the tense price situation. This situation is reported to have caused some purchasers to hold up orders in the hope of getting still lower prices.

Iron Age reported yesterday that steel ingot production declined to 51 per cent of the mills' operating capacity. It called this reduction insignificant. Last week's rate was at 51.5 per cent of capacity.

"Aggregate bookings of many mills have increased during the past week and are running ahead of those of September," Iron Age said.

Stocks Climb Twice, Only to Close Lower

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 19.—Stock market prices closed irregularly lower today on a turnover of 2,433,890 shares. After an early rise and a short lived rally on reports that auto steel price cuts had been canceled, prices settled back to early low levels at the close.

Losses in leading issues ranged from fractions to around two points. Industrial issues were hardest hit, the Dow-Jones average for the group dropping 2.0? points to 150.02. Carriers displayed some resistance and closed around previous finals. Utilities declined all along the line.

Market Opens Higher.

The market opened higher on good demand for automobile and motor equipment shares. Blocks running to 15,000 shares changed hands. The bulge inspired the dumping of stocks, however, and the advance was checked. Continued supply forced the list downward until the steel price news appeared. Then came the short rally and the final sell-off.

Steel shares which had been soft proved most buoyant on the price news and most vulnerable to the late selling. After losses reaching two points were wiped out, leaders moved backward again to their lows of the day. United States Steel lost two points. Bethlehem and Youngstown both dropped 1⅞. Republic and Crucible slipped fractions.

Motor Shares Slip.

Leading motors slipped back after approaching or passing previous 1938 high levels. General Motors was in constant supply and dropped 1⅝ points. Chrysler slumped 2⅜ points, Yellow Truck sank 1 point.

Aviation issues were active and higher in the forenoon, but selling in the afternoon substituted losses ranging from fractions to 2 points for similar gains. Curtiss-Wright, Bendix Aviation ,and North American Aviation were prominent on the downside, with declines reaching 1¼ points. Other weak spots were Douglas, off 2½ points; Boeing, off 1⅞, and United Aircraft, off ⅝.

Rail issues accompanied the motors in the higher opening and continued in fairly good demand until mid-afternoon. Selling then broke out against the group and advances were pared and in some instances replaced by small fractional losses.

Losses in the coppers ran to 2¼ points. That loss was chalked up by American Smelting and Phelps Dodge.

SEISMOGRAPH IS PUT IN 'REVERSE' TO FIND WHERE THERE ISN'T OIL

Centralia, Ill., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The seismograph, the instrument oil operators use in locating oil bearing areas, has been put to a new use to find an area where there isn't any oil.

Centralia city officials, fearful that their city reservoir in the midst of a rich oil field, would become contaminated by oil waste, were seeking a site for a new reservoir.

Today a seismograph crew was operating at one of the proposed sites to make sure an oil field would not be developed there.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS DROP IN QUARTER

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Income tax collections in the first quarter of the fiscal year declined nearly $9,000,000 compared with the same period last year, the internal revenue bureau reported today. There was a drop of $55,506,503 in all internal revenue.

Corporation income taxes increased by $12,491,585 in the current quarter over the corresponding period last year. Individual income tax payments declined by $21,475,182, making a net decrease of $8,983,596.

In September, a quarter income tax collection month, there was a similar decline. Corporation income tax payments increased by $11,439,492 over September of last year, but individual income tax collections dropped by $18,711,989. This made an over all decrease of $7,272,397.

Excise taxes on liquor, cigarets, automobiles and other products declined 10 per cent in the first quarter of the current fiscal year because of the business recession and the repeal of some taxes.

MASSACHUSETTS INVESTORS TRUST ADDS HOLDINGS

Massachusetts Investors Trust reported yesterday that it added to its stock holdings in the three months ended Sept. 30. Cash invested in the period totaled $2,750,000 in addition to funds received on sale of new shares.

Net asset value of the company's stock amounted to $20.69 a share on Sept. 30 compared with $20.13 on June 30. Stocks purchased included United States Gypsum. Holdings were increased in stocks of American Tobacco, Anaconda Copper, Continental Can, Eastman Kodak and General Motors. Holdings of National Steel and Lake Shore Mines shares were liquidated.

International Mining corporation, an investing company, reported the net asset a share of common stock as of Sept. 30 totaled $13.18 a share. This compared with $13.42 a share as of June 30.

I. C. C. Examiners Approve More Mail Pay for TWA

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Two interstate commerce commissioners today recommended an increase in the air mail compensation for Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc. They recommended an increase in the rate from 24 to 30 cents per airplane mile, for a base mileage of 600,000 miles, on the route from Newark, N. J., to Los Angeles, Cal. The report said it should be made retroactive to June 30, 1937.

Ohio Power Co. Offers Issue of 55 Millions

A $55,000,000 issue of bonds of the Ohio Power company will be offered to the public today. This will be the second large offering this week, an $80,000,000 refunding issue of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois having been sold yesterday.

The Ohio Power offering consists of thirty year 3¼ per cent first mortgage bonds. They will be offered at 101½ and interest, to yield 3.172 per cent to maturity. Dillon, Read & Co. heads a syndicate of about eighty firms offering the issue.

Proceeds to Refund Debt.

The proceeds will be used toward refunding obligations which bear a higher rate of interest. About $61,414,000 of funded debt and $3,810,000 of loans will be paid with the proceeds and $10,000,000 more to be obtained from the sale of ten year 3½ per cent notes to banks. It is estimated that the financing will save the company about $680,000 a year in interest.

The Ohio Power offering and that of Public Service of Northern Illinois have injected fresh life into the market for new securities, investment interests said.

Issue Heavily Oversubscribed.

The Public Service issue was one of the largest offered this year. Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., head of the offering syndicate, said the issue was heavily oversubscribed. Offered at 103 the bonds were quoted at 104¼ at one time yesterday and closed at about 104 to 104¼.

Firestone Tire and Rubber company filed an amended registration statement with the SEC yesterday covering its $50,000,000 issue of ten year 3½ per cent debentures. The amendment contains a list of the underwriters for the issue. Among those taking the largest amounts were Brown, Harriman & Co., Inc., New York, and Otis & Co., Cleveland, each listed for $5,000,000.

AIR PASSENGER MILEAGE SETS ALL TIME HIGH

Air lines of the United States flew more revenue passenger miles in September than in any other month in their history. Col. Edgar S. Gorrell, president of the Air Transport Association of America, announced the month's results yesterday.

Revenue passenger miles flown amounted to 49,480,616, a 7.4 per cent increase over August mileage, Gorrell said. The September total also was a 4.9 per cent increase over passenger miles traveled in the corresponding month of 1937.

In the first nine months of 1938 the nation's air companies flew 345,906,887 passenger miles. This also was an all time high mark.

Truckers Attack Cart License Fees as Illegal

The Chicago cart license fee was attacked yesterday as unconstitutional. The Illinois Motor Truck Operators association started an action before Municipal Judge Oscar Caplan to have the fee license thrown out. The truck operators declare that the large number of taxes they must pay threatens to put them out of business. The city cart fee, put into effect last year by the city council, ranges from $7 to $15 per truck.

NAT'L GYPSUM, PHILIP MORRIS EARNINGS RISE

But Most Companies Show Declines.

More corporations yesterday reported the results of third quarter operations. Earnings of most of the companies were less than in the corresponding 1937 period. A few reporting companies showed losses.

The National Gypsum company, manufacturer of building materials, was an exception in reporting third quarter earnings larger than last year. Net income for the three months ended Sept. 30 was $355,505, equal to 22 cents a share. This compared with $199,900, or 10 cents a share, in the corresponding 1937 period. For the first nine months of the year earnings also topped last year, amounting to $751,008, against $709,780.

Philip Morris Earns More.

Higher earnings also were shown by Philip Morris & Co., cigaret manufacturer. For the six months ended Sept. 30 the company had net income of $3,157,967, equal after preferred dividends to $5.95 a share on the common stock. In the corresponding 1937 period profit was $3,136,433.

The Corn Products Refining company was another reporting better earnings. For the quarter ended Sept. 30 it had a net income of $2,066,488, or 65 cents a share, compared with $661,154, or 9 cents a common share, in the third quarter last year. Nine months' profit was $7,113,111 or $2.30 a share, against $5,003,040, or $1.46 a share, in the corresponding period of 1937.

Large companies reporting lower third quarter earnings included William Wrigley Jr. company, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing, Bendix Aviation, and General Cigar.

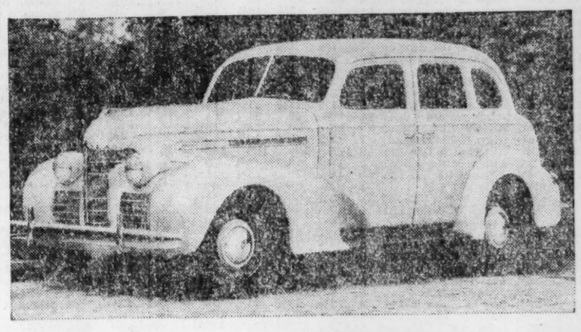
Wrigley Net Dips to $2,081,880.

Wrigley's September quarter net income was $2,081,880, equal to $1.06 a share, against $2,385,637, or $1.21 a share, last year. For the first nine months of 1938 net income was $5,464,486, or $2.77 a share, compared with $6,740,538, or $3.43 a share, in the corresponding 1937 period.

The third quarter net income of Westinghouse Electric, large manufacturer of heavy machinery, fell to $1,712,220, President George H. Bucher reported. This contrasted with net income of $2,469,372 in the June quarter this year and $5,394,748 in the September quarter last year.

Bendix Aviation earned $89,794, or 4 cents a share, in the third quarter compared with $279,207, or 13 cents a share, last year. A loss of $406,205 was incurred in the first nine months compared with a profit of $1,911,168 in the corresponding months of 1937.

1939 Oldsmobile Makes Debut Today



The picture shows the new Oldsmobile small six cylinder car for 1939. It is a new line for Oldsmobile. With it the company hopes to capture a part of the low price business.

Chrysler Auto Output Lifted by 20 Per Cent

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Chrysler corporation, to meet rising demand for automobiles, has increased production 20 per cent, K. T. Keller, president, announced here today.

"The order situation has improved steadily week by week during the last month," Keller said. Open orders on the company's books today call for a total of 137,000 new 1939 passenger cars, he reported.

Expect Further Increases.

"Since Aug. 1 the corporation has recalled 34,000 employés," Keller said. "We now have approximately 54,000 men at work in our plants and expect employment will increase right along into November.

"Current business is brisk and we hope that the demand will continue to show such vitality as to make it necessary for us to increase our schedules again. Until we get into full production we are getting as rapid retail turnover as physical movement of the cars will permit. Meanwhile, stocks of cars in dealers' hands are 31,500 today, as against 98,000 at this time a year ago."

Knudsen Predicts Big Gain.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—An expansion of 25 to 33 per cent in American automobile production in 1939 compared with 1938 levels was predicted here today by William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors corporation. Because of the large part played by the motor industry in the economic life of the United States any revival in that industry will probably have a favorable effect on other industries, Knudsen pointed out.

Foreign Moneys Extend Gains Against Dollar

Foreign currencies extended their advance in terms of the dollar yesterday at New York. The British pound closed 1⅜ cents higher at $4.77⅜. French francs rose 0.00625 cent at 2.67625 cents.

RIDING QUALITY IS IMPROVED IN NEW OLDSMOBILE

1939 Models Offered in Three Lines.

The 1939 Oldsmobiles will make their public debut today. Featuring new riding qualities, they will be offered in three lines, two sixes and an eight. One of the sixes is a new line for Oldsmobile, bringing this manufacturer into the low price field.

The new six is powered by a 90 horsepower engine which is designed to provide top performance at a minimum operating cost. The larger six develops 95 horsepower and the eight cylinder engine develops 110 horsepower.

Riding Qualities Better.

Oldsmobile offers this year in all its lines a new springing system which, it says, greatly improves riding qualities. In this system coil springs are used both in the front and the rear. To control the action of the coil springs the company's engineers have developed four stabilizing factors which are built into the chassis.

These stabilizers have been designed to check vertical movement, fore and aft movement, and side to side movement. The tendency of the car to roll or sway on a curve is resisted with a new spring stabilizer bar at the front of the chassis.

Steering Mechanism Improved.

The steering mechanism has been improved. Other betterments include placing of the gear shift lever on the steering wheel post, greater visibility through increased glass areas in windshields and windows, and an improved clutch. The automatic transmission introduced last year is optional.

The 1939 Oldsmobiles also feature streamlines. The front of the car is broad at the base. The headlights rest on the broad fenders. Running boards are optional.

U. S. WAGE-HOUR BOARD FLOODED WITH INQUIRIES

Lacks Time, Funds to Complete Task.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Wage-hour officials decided today that thousands of questions about the fair labor standards act would have to be left unanswered when the law becomes effective Monday.

They said neither time nor funds would permit them to answer half the inquiries coming into the office of Elmer F. Andrews, administrator, at the rate of 1,000 daily.

Congress appropriated $400,000 for first operations of the law, but Andrews said today that much more would be needed to do the best possible job of interpreting the act.

Discuss Need of Money.

Andrews and his officials are discussing a supplemental appropriation, but agree that it cannot be made available until about March 1. The original allocation presumably was to last until the beginning of the fiscal year next July 1.

Andrews' aids said lack of appropriations had permitted employment of only four lawyers in the legal department. Twelve regional offices designed to assist the Washington force of eighty will not be set up until additional money becomes available.

The money pinch is being felt particularly in connection with the creation of industry committees. These committees will be empowered to recommend a minimum wage higher than the statutory 25 cent level. Only one such committee—for the textile industry—has been appointed.

Apparel Group May Be Next.

Asked when other committees would be created, Andrews said:

"It looks as though apparel would be next, then boots and shoes. When we will go ahead with more committees depends on how soon we can get additional funds."

During the day Andrews met again with representatives of the apparel industry, who have asked appointment of an industry committee. Yesterday representatives of management and labor in men's apparel plants decided to ask for a single committee for all types of men's, women's, and children's outer wear. But Andrews reported that the delegation reversed its decision today and wanted three separate committees.

Advise Brokers to Apply Law.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Members of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms were advised by the association today to consider themselves bound by the wages and hour law until such time as administrators or courts decide the question.

SEARS' AND THREE SISTERS' NEW STORES TO OPEN

Sears, Roebuck & Co. today will open its new store at the northeast corner of Irving Park road and Cicero avenue. Ceremonies opening the newly constructed, modern department store to serve the northwest side will begin at 9 a. m. City officials, company executives and community leaders will take part.

A new women's apparel store will be opened today at 127 South State street by Three Sisters, Inc. It is the second Three Sisters store on State street and the fifth to be opened in the metropolitan area since the first was opened three years ago.

Use of Superior Iron Ore Largest Since November

Cleveland, O., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Consumption of Lake Superior iron ore during September amounted to 2,313,865 tons, a new high mark since November of last year. The Lake Superior Iron Ore association reported today that consumption in August this year totaled 2,076,819 tons and in September, 1937, 5,157,411 tons. The number of furnaces in blast using lake ores increased to 76 in September, also a new peak since last November.

Later he left to establish a statistical department for Swift & Co.

Directors of the 12th Street store have elected the following officers, all of whom have been with the store for more than twenty-five years: Harry Okin, former secretary, chairman of the board; James A. Walsh, former vice president, president; Joseph Simon, a former buyer, vice president; Isadore Shalowitz, secretary and treasurer; Mortimore L. Prindiville, assistant secretary, and I. Friedman, assistant treasurer.

PAY-HOUR CHIEF DEFINES PERSONS WHO ARE EXEMPT

Describes 4 Classes Law Will Not Affect.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, today issued definitions under the wage-hour law which will become effective Monday. The definitions covered professionals, executives, outside salesmen, and persons engaged in a retail capacity, all of whom will be exempt from the fair labor standards act. He announced also that hearings on pleas for revision of definitions will be permitted.

Elmer F. Andrews.

The definitions were:

Professional—A professional is any employé [A] who is customarily and regularly employed in work

[1] Predominately intellectual and varied in character as opposed to routine mental, manual, mechanical, or physical work, and

[2] Requiring the consistent exercise of discretion of judgment both as to the manner and time of performance as opposed to work subject to active direction and supervision, and

[3] Of such a character that the output produced or result accomplished cannot be standardized in relation to a given period of time, and

[4] Based upon educational training in a specially organized body of knowledge as distinguished from a general academic education and from an apprenticeship and from training in the performance of routine mental, manual, mechanical, or physical processes in accordance with a previously indicated or standardized formula, plan, or procedure, and [B] who does no substantial amount of work of the same nature as that performed by nonexempt employés of the employer.

"Executive" Explained.

Executive and administrative:

The term "employé employed in a bona fide executive and administrative capacity" in section 13 [A] [1] of the act shall mean any employé whose primary duty is the management of the establishment, or a customarily recognized department thereof, in which he is employed, and who customarily and regularly directs the work of other employés therein, and who has the authority to hire and fire other employés or whose suggestions and recommendations as to the hiring and firing and as to the advancement and promotion or any other change of status of other employés will be given particular weight, and who customarily and regularly exercises discretionary powers, and who does no substantial amount of work of the same nature as that performed by nonexempt employés of the employer, and who is compensated for his services at not less than $30 [exclusive of board, lodging, or other facilities] for a work week.

Local Retailing.

Local retailing capacity:

The term "employé employed in a bona fide . . . local retailing capacity" in section 13 [A] [1] of the act shall mean any employé who customarily and regularly is engaged in making retail sales the greater part of which are in intrastate commerce, or who performs work immediately incidental thereto, such as the wrapping or delivery of packages, and who does no substantial amount of work of the same nature as that performed by nonexempt employés of the employer.

Outside Salesmen.

Outside salesmen:

The term "employé employed . . . in the capacity of outside salesman" in section 13 [A] [1] of the act shall mean any employé who customarily and regularly performs his work away from his employer's place or places of business, who is customarily and regularly engaged in making sales as defined in section 3 [K] of the act and who does no substantial amount of work of the same nature as that performed by non-exempt employés of the employer. For the purposes of this definition, recurrent routine deliveries, whether or not prior orders are placed by the purchasers, and collections, shall not be considered sales.

Section 3 [K] of the act says that the terms sale or sell include any sale, exchange, contract to sell, consignment for sale, shipment for sale, or other disposition.

Hides to Lether—14.

American shoe factories last year turned out 411,969,000 pairs of footwear, nearing the 1936 peak of 415,227,000. The growth of the industry is marked by the tense competition in retail stores. Marketing of shoes, especially for women, has been stimulated with advertising, eye-turning displays and the tendency toward centralized shoe markets.

The shoe industry has the largest appetite for cattle hides. It is observed that the surplus of hides as the result of the 1934 drouth slaughtering has been reduced by increased consumption of lether in 1936 and 1937.

The entire lether industry in 1937 consumed 21,564,000 cattle hides and 22,294,000 in 1936. For the first seven months this year the industry bought 11,164,000 hides, indicating that consumption is keeping pace with that of the previous years.

POWER LINES AUTHORIZED.

The Illinois commerce commission authorized the Public Service company of Northern Illinois to construct and operate 53.10 miles of rural electric distribution line in Cook, Will, Kendall, La Salle, Livingston, and Woodford counties.

IS IT YOU?

Somewhere in or near Chicago is a man who will meet our requirements. He must be on the road up, either married or aiming to make that step as soon as possible. This is a new business to most men—therefore the only requirement is a good education, age 21-45, with a strong and definite determination to make good; some selling experience will be assets, but is not essential. We will train you in our progressive educational enterprise by showing you actual results in the field. WE WORK ON DIRECT LEADS. No canvassing. Earnings on substantial percentage to start. This man will earn $36 to $70 per week average from beginning.

2 men also who have had insurance debit experience, credit or collection experience, to qualify for our established debit routes.

Call in person Thursday—Local Executive Offices, 203 N. Wabash, Suite 818. Ask for Personnel Director, 11 a. m., 2 and 3 p. m.

NOT SELLING MERCHANDISE.

Apply in person to employment manager.

SOMETHING UNUSUAL.

We will accept 3 men at once who live in Rogers Park or North Shore suburbs and let them have thorough schooling at our factory branch in the city at our expense, and place them immediately in permanent connection. Previous experience not important as the method of presenting the electric unit is so unusual that anyone must be able to live on $100 first month while learning how to qualify for higher percentage incomes; and must be over 24. Apply Thursday, Oct. 20, 10:30 a. m. Rogers Park Hotel, 6805 North Sheridan-road. Ask for Mr. Doue.

Attention, Sales Managers.
